separate organizations This volume brings together a wide array of cross national research and public policy issues to focus on a new framework of service provision It looks at the different networks of organizations of which schools and social services have been a part and at the political implications or results of bringing together the professionals from such organizations It takes into account the constraints resulting from the larger institutional network experience by such organizations The book also presents a range of perspectives on the way preparation is followed by four responses that present somewhat varying points of view The contributors come from a wide range of experiences including specialists in politics of education law urban studies children s issues and those providing reflections on practical experience

Integrating Conservation Biology and Paleobiology to Manage Biodiversity and Ecosystems in a Changing World G. Lynn Wingard,Chris Schneider,Gregory P. Dietl ,Damien Fordham, Policy makers and resource managers must make decisions that affect the resilience and sustainability of natural resources including biodiversity and ecosystem services However these decisions are often based on evidence or theory derived from highly altered systems and over short time periods of low magnitude environmental and climatic change Because natural systems change and evolve across multiple timescales from instantaneous to millennial long term understanding of how past life has responded to perturbations can inform resource managers By using these natural laboratories of the past conservation paleobiology and paleoecology provide the framework necessary to anticipate and plan for future changes The goal of this Research Topic is to heighten awareness among conservation and restoration practitioners to the value and applications of long term perspectives provided by conservation paleobiology and paleoecology Most conservation studies focus on systems already impacted by anthropogenic change these studies would benefit from paleontological data through expanded temporal scales identification of baselines and an understanding of how organisms have responded to past changes However resource management decisions rarely include input from paleontologists and paleoecological research is rarely incorporated into conservation decision making We seek to bridge this research implementation gap by highlighting the application of paleoecological data to issues such as biodiversity dynamics extinction risks and resilience to perturbations among other topics We hope to foster new cross disciplinary synergies by encouraging conservation scientists and managers to collaborate with paleontologists to improve conservation decision making and by increasing awareness among paleontologists to the needs of the resource management community This Research Topic will provide a forum for both the paleontological and resource management communities to exchange ideas that will enhance restoration and conservation decision making We invite papers on conceptual advances reviews of specific topics to guide efforts in research or practice case studies of successful applications articles describing datasets with applied value and perspective papers summarizing a body of paleontological research with relevance to the resource management community Topics can include but are not limited to Responses of species communities and ecosystems to perturbations Strategies to achieve the direct integration of paleobiology and paleoecology into on ground resource management Identifying baselines and reference conditions Increasing the robustness of forecasting models through the incorporation of paleontological data Identifying key species interactions and other phenomena as indicators of impending change New methodologies analytical tools and or proxies in the application of paleontological data to conservation and restoration practice Lynn Wingard Damien Fordham and Greg Dietl have no conflicts of interest Chris Schneider has a potential conflict of interest where manuscripts pertain to stakeholders in the petroleum industry as she is an independent contractor in the Alberta Oil Sands mining area

Beyond the War on Invasive Species Tao Orion, 2015-06-17 Invasive species are everywhere from forests and prairies to mountaintops and river mouths Their rampant nature and sheer numbers appear to overtake fragile native species and forever change the ecosystems that they depend on Concerns that invasive species represent significant threats to global biodiversity and ecological integrity permeate conversations from schoolrooms to board rooms and concerned citizens grapple with how to rapidly and efficiently manage their populations These worries have culminated in an ongoing war on invasive species where the arsenal is stocked with bulldozers chainsaws and herbicides put to the task of their immediate eradication In Hawaii mangrove trees Avicennia spp are sprayed with glyphosate and left to decompose on the sandy shorelines where they grow and in Washington helicopters apply the herbicide Imazapyr to smooth cordgrass Spartina alterniflora growing in estuaries The war on invasive species is in full swing but given the scope of such potentially dangerous and ecologically degrading eradication practices it is necessary to question the very nature of the battle Beyond the War on Invasive Species offers a much needed alternative perspective on invasive species and the best practices for their management based on a holistic permaculture inspired framework Utilizing the latest research and thinking on the changing nature of ecological systems Beyond the War on Invasive Species closely examines the factors that are largely missing from the common conceptions of invasive species including how the colliding effects of climate change habitat destruction and changes in land use and management contribute to their proliferation There is more to the story of invasive species than is commonly conceived and Beyond the War on Invasive Species offers ways of understanding their presence and ecosystem effects in order to make more ecologically responsible choices in land restoration and biodiversity conservation that address the root of the invasion phenomenon The choices we make on a daily basis the ways we procure food shelter water medicine and transportation are the major drivers of contemporary changes in ecosystem structure and function therefore deep and long lasting ecological restoration outcomes will come not just from eliminating invasive species but through conscientious redesign of these production systems Beyond the War on Invasive Species is a devastating expos of the military industrial invasive species complex and a sorely needed and impeccably researched volume that should become one of many as we recover from self destructive attempts to eradicate parts of nature instead of acting with an understanding of the whole Ben Falk author of The Resilient Farm and Homestead and founder of Whole Systems Design

Volume 2: Marine Ecology Juan M. Molina, Gabriela E. Blasina, 2025-04-17 Marine systems face a multitude of anthropogenic stressors such as climate change recreational and commercial fishing aquaculture practices pollution and coastal urbanization These stressors exert escalating pressure on marine ecosystems leading to noticeable changes in habitat conditions as well as alterations in the abundance and diversity of their communities Understanding the impacts of these stressors proves challenging due to their interactions with various factors such as species richness environmental fluctuations system openness stressor tolerance and the occurrence rate and intensity of each stressor Therefore a comprehensive analysis of the entire ecosystem is crucial It is essential to consider the unique characteristics of each marine environment when assessing the cumulative stress that affects them This book provides insights into the functioning of marine ecosystems and their responses to both natural and human induced drivers within the framework of sustainable marine resource utilization This book will make a valuable contribution to the scientific community serving as a resource to inform decision makers and the general public about the current state of knowledge regarding the marine environment and the human footprints on our seas
