Stakeholder Perspectives on World Heritage and Development in Africa Pascall Taruvinga, 2022-08-25 Stakeholder Perspectives on World Heritage and Development in Africa argues that World Heritage Sites WHS across the African continent should adopt practical innovative creative and alternative management approaches that bring greater socio economic benefits to society whilst protecting their Outstanding Universal Value Drawing on empirical evidence gathered in conversation with stakeholders at WHS across Africa the book explores the challenges involved in implementing conservation and socio economic development as a stakeholder driven process Demonstrating that heritage can no longer be viewed as totally separate from its socio economic context Pascall argues that decisions about the management of heritage need to make sense at the local level if they are to be supported by stakeholders As the book shows heritage is still viewed and managed through systems approaches and strategies inherited from the colonial period despite the increasing availability of inclusive governance systems Stakeholders offer alternative creative and innovative approaches that capitalize on the potential of World Heritage to contribute to socio economic development whilst ensuring that its credibility and integrity are maintained Stakeholder Perspectives on World Heritage and Development in Africa offers unique insights into local perspectives on World Heritage and development in Africa The book will be essential reading for academics students development partners and practitioners around the world who are interested in museums and heritage conservation development and the African continent Also the book will be useful in the preparation of nomination dossiers management plans development plans and in disaster risk management at WHS

Youth In South Africa Ariane De Lannoy, Malose Langa, 2021-05-05 South Africa is characterised by a youthful population and the challenges and possibilities that characterise the young generation are both warning signs and beacons of hope for a nation founded on social justice Youth in South Africa Agency in visibility and national development takes stock of the nation s development as it affects young people Authors offer both personal and professional insights into the ways in which the youth navigate their own pathways to adulthood These include formal and informal engagements with politics as well as protest un employment entrepreneurship education religion experiences with sexuality and violence and a multitude of other life experiences Contributors paint a picture of the initiative agency and resilience of the youth as well as the challenges before them Authors also identify the state of waithood faced by those unable to make the transition out of youth into full adulthood as a result of their socio economic circumstances and political context By engaging these experiences and insights and primarily informed by the inputs of young people the authors highlight the limitations of existing youth policies and frameworks The case is made for policy instruments to be informed by the lived experiences of the youth as they navigate a complex macrosocial environment and by the messages the youth communicate about the limitations of current approaches

The Evolving Structure of South Africa's Economy Seeraj Mohamed, Amuzweni Ngoma, 2024-01-23 South Africa still faces low economic growth and high unemployment coupled with the persistent challenges of poverty and inequality. These exert pressure on South Africa to foster structural transformation that will facilitate a more inclusive and resilient economy. Authors apply multiple theoretical and empirical perspectives to take stock of the historical and contemporary structure of the South African economy, its evolving nature and possible future pathways. They explore how South Africa's structural transformation agenda is affected by the global context and discuss debates on the extreme social impacts of globalised and financialised economic structures. Contributors offer technical and analytical discussions of the overlapping structural faultlines that produce uneven economic performance. They explain the changes and continuities of South Africa's economic structure bound by an analytical thread that centres power relations and political settlements. Varied chapters explain how poor governance and corruption have slowed down structural reform. This has been further exacerbated by the inconsistent availability of energy and the deterioration of logistics. The book details the structural reforms and policy regimes necessary for increasing productive capacity in South Africa's agriculture, manufacturing, agro-processing, retail and services, energy and mining industries. It also reflects on the role that micro and informal enterprises can play if afforded the necessary support. The technical details and analyses in the book highlight the need for a radical review of macroeconomic policy to reduce the country's chronic vulnerability to poverty and inequality.

