

present, future. Lucky, I have three magic daughters." He tapped his finger on his temple. "Your father, always thinking."

He took the ring he called the past and tried it on Mami's finger. The twisting green foliage mesmerized her. The carving was deep—branches beyond branches. Impossible that anyone could carve a thing so small.

"This all jade."

She jerked her hand, and the ring flipped to the floor. Her father knelt down and swept it back into the box.
"Too big. We wait for later." The box

Transferred Illusions Professor Kathryn Sutherland, Professor Marilyn Deegan, 2012-10-01 This is a study of the forms and institutions of print newspapers books scholarly editions publishing libraries as they relate to and are changed by emergent digital forms and institutions In the early 1990s hypertext was briefly hailed as a liberating writing tool for non linear creation Fast forward no more than a decade and we are reading old books from screens It is however the newspaper for around two hundred years print s most powerful mass vehicle whose economy persuasively shapes its electronic remediation through huge digitization initiatives dominated by a handful of centralizing service providers funded and wrapped round by online advertising The error is to assume a culture of total replacement The Internet is just another information space sharing characteristics that have always defined such spaces wonderfully effective and unstable loaded with valuable resources and misinformation that is both good and bad This is why it is important that writers critics publishers and librarians in modern parlance the knowledge providers be critically engaged in shaping and regulating cyberspace and not merely the passive instruments or unreflecting users of the digital tools in our hands The Digital

Age Detective Brendan Riley, 2017-07-05 Imagining the figure of the fictional detective as an archetype in the study of modern culture the author argues that contemporary detective fiction can help us better comprehend fundamental shifts of the Digital Age in communication family entertainment society even the way we think as individuals The nature of the detective story itself models how we build and share knowledge Drawing on concepts from literature and media studies the author reveals clues about modern phenomena like conspiracy theory groupthink and the nature of our digital identities

Something's Gotta Give Beth R. Bernhardt, Leah H. Hinds, Katina P. Strauch, 2012 The theme of the 2011 Charleston Conference the annual event that explores issues in book and serial acquisition was Something's Gotta Give The conference held November 2-5 2011 in Charleston SC included 9 pre meetings more than 10 plenaries and over 120 concurrent sessions The theme reflected the increasing sense of strain felt by both libraries and publishers as troubling economic trends and rapid technological change challenge the information supply chain What part of the system will buckle under this pressure Who will be the winners and who will be the losers in this stressful environment The Charleston Conference continues to be a major event for information exchange among librarians vendors and publishers As it begins its fourth decade the Conference is one of the most popular international meetings for information professionals with almost 1 500 delegates Conference attendees continue to remark on the informative and thought provoking sessions The Conference provides a collegial atmosphere where librarians vendors and publishers talk freely and directly about issues facing libraries and information providers In this volume the organizers of the meeting are pleased to share some of the learning experiences that they and other attendees had at the conference
