Villers-Sidani, Virginia Penhune, 2014-11-21 The impact of training or experience is not the same at all points in development Children who receive music lessons or learn a second language before age 7 8 are more proficient as adults Early exposure to drugs or trauma makes people more likely to become addicted or depressed later life Rat pups exposed to specific frequencies from 9 13 days post partum show expanded cortical representations of these frequencies Young birds must hear and copy their native song within 1 2 months of birth or they may never learn it at all These are examples of sensitive periods developmental windows where maturation and specific experience interact to produce differential long term effects on the brain and behavior While still controversial evidence for the existence of sensitive periods has grown as has our understanding of the underlying mechanisms of brain plasticity Behavioral evidence from studies of language psychopathology or vision in humans has been complemented by evidence elucidating molecular gene and hormonal mechanisms in animals It has been proposed that sensitive periods can be both opened and closed by specific experience and that there are multiple overlapping sensitive periods that occur through out development as functions come on line It is also likely that experience dependent behavioral or brain plasticity accrued during one sensitive period can serve as a scaffold on which later experience and plasticity can build Based on current knowledge there are a number of broad questions and challenges to be addressed in this domain these include generating new information about the neurobiological mediators of structural and functional changes proposing models of brain development that will better predict when sensitive periods should occur and what functions are implicated investigation of the interaction between experience during a sensitive period and pre existing individual differences and the relationship between experience during a sensitive period and on going experience The goal of this Research Topic is to bring together scientists in different fields whose work addresses these issues including animal and human developmental neuroscience language and cognitive development education developmental psychopathology and sensory neuroscience

Linking Perception and Cognition Michela C. Tacca, 2013

Perception and cognition are tightly related As our primary mode of contact with the world perception is the informational and causal foundation of our cognitive processes it is fundamental to our empirical thinking believing and action planning Traditional accounts of the mind consider perception and cognition to be distinct yet highly interrelated systems Much interdisciplinary empirical and theoretical work from cognitive scientists and philosophers has attempted to elucidate the complex relations holding among these systems suggesting the existence not only of influences of perception on cognition but also vice versa However many questions are left unanswered Given that perception is a guide to our thinking about and acting upon the world appropriately the two systems must be able to talk to one another information carried by perception must be of a form adequate to be taken in by our various cognitive systems The question arises What kinds of structural similarities must hold between perceptual and cognitive representations for such communication to be possible And how exactly do perceptual and cognitive representations interact Some researchers have argued that the links between perception and cognition are so tight as to instill doubt as to the significance of the distinction between the two systems in the first place Yet others insist that perception and cognition remain distinct The aim of this Research Topic is to deepen our understanding of the kinds of interaction among perception and cognition and of the nature of the representational structures that would enable such interaction Provided by publisher

The Impact of Systems Medicine on Human Health and Disease Adil Mardinoglu, Jens Nielsen, 2017-03-24 Complex disorders including obesity diabetes fatty liver disease cardiovascular disease and cancer are results from a combination of genetic environmental and lifestyle factors The prevalence of such disorders has increased dramatically in the last two decades and there is an urgent need for the development of new prognostic tools for the treatment of such diseases However this requires a deep understanding of the underlying molecular mechanisms involved in the occurrence of the diseases With the advances in high throughput technologies biological components of cells can be measured with a very high resolution and these data can be used for investigating whole systems properties using a network based approach Systems medicine provides an integrative platform for studying the interactions between the biological components of the cell using a holistic approach and generating mechanistic explanations for the emergent systems properties This inter disciplinary field of study allows for understanding biological processes of cells in health and disease states gaining new insights into what drives the appearance of the disease and finally identifying proteins and metabolites implicated in human disease Systems medicine utilizes mathematical approaches to generate models which can be employed for designing new sets of experiments and for mapping the response of the system to perturbations quantitatively These models as well as the developed tools can accelerate the emergence of personalized medicine which can transform the practice of medicine and offer better targets for drug development with minimum side effects

Journalists and Knowledge Practices Hansjakob Ziemer, 2022-11-11 This multi disciplinary anthology provides new perspectives on the journalist s role in knowledge generation in the newspaper age covering diverse topics from fake news to new technologies Fake news journalistic authority and the introduction of cutting edge technologies are often viewed as new topics in journalism However these issues were prevalent long before the twenty first century Connecting for the first time two burgeoning strands of research a newly perceived history of knowledge and the study of journalism Journalists and Knowledge Practices provides insights into the journalist s role in the world of knowledge in the newspaper age ca 1860s to 1970s This multi disciplinary anthology asks how journalists conducted their work and reconstructs histories of journalistic practices in specific regional constellations in Europe and North America From fake news writing to inventing psychological concepts integrating electric telegrams to fabricating photographs explaining pandemics to creating communities these case studies written by distinguished scholars from various disciplines in the humanities show how notions of fact and truth were shaped new technologies integrated and knowledge transfers arranged

Great Britain. Parliament. House of Lords, 2013 Dying in America Institute of Medicine, Committee on Approaching Death: Addressing Key End-of-Life Issues, 2015-03-19 For patients and their loved ones no care decisions are more profound than those made near the end of life Unfortunately the experience of dying in the United States is often characterized by fragmented care inadequate treatment of distressing symptoms frequent transitions among care settings and enormous care responsibilities for families According to this report the current health care system of rendering more intensive services than are necessary and desired by patients and the lack of coordination among programs increases risks to patients and creates avoidable burdens on them and their families Dying in America is a study of the current state of health care for persons of all ages who are nearing the end of life Death is not a strictly medical event Ideally health care for those nearing the end of life harmonizes with social psychological and spiritual support All people with advanced illnesses who may be approaching the end of life are entitled to access to high quality compassionate evidence based care consistent with their wishes Dying in America evaluates strategies to integrate care into a person and family centered team based framework and makes recommendations to create a system that coordinates care and supports and respects the choices of patients and their families The findings and recommendations of this report will address the needs of patients and their families and assist policy makers clinicians and their educational and credentialing bodies leaders of health care delivery and financing organizations researchers public and private funders religious and community leaders advocates of better care journalists and the public to provide the best care possible for people nearing the end of life

