Reading Skill: Identifying the Main Idea

The Reading Skill box explains that the main idea of a reading is what the writer wants readers to understand about a topic. It's important to be able to determine the main idea so that students can understand the general meaning of a passage. Ask students to read the text in the Reading Skill box. When they have finished, ask students to close their books. Ask them what the reading was about. (Hint: Mexico isn't happy. How have students open their books again and read the statements. Working as a class, they should see that sentence 1 is the main idea; the other two sentences provide supporting details.)

1 Matching

Each of the sentences is a main idea for one of the paragraphs in the reading. Explain that students should read and match the paragraphs to the main ideas.

- Allow time for students to complete the task individually.
- Have students check answers in pairs.
- Discuss answers as a class.

2 Identifying the Main Idea

- Allow students time to read the paragraph and write the main idea individually.
- Have them compare their answers in pairs.
- Discuss answers as a class. If time permits, ask volunteers to write their answers on the board, and ask students to discuss what makes a good main idea sentence.

1 Predicting

Predicting the video content helps students understand it better when they view it. The title suggests that this is about people who live a long time. The photograph shows that elderly people, such as this elephant, can still lead active lifestyles. The caption reinforces this, stating that the men in Sweden still work outside. Students might infer that the video will be about people around the world who live a long time.

- Allow some time for students to study the title, photo, and caption.
- Discuss as a class. On the board, write the words “long life,” and make a word web with students’ ideas. Ask students, “Do they know anyone over 100 years old?” “What is the secret to living a long life?”

2 Learning About the Topic

The paragraph prepares students for the video by giving them background information about the links between being a long time and being happy.

- Have students complete the task individually.
- Discuss answers as a class. (Hint: example answers. Ask students whether they agree with these findings. Would they follow this guide to live a longer life?)
