global market locked in a struggle that revolves around technological ingenuity The Lever of Riches with its keen analysis derived from a sweeping survey of creativity throughout history offers telling insights into the question of how Western economies can maintain and developing nations can unlock their creative potential The Concise Oxford Companion to African American Literature William L. The Publishers' Circular and Booksellers' Record of British and Foreign Literature, 1899 The London Review of Politics, Society, Literature, Art, & Science, 1865 Responding to Site Jennie Klein, Natalie Loveless, 2020-12-31 This book focuses on the performance art of Marilyn Arsem an internationally acclaimed performance artist known for her innovative and experimental work Arsem's work addresses women's history and myth making capacities the potency of site and geography the idea of the audience as witnesses and the intimacy of one to one works One of the most prolific performance artists working in the United States today Arsem performs carefully choreographed durational actions that are developed site responsively and range from deceptively simple interventions to elaborately orchestrated actions This edited volume seeks to extend Arsem's legacy beyond the audiences of her live performances and enter her work into the lexicon of the art world. Accompanied by 200 images, this book will be of interest to scholars and students of performance studies, feminist performance, feminist art history, and performance history. It will also contribute to the history of alternative spaces and galleries, which is only now being written. I have had the privilege of knowing Marilyn for over 30 years. Her work has given me so many epiphanies about live art, time-based art practice, and durational performance practice. How and why do you choose a single action and enact it over an extended period of time? How do you respond to site and create a sacred, meditational zone, a reflexive space about the human condition? And most importantly, how do you teach future generations about the importance of living while making art as a spiritual and philosophical practice? This book is yet another example of Arsem's legacy. Fundamental, I'd say. Guillermo Gómez-Peña's Watching Marilyn Arsem Perform can be a slow, careful, vulnerable, and heart-stoppingly profound experience. To see her is to know better the complex intermingling particularities of body, space, time, being, and action. Reading this comprehensive, lucidly written, and deeply insightful book, the first significant publication on Arsem's practice as a performance artist, will enable new perspectives on a major artist's work. It also sheds vivid light upon enduring themes: the critical encounter with art, duration, and doing; materiality and nothingness; truth and representation; commitment and experiment; togetherness and solitude; experience and endurance. Dominic Johnson, Queen Mary University of London.

Harriette Simpson Arnow Haeja K. Chung, 2012-01-01. At her death in 1986, Harriette Simpson Arnow left a modest collection of published work: ten short stories, five novels, two non-fiction books, a short autobiography, and nineteen essays and book reviews. Although the sum is small, her writing has been examined from regionalist, Marxist, feminist, and other critical perspectives. The 1970s saw the first serious attempts to revive interest in Arnow. In 1971, Tillie Olsen identified her as a writer whose books of great worth suffer the death of being unknown or, at best, a peculiar eclipsing. Joyce Carol Oates wrote in The New York Times Book Review that Arnow's The Dollmaker is our most unpretentious American masterpiece. In the 1990s, it is appropriate to take stock of her earlier work and to prompt reexamination of this powerful yet poorly understood writer. This collection of critical essays examines traditional as well as new interpretations of Arnow and her work. It also suggests future directions for Arnow scholarship and includes studies of all of Arnow's writing, fiction and non-fiction, published and unpublished.