Biographical Research Ana Caetano,Magda Nico,2022-03-30 Studying people s lives requires acknowledging the multiple entanglements between individual singularity and processes of social patterning This book testifies how challenging and creative the study of these connections can be It gathers international contributions that show in imaginative ways how a person s life or specific domains of existence can be observed tackled and analysed across time This volume reveals the potential of biographical research in the production of social theory in the development of methodological innovation in giving voice and protagonism to people and in the understanding of the social unfolding of their lives It is a testimony of a vibrant and youthful field with a long tradition in social sciences and with numerous connections with other study areas namely the life course approach The different chapters illustrate how the challenges posed by this type of research focused on the individual level of analysis are particular and what creative responses are required to continue analysing the link between biography and society The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of the journal Contemporary Social Science

Courting Science Damon V. Coletta,2016-05-25 In Courting Science Damon Coletta offers a novel explanation for the decline of American leadership in world affairs Whether the American Century ends sooner rather than later may depend on America s capacity for self reflection and ultimately self restraint when it comes to science technology and engineering Democracy s affinity for advanced technology has to be balanced against scientific research and progress as a global enterprise In an era of rising challengers to America s lead in the international order and an increasingly globalized civil society a Scientific State has a better chance of extending its dominance In order to draw closer to this ideal though the United States will have to reconsider its grand strategy It must have a strategy that scrutinizes how tightly it constrains how narrowly it directs and how far it trusts American scientists If given the opportunity scientists have the potential to lead a second American Century through domestic science and technology policy international diplomacy and transnational networks for global governance

The Life of J. D. Åkerblad Fredrik Thomasson,2013-01-11 This intellectual biography of Johan David kerblad 1763 1819 presents a new account of the decipherment of ancient Egyptian Oriental and classical studies and their entwinement in the turbulent politics of this age of Revolutions are presented from a novel perspective

Infection Prevention and Control Paul Elliott,Julie Storr,Annette Jeanes,2023-06-01 An understanding of the social sciences within infection prevention and control IPC is important for those working in health and social care This new book Infection Prevention and Control A Social Science Perspective positions the specialty of IPC as more than a technical discipline concerned with microbes It is about people and their behaviour in context and the book therefore explores a number of relevant social sciences and their relationship to IPC across different contexts and cultures IPC is relevant to every person who works in and accesses health care and it remains a global challenge Exploring novel approaches and perspectives that expand our collective horizons in an ever changing and evolving IPC landscape therefore makes sense Key Features Offers new perspectives beyond the topic area of infection prevention and control to push the frontiers of knowledge and to challenge the status quo Interprofessional in nature and relevant to all those involved in the provision of medicine health and social care irrespective of their roles Truly international in nature in that the chapters have been developed by a range of individuals from across the globe

Imagining Multispecies Worlds Michelle Westerlaken, 2020-06-04 It can be considered the most systemic and all encompassing form of institutional violence that currently exists speciesism the oppression and exploitation of other animals For most people on our planet speciesism is something completely normalized justified and encouraged through many facets of dominant cultures The field of critical political animal studies and other fields that challenge anthropocentrism have already thoroughly problematized questioned and analyzed speciesist practices but one topic receives little academic attention what can a counter concept to speciesism contain without saying what it is not This thesis is concerned with imagining multispecies worldings with the goal to construct positive rather than negative aspects of a counter concept to speciesism Instead of offering a single answer this work illustrates how additive knowledges regarding the possible meanings of multispecies worlding make worlds richer These knowledges emerge through a repertoire of world making practices with other animals in which we recognize and engage with the ability to respond to each other Thereby this thesis answers to and builds on various scholarly and activist discourses including posthumanism welfarism animal liberationism and is theoretically grounded in feminist epistemologies With a focus on negotiating possibilities this dissertation is also a work of interaction design The design practice involves tracing and negotiating multispecies responses with other animals and expressing those narratives as a design research program These responses are presented as a Multispecies Bestiary in which ten protagonist animals guide the reader through a collection of big enough multispecies stories The thesis thereby illustrates how humans can together with other animals find possible meanings of multispecies worlding not as a single broken solution but as ever expanding directions that can permanently unsettle and unmake the established speciesist order

The Uncanny Valley Hypothesis and Beyond Marcus Cheetham, 2018-05-02 A field of theory and research is evolving around the question highlighted in the Uncanny Valley Hypothesis How does high realism in anthropomorphic design influence human experience and behaviour The Uncanny Valley Hypothesis posits that a very humanlike character or object e g robot prosthetic limb doll can evoke a negative affective i.e. uncanny state Recent advances in robotic and computer graphic technologies in simulating aspects of human appearance behaviour and interaction have been accompanied therefore by theorising and research on the meaning and relevance of the Uncanny Valley Hypothesis for anthropomorphic design Current understanding of the uncanny idea is still fragmentary and further original research is needed However the emerging picture indicates that the relationship between humanlike realism and subjective experience and behaviour may not be as straightforward as the Uncanny Valley Hypothesis suggests This Research Topic brings together researchers from traditionally separate domains including robotics computer graphics cognitive science psychology and neuroscience to provide a snapshot of current work in this field A diversity of issues and questions are addressed in contributions that include original research review theory and opinion papers