Food Security for Rural Africa Terry Leahy, 2018-09-03 At least fifty years of projects aimed at the rural poor in Africa have had very little impact. Up to half of the children of these countries are still suffering from stunting and malnutrition. Soil degradation and poor crop yields are ubiquitous. Projects are almost always aimed at helping local people to solve their problems by growing for the market. In some countries, projects link poor villagers into cooperatives to produce a commercial output. In other countries, projects target more competent entrepreneurial villagers. Almost all these projects fail after several years. Even those that are successful make few inroads into the problems. While the slogan 'feeding the farmers first' comes from the Philippines, it is particularly applicable to much of Africa where household food security can come from household production. This book explains how projects can be designed that increase food security through subsistence production. Focusing on particular people and projects, it gives a sociological analysis of why this is so difficult to manage. This book challenges the models promoted by academics in the field of development studies and argues against the strategies adopted by most donor organizations and government bodies. It explains why commercial projects have been so ubiquitous even though they rarely work. It gives practical tips on how to set up villages and farms to achieve sustainable solutions that also provide plenty of nutritious food. The book is written to be accessible and engaging. For anyone planning to work in the rural areas of Africa, this book is required reading.

Child Rights and International Discrimination Law Marit Skivenes, Karl Søvig, 2019-02-22 Societies and states are at a crossroad in how children are treated and how their rights are respected and protected. Children's new position and their strong rights create tensions and challenge the traditional relationships between family and the state. The United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child was adopted unanimously by the General Assembly of the United Nations in 1989 and came into force in 1990 Article 2 places states under an obligation to accord primacy to the best interests of the child in all actions concerning children and to ensure and regulate child protection This book offers a comparative and critical analysis of the implementation of Article 2 of the United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child In order to examine how Article 2 is being implemented it is essential to have a sound understanding of the obligations it imposes The opening chapters will explore the precise content of these obligations in terms of the legislative history of the text its underlying philosophy its amplification by the United Nations Committee on the Rights of the Child and subsequent authoritative interpretations of it by courts around the world The book will then drill down into the conceptual and theoretical challenges posed by the very nature of the obligations and will offer in depth exploration of the long running rights v welfare debate that has always presented something of a challenge in giving effect to children s rights Contributors are leading academics in the children s rights field drawn from a wide range of countries and jurisdictions worldwide including those with common law civilian and mixed traditions Disciplines represented in the book include law psychology political science childhood studies social work and anthropology By drawing together the various facets of Article 2 and analysing it from a range of perspectives the volume provides a coherent and comprehensive inter disciplinary analysis on discrimination and the rights of the child

Policing and Boundaries in a Violent Society Guy Lamb, 2022-01-31 This book explores how social and territorial boundaries have influenced the approaches and practices of the South Africa Police Service SAPS By means of a historical analysis of South Africa this book introduces a new concept police frontierism which illuminates the nature of the relationships between the police policing and boundaries and can potentially be used for future case study research Drawing on a wealth of research this book examines how social and territorial boundaries strongly influenced police practices and behaviour in South Africa and how social delineations amplify and distort existing police prejudices against those communities on the other side of the boundary Focusing on cases of high density police operations public order policing and the recent policing of the COVID 19 lockdown this book argues that poor economic conditions combined with an increased militarisation of the SAPS and a decline in public trust in the police will result in boundaries continuing to fundamentally inform police work in South Africa This book will be of interest to scholars and students interested in policing in post colonial societies characterised by high levels of violence as well as police work and police militarization

The challenge of informal settlement upgrading Ehebrecht, Daniel, 2015-09-21 Despite its many challenges and limitations the concept of in situ upgrading of informal settlements has become one of the most favoured approaches to the housing crisis in the Global South Due to its inherent principles of incremental in situ development prevention of relocations protection of local livelihoods and democratic participation and cooperation this approach is often perceived to be more sustainable than other housing approaches that often rely on quantitative housing delivery and top down planning methodologies While this study does not question the benefits of the in situ upgrading approach it seeks to identify problems of its practical implementation within a specific national and local context The study discusses the origin and importance of this approach on the basis of a review of international housing policy development and analyses the broader political and social context of the incorporation of this approach into South African housing policy It further uses insights from a recent case study in Cape Town to determine complications and conflicts that can arise when applying in situ upgrading of informal settlements in a complex local context On that basis benefits and limitations of the in situ upgrading approach are specified and prerequisites for its successful implementation formulated
