Introduction

Human beings are constantly developing and changing; psychological and biological heritage are an integral part of stages and changes people pass through. Life span development is a process of changes lasting from the moment of birth till the death. It is necessary to state that understanding change is considered to be the principle aspect in human development; thus, lifespan perspective can be identified as the changes understanding occurring in the development period being perceived as the product of specific culture and psychology.

Main body

Lifespan development is a genetic program contributing to the growth and mental alterations of every human being. The process of human development covers the following stages:

- Childhood and adolescence – 0-20;
- Adulthood – 17-45;
- Middle adulthood – 40-65;
- Late adulthood – after 65.

It should be noted that the periods of lifespan development are characterized by special attempts and tasks aimed at modifying and building human life structure. One of the principle characteristics is considered to be the process of individuation identifying relationships between external world and individual in the development system.

It covers the modifying and terminating process of a person with animate and inanimate objects; it is also characterized by mentor, occupational, family and love relationships leading to the development of "attachment concept". Attachment in its broad sense can be identified as the concept encompassing the forces which link person and the environment he lives in. According to Levinson, the great rate of

Indira Hirway,2024-01-20 This report highlights that gender inequalities and women s subordination in India are caused by two formidable macro structures patriarchy and the exclusion of unpaid work from the macro economy Both these structures reinforce each other and negatively impact women s empowerment Patriarchy imposes subordination on women and forces a disproportionately higher share of unpaid domestic services and unpaid care onto them This is unfair and unjust a violation of basic human rights Other structures like race religion and caste cut across these main structures The selected papers in this report show how patriarchy causes gender inequalities in all critical dimensions of women s life on the one hand and how unpaid domestic services and unpaid care sustains the macro economy and its growth on the other The contributors discuss pathways to integrate unpaid work with the macro economy such that the strength of patriarchy declines and at the same time gender equality is promoted To put it differently unless the structures are addressed by integrating unpaid work inequalities cannot be addressed effectively The report emphasizes that this is the only way to move to real macroeconomics The papers have explored pathways to break these structures gradually to achieve gender equality and empower women Though the path is challenging it is feasible to reach the goal of pervasive gender equality Resources in Education ,1999
