The Schenley Experiment Jake Oresick, 2017-04-14 The Schenley Experiment is the story of Pittsburgh's first public high school a social incubator in a largely segregated city that was highly even improbably successful throughout its 156 year existence Established in 1855 as Central High School and reorganized in 1916 Schenley High School was a model of innovative public education and an ongoing experiment in diversity Its graduates include Andy Warhol actor Bill Nunn and jazz virtuoso Earl Hines and its prestigious academic program and pensions lured such teachers as future Pulitzer Prize winner Willa Cather The subject of investment as well as destructive neglect the school reflects the history of the city of Pittsburgh and provides a study in both the best and worst of urban public education practices there and across the Rust Belt Integrated decades before Brown v Board of Education Schenley succumbed to default segregation during the white flight of the 1970s it rose again to prominence in the late 1980s when parents camped out in six day long lines to enroll their children in visionary superintendent Richard C Wallace's reinvigorated school Although the historic triangular building was a cornerstone of its North Oakland neighborhood and a showpiece for the city of Pittsburgh officials closed the school in 2008 citing over 50 million in necessary renovations a controversial event that captured national attention Schenley alumnus Jake Oresick tells this story through interviews historical documents and hundreds of first person accounts drawn from a community indelibly tied to the school A memorable important work of local and educational history his book is a case study of desegregation magnet education and the changing nature and legacies of America's oldest public schools United States of America Congressional Record, Proceedings and Debates of the 113th Congress Second Session Volume 160 - Part 2, Congressional Record United States. Congress, 2014 A History of the World in Six Plagues Edna Bonhomme, 2025-03-11 A deeply reported insightful and literary account of humankind's battles with epidemic disease and their outsized role in deepening inequality along racial ethnic class and gender lines in the vein of Medical Apartheid and Killing the Black Body Epidemic diseases enter the world by chance but they become catastrophic by human design With clear eyed research and lush prose A History of the World in Six Plagues shows that throughout history outbreaks of disease have been exacerbated by and gone on to further expand the racial economic and sociopolitical divides we allow to fester in times of good health Princeton trained historian Edna Bonhomme's examination of humanity's disastrous treatment of pandemic disease takes us across place and time from Port au Prince to Tanzania and from plantation era America to our modern COVID 19 scarred world to unravel shocking truths about the patterns of discrimination in the face of disease Based on in depth research and cultural analysis Bonhomme explores Cholera HIV AIDS the Spanish Flu Sleeping Sickness Ebola and COVID 19 amidst the backdrop of unequal public policy But much more than a remarkable history A History of the World in Six Plagues is also a rising call for change MBA Programs, 2001 Higher Education, Meritocracy and Inequality in China Ye Liu, 2016-10-08 This book investigates the changing opportunities in higher education for different social groups during China's transition from the socialist regime to a market economy. The first part of the book provides a historical and comparative analysis of the development of the idea of meritocracy since its early origins in China and in more recent western thought. The second part then explores higher education reforms in China, the part played by supposedly meritocratic forms of selection and the implications of these for social mobility. Based on original empirical data, Ye Liu sheds light on the socio-economic, gender and geographical inequalities behind the meritocratic façade of the Gaokao. Liu argues that the Chinese philosophical belief in education-based meritocracy had a modern makeover in the Gaokao and that this ideology induces working class and rural students to believe in upward social mobility through higher education. When the Gaokao broke the promise of status improvement for rural students, they turned to the Chinese Communist Party and sought political connections by actively applying for its membership. This book reveals a bleak picture of visible and invisible inequality in terms of access to and participation in higher education in contemporary China. Written in an accessible style, it offers a valuable resource for researchers and non-specialist readers alike.

The Saturday Review of Politics, Literature, Science and Art, 1863 Translation and Neoliberalism Ali Jalalian Daghigh, Mark Shuttleworth, 2024-10-25. This book explores the intersections of neoliberalism, translation and interpreting, a scarcely explored topic in the field of translation studies across diverse regions including Europe, North America, Asia and Australia, covering four primary themes that offer unique perspectives on how neoliberal ideologies influence translation and interpreting. The first theme uses data triangulation to delve into the influence of market-driven ideologies on translation and interpreting curriculum globally, as well as the neoliberal tendencies of the trainees in China and Korea. The second theme investigates the effects of top-down neoliberal policies on translation services and practices in Australia, Canada and the UAE, examining how these policies influence service quality, working conditions and the balance between market demands and academic requirements. The third theme assesses the influence of technology and neoliberalism on the translation and interpreting labor market, providing a critical analysis of the automation of translation workflows, the rise of non-standard employment arrangements and the socio-economic challenges faced by translation professionals. The final theme analyzes the intersection of neoliberalism and translation at the discourse level, employing various approaches including critical discourse analysis and content analysis to explore how neoliberal values manifest in translated texts and practices in China, Iran and USA. This book is an essential resource for academics, postgraduate students, researchers, policymakers, educators and practitioners interested in the dynamic interplay between neoliberalism and translation, offering new insights and critical perspectives that contribute to a deeper understanding of the socio-economic forces shaping the field of translation and interpreting.
