Analysis of McDonagh's writing is broken down into three periods his early Irish plays his screenplays and his later plays that move away from and outside of Ireland. Works are discussed thematically giving a dynamic reading of the scripts and the ideas around which they circle. The book's final section then delves in more detail into selected seminal productions of McDonagh's writing outlining key phases and transitions in his career. Part of the Routledge Modern and Contemporary Dramatists series. Sandel Steven Pinker Julia Kristeva and in particular Amartya Sen on violence justice equality and the law. In McDonagh's works failures to investigate adequately criminal actions are matched by multiple forced confessions and umpteen miscarriages of justice. The author explores McDonagh's creative worlds as ones where distinctions between victim and perpetrator and guilt and innocence are precarious where the burden of truth seldom reaches the threshold of beyond reasonable doubt and where the punishments and rewards of justice are applied randomly. This project considers the abject nature of justice in McDonagh's writing with the vast implications of justice being fragile suspect piecemeal deviant haphazard and random. Tentative forms of justice are tempered and then threatened by provocative anarchic and abject humour. As the author argues McDonagh's writing cleverly circulates rival incompatible and comparative systems of justice in order to substantiate the necessities and virtues of justice. Studying English (Pope) Rob Pope, 2013-04-15 Studying English Literature and Language is unique in offering both an introduction and a companion for students taking English Literature and Language degrees.
