Emotion and Aging: Recent Evidence from Brain and Behavior Natalie Ebner, Håkan Fischer, 2015-05-05 Emotions play a central role in every human life from the moment we are born until we die They prepare the body for action guide decisions and highlight what should be noticed and remembered Since emotions are central to daily functioning and well being it is important to understand the extent to which aging affects the perception of attention to memory for as well as experience and regulation of emotions An early scientific view of how people's emotions are affected by aging argued that aging led to a deterioration of emotional function This theory represented by for example Carl Jung 1875 1961 claimed that old age is a period of life when people feel an increased emotional sameness and less emotional energy According to this scientific view the aging emotional landscape was bleached barren and flattened Current psychological research however shows that emotion is rather a psychological domain that is relatively unaffected by the aging process or even improves with age in contrast to most cognitive functions For example even though there is evidence that aging is associated with deficits in emotion recognition various emotional functions seem to remain intact or become better with age such as the ability to regulate one's emotions or the extent of experiencing positive emotions However more research is needed to determine brain and behavior related quantitative and qualitative age related changes of different aspects of emotion processing and emotional functioning In the current Frontiers research topic we aim to present exciting new findings related to the effects of healthy aging on both more perceptually driven bottom up as well as more cognitively driven top down aspects of emotions In particular questions such as the following need to be raised and addressed What neural and behavioral processes are underlying age differences in emotion perception and memory for emotional information Are there differences between how older and younger adults experience and regulate their emotions and what drives these differences Is there a gradual reduction or more of a qualitative change of our emotional experiences over the life cycle from the turbulent childhood and youth to the mellower old age And what aspects of age related changes in emotional processing can be explained by age related changes in the brain and which are more affected by other factors such as changes in other body systems in experiential processes or in overall life goals

Advanced Practice Palliative Nursing Constance

Dahlin, Patrick Coyne, Betty Ferrell, 2016 Advanced Practice Palliative Nursing is the first text devoted to advanced practice nursing care of the seriously ill and dying. This comprehensive work addresses all aspects of palliative care including physical, psychological, social, and spiritual needs. Chapters include symptoms common in serious illness, pediatric palliative care, spiritual and existential issues, the role and function of the advanced practice nurse, APN reimbursement, and nursing leadership on palliative care teams. Each chapter contains case examples and a strong evidence base to support the highest quality of care. The text is written by leaders in the field and includes authors who have pioneered the role of the advanced practice nurse in palliative care. This volume offers advanced practice content and practical resources for clinical practice across all settings of care and encompassing all ages from pediatrics to geriatrics. Protein Misfolding and Proteostasis Impairment in Aging and Neurodegeneration: From Spreading Studies to Therapeutic Approaches Claudia Duran-Aniotz, Ines Moreno-Gonzalez, Rodrigo Morales, Danilo Bilches Medinas, 2022-10-05 Spring Chicken Bill Gifford, 2015-09-24 We've been tantalised by the idea of eternal youth since time immemorial. We're always asking how we can live longer and better. Or to put it another way, why can't we all be like Madame Calment who cycled till she was 100, smoked till she was 117, and died at the wonderfully old age of 122. Join veteran reporter Bill Gifford for a rip-roaring ride along the trail to the fountain of youth. Meet the scientists who have doubled the life expectancy of mice by knocking out a single gene, and others like Aubrey de Grey who claims that we are on the cusp of achieving longevity escape velocity and who predicts that our children could live for a thousand years. An intoxicating mixture of deep reporting, fascinating science, and sound advice, Spring Chicken will reveal the extraordinary breakthroughs that may yet bring us eternal youth while exposing the dangerous deceptions that prey on the innocent and ignorant. China and Islam Matthew S. Erie, 2016-09-01 China and Islam examines the intersection of two critical issues of the contemporary world: Islamic revival and an assertive China questioning the assumption that Islamic law is incompatible with state law. It finds that both Hui and the Party State invoke, interpret, and make arguments based on Islamic law, a minjian (unofficial) law in China, to pursue their respective visions of the good. Based on fieldwork in Linxia, China's Little Mecca, this study follows Hui clerics, youthful translators on the New Silk Road, female educators who reform traditional madrasas, and Party cadres as they reconcile Islamic and socialist laws in the course of the everyday. The first study of Islamic law in China and one of the first ethnographic accounts of law in postsocialist China, China and Islam unsettles unidimensional perceptions of extremist Islam and authoritarian China through Hui minjian practices of law.
