Detection and Estimation of Working Memory States and Cognitive Functions Based on Neurophysiological Measures Felix Putze, Christian Mühl, Fabien Lotte, Stephen Fairclough, Christian Herff, 2019-02-05 Executive cognitive functions like working memory determine the success or failure of a wide variety of different cognitive tasks such as problem solving navigation or planning Estimation of constructs like working memory load or memory capacity from neurophysiological or psychophysiological signals would enable adaptive systems to respond to cognitive states experienced by an operator and trigger responses designed to support task performance e g by simplifying the exercises of a tutor system when the subject is overloaded or by shutting down distractions from the mobile phone The determination of cognitive states like working memory load is also useful for automated testing assessment or for usability evaluation While there exists a large body of research work on neural and physiological correlates of cognitive functions like working memory activity fewer publications deal with the application of this research with respect to single trial detection and real time estimation of cognitive functions in complex realistic scenarios Single trial classifiers based on brain activity measurements such as electroencephalography functional near infrared spectroscopy physiological signals or eye tracking have the potential to classify affective or cognitive states based upon short segments of data For this purpose signal processing and machine learning techniques need to be developed and transferred to real world user interfaces The goal of this Frontiers Research Topic was to advance the State of the Art in signal based modeling of cognitive processes We were especially interested in research towards more complex and realistic study designs for example collecting data in the wild or investigating the interaction between different cognitive processes or signal modalities Bringing together many contributions in one format allowed us to look at the state of convergence or diversity regarding concepts methods and paradigms recommendations to support practice Covers relevant topics not found in other surgical textbooks essential to improve surgical outcomes Concise and easy to follow ideal for exam revision or as a refresher aid Fully updated with latest evidence on recent developments management issues and operative procedures International authorship offers a world view Evidence based recommendations to support practice Key references to support content plus a comprehensive list of references in the accompanying eBook Links to recommended online videos for further learning New chapters on surgical technology quality improvement in emergency surgery All chapters revised and updated Aviation and Human Factors Jose Sanchez-Alarcos,2019-06-19 Air safety is right now at a point where the chances of being killed in an aviation accident are far lower than the chances to winning a jackpot in any of the major lotteries However keeping or improving that performance level requires a critical analysis of some events that despite scarce point to structural failures in the learning process The effect of these failures could increase soon if there is not a clear and right development path This book tries to identify what is wrong why there are things to fix and some human factors principles to keep in aircraft design and operations Features Shows through different events how the system learns through technology practices and regulations and the pitfalls of that learning process Discusses the use of information technology in safety critical environments and why procedural knowledge is not enough Presents air safety management as a successful process but at the same time failures coming from technological and organizational features are shown Offers ways to improve from the human factors side by getting the right lessons from recent events CAE OXFORD AVIATION ACADEMY - OPERATIONAL PROCEDURES , Health Education Index and Guide to Voluntary Social Welfare Organisations ,1980 Code/Space Rob Kitchin,Martin Dodge,2014-01-10 An analysis of the ways that software creates new spatialities in everyday life from supermarket checkout lines to airline flight paths After little more than half a century since its initial development computer code is extensively and intimately woven into the fabric of our everyday lives From the digital alarm clock that wakes us to the air traffic control system that guides our plane in for a landing software is shaping our world it creates new ways of undertaking tasks speeds up and automates existing practices transforms social and economic relations and offers new forms of cultural activity personal empowerment and modes of play In Code Space Rob Kitchin and Martin Dodge examine software from a spatial perspective analyzing the dyadic relationship of software and space The production of space they argue is increasingly dependent on code and code is written to produce space Examples of code space include airport check in areas networked offices and caf s that are transformed into workspaces by laptops and wireless access Kitchin and Dodge argue that software through its ability to do work in the world transduces space Then Kitchin and Dodge develop a set of conceptual tools for identifying and understanding the interrelationship of software space and everyday life and illustrate their arguments with rich empirical material And finally they issue a manifesto calling for critical scholarship into the production and workings of code rather than simply the technologies it enables a new kind of social science focused on explaining the social economic and spatial contours of software Strategic Management A. Naga, In today's world change is the only constant factor In the last few decades there has been a radical change in how organizations function To survive in this highly volatile environment companies need a long term strategic vision and thinking In light of this strategic management has become a significant topic and is taught as the core subject in MBA PGDM programmes in Indian universities and business schools This is a book written in the context of the Indian business environment but with a global orientation It is comprehensive and contemporary in its approach A320 ATA 00 Aircraft General Airbus Industrie, 2000 Analysis, Design, and Evaluation of Man-machine Systems, 1989 Baosheng Hu, 1990 The twenty seven papers cover recent advances in both empirical and theoretical aspects of man machine interaction with special emphasis on the subjects of man automation and man computer interaction They provide information on a subject which has grown rapidly in importance during recent years
