Nineteenth-Century British Literature Then and Now Simon Dentith, 2016-05-06 Envisioning today's readers as poised between an impossible attempt to read texts as their original readers experienced them and an awareness of our own temporal moment Simon Dentith complicates traditional prejudices against hindsight to approach issues of interpretation and historicity in nineteenth century literature Suggesting that the characteristic aesthetic attitude encouraged by the backward look is one of irony rather than remorse or regret he examines works by Charles Dickens George Eliot Anthony Trollope William Morris and John Ruskin in terms of their participation in significant histories that extend to this day Liberalism class gender political representation and notions of progress utopianism and ecological concern as currently understood can be traced back to the nineteenth century Just as today's critics strive to respect the authenticity of nineteenth century writers and readers who responded to these ideas within their historical world so too do those nineteenth century imaginings persist to challenge the assumptions of the present It is therefore possible Dentith argues to conceive of the act of reading historical literature with an awareness of the historical context and of the difference between the past and the present while allowing that friction or difference to be part of how we think about a text and how it communicates His book summons us to consider how words travel to the reality of the reader's own time and how engagement with nineteenth century writers' anticipation of the judgements of future generations reveal hindsight's capacity to transform our understanding of the past in the light of subsequent knowledge

Neo-Victorian Madness Sarah E. Maier, Brenda Ayres, 2020-06-01 Neo Victorian Madness Rediagnosing Nineteenth Century Mental Illness in Literature and Other Media investigates contemporary fiction cinema and television shows set in the Victorian period that depict mad murderers lunatic doctors social dis-ease and madhouses as if many Victorians were mad Such portraits demand a rediagnosing of mental illness that was often reduced to only female hysteria or a general malaise in nineteenth century renditions This collection of essays explores questions of neo Victorian representations of moral insanity mental illness disturbed psyches or non normative imaginings as well as considers the important issues of legal righteousness social responsibility or methods of restraint and corrupt incarcerations The chapters investigate the self-conscious re-visions legacies and lessons of nineteenth century discourses of madness and or those persons presumed mad rediagnosed by present day neo Victorian representations informed by post nineteenth century psychological insights The fifth (-thirteenth) annual report Juvenile association for promoting the education of the deaf and dumb poor of Ireland,1832

The Spectator ,2006 Culture Wars in British Literature Tracy J. Prince,2012-09-21 The past century s culture wars that Britain has been consumed by but that few North Americans seem aware of have resulted in revised notions of Britishness and British literature Yet literary anthologies remain anchored to an archaic Anglo English interpretation of British literature Conflicts have been played out over specific national vs British identity some residents prefer to describe themselves as being from Scotland England Wales or Northern Ireland instead of Britain in debates over immigration race ethnicity class and gender and in arguments over British literature These debates are strikingly detailed in such chapters as The Difficulty Defining Black British British Jewish Writers and Xenophobia and the Booker Prize Connections are also drawn between civil rights movements in the U S and UK This generalist cultural study is a lively read and a fascinating glimpse into Britain s changing identity as reflected in 20th and 21st century British literature Stories in Letters - Letters in Stories Rebekka Schuh,2021-10-04 This book deals with letters in Anglophone Canadian short stories of the late twentieth and the early twenty first century in the context of liminality It argues that in the course of the epistolary renaissance the letter which has often been deemed to be obsolete in literature has not only enjoyed an upsurge in novels but also migrated to the short story thus constituting the genre of the epistolary short story Rewriting/Reprising Georges Letissier,2009-10-02 This volume comprises sixteen essays preceded by an introductory chapter focusing on the diverse modalities of textual and more widely artistic transfer Whereas the first Rewriting Reprising volume coord by C Maisonnat J Paccaud Huguet its subversive potential is perceptible notably through its many attempts at emancipating the genre from the ideological fetters of gender Over the past two decades Victorian literature and culture has become an inescapable field of investigations to any study on intertextuality in the English speaking world In a second part diversity has been preferred to any single specific angle to approach the Victorian neo Victorian tropism The purpose is to provide as complete a spectrum as is reasonably possible in such a volume The practice of rewriting in the Victorian age is thus studied alongside contemporary appropriations of the Victorian canon The question is raised of whether literary fetishism may not result in a form of counterfeit classicism while the more challenging neo Victorian rewritings would make a claim for the need to choose one s literary heritage and ancestors This is where the post colonial agenda comes in Precisely the third part investigates the question of rewriting reprising as a way of writing back The myth of Frankenstein s creature bent on wreaking vengeance on his creator is of course seminal as it offers a myth of transgression which in its turn becomes a foundation myth Not only are post colonial responses to their disclaimed parent texts highly theory informed but they also evince an awareness of such contemporary issues which are direct consequences of the colonial past In the last section of this volume the scope of what comes within the range of intertextuality per se is widened to cover artistic dialogism In the exchanges between theatrical texts reprise may be construed as a metaphor standing for the pleasure inherent in the process of recreation The interaction between embedded paintings and the embedding canvas offers yet another variation on the reprise motif as does the meta aesthetic discourse of the critic on the work of art What begins as mere repetition is soon colored by the personal inflections of the interpreter In operatic performances updating a classical text to make it suitable to contemporary audiences and in close harmony with the role assigned to music is liable to spur on the creativity of recreation

Epistolary Encounters in Neo-Victorian Fiction K. Brindle, 2014-01-24 Neo Victorian writers invoke conflicting viewpoints in diaries letters etc to creatively retrace the past in fragmentary and contradictory ways This book explores the complex desires involved in epistolary discoveries of hidden Victorians offering new insight into the creative synthesising of critical thought within the neo Victorian novel

Neo-Victorianism Ann Heilmann, Mark Llewellyn, 2010-07-28 This field defining book offers an interpretation of the recent figurations of neo Victorianism published over the last ten years Using a range of critical and cultural viewpoints it highlights the problematic nature of this new genre and its relationship to re interpretative critical perspectives on the nineteenth century
