

GRADE 6 First Six Weeks Analyzing Literature

Weeks 5-6

(Additional Resources listed are only recommendations. Teachers may make use of other available resources to support instruction of TEKs).

Textbook Resources: English

Reading and Writing Connections:

Have students read to write in 1st person, and when they do shift to 3rd person, it is almost always a 3rd person omniscient perspective. But what is a student had to write in a 3rd person limited perspective? Could they show the reader what a character is thinking or feeling without just telling them? Challenge students to write a brief paper written from the 3rd person limited perspective. Have the students read the paper aloud to class, and see if the class can tell what the characters is thinking or feeling.

Example: "As Emma approached the old house her heart began to beat faster and she was visibly shaking. Her eyes were wide as she turned her head trying to see in all directions at once. Her breathing was heavy and her hands shook as she reached out to touch the door knob".

Have students write a Comparison / Contrast Essay, (Holt McDougal pgs. 296-304 TE). Have students share each step in the writing process from one day to the next. At the end of this two week period, students should have in all of their work leading up to the final draft.

Time allowing: Teachers may opt to have students take the Texas Assessment Practice, Phonics Form & Study Skills, (Holt McDougal pgs. 305-313).

Vocabulary/Word Study

○Tip for Teaching Vocabulary:

Play the synonym game with your students. Divide the class into two teams. With each round, the teacher introduces a character trait with many synonyms (e.g., "happy") and each team must come up with as many synonyms as they can in 3 minutes (e.g., glad, cheerful, delighted, elated, etc.). The teacher keeps score, awarding 1 point for each word a team thought of that the other team did not think of (e.g., if both teams think of "thrilled", then neither team gets a point, but if only one team thinks of that word, they get a point for it). Don't forget to encourage students to use words from the

Reading

TEKs: 6.6A (Readiness) RC.1

Summarize the elements of plot development (e.g., rising action, turning point, climax, falling action, denouement) in various works of fiction.

Fig.110 (Readiness) RC.2

Make inferences about text and use textual evidence to support understanding.

Analyze the Literature, (Holt McDougal pgs. 194-197)

Unit 2

TEKS FOCUS

- First-Person Point of View
- Third-Person Point of View
- Methods of Characterization (physical appearance, thoughts and actions, other characters, narrator's comments)

English

○Tip for Creative Writing: If students are having a difficult time writing creatively, help them find an interesting picture on the internet that might stimulate their thinking. A simple picture of a helicopter or a group of horses (for example) can give a student focus for writing a creative story.

This week, give students time to work on their writing with a clear expectation that a very well written final draft should be presented to the class (selected students) at the end of the week.
