Emerging Infectious Diseases, 2007 Cyclones in Southern Africa Godwell Nhamo, David Chikodzi, 2021-09-28 Tropical cyclones in Southern Africa also known as hurricanes or typhoons in other regions of the world is a hot subject for academic research This focus has been magnified by the need to consider tropical cyclones in the context of other global development agendas that includes the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development and its inseparable 17 Sustainable Development Goals SDGs the Paris Agreement the Sendai Framework for Disaster Risk Reduction and Habitat III s New Urban Agenda The ambitious SDGs challenge global and community leaders to make sure development addresses the nexus among poverty inequality and employment creation as well as care for the earth and its natural resources and biodiversity The SDGs further present an agenda to eradicate hunger bring quality education and sustain water and sanitation The infrastructure development human settlements sustainable consumption and production climate change biodiversity and the ocean blue economy agendas are also pitched Lastly the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development encourages partnerships on delivering various programmes and projects at all spatial levels However as tropical cyclones continue to make multiple landfalls and ravage Southern Africa and other parts of the world the achievement of the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development is threatened To this end this book addresses this gap by documenting the implications of tropical cyclones drawing examples and case studies from recent tropical cyclones such as cyclone Idai and cyclone Kenneth that resulted in catastrophic impacts in 2019 The book comes as part of a series with three volumes The other volumes include Cyclones in Southern Africa Vol 1 Interfacing the Catastrophic Impact of Cyclone Idai with SDGs in Zimbabwe and Cyclones in Southern Africa Vol 2 Foundational and Fundamental Topics Given the foregoing the book is suitable as a read for several professionals and disciplines such as tourism and hospitality studies economics sustainable development development studies environmental sciences arts geography life sciences politics planning and public health Water and Sanitation in Urban Malawi Mtafu Almiton Zeleza-Manda, 2009 Rapid Urbanisation, Urban Food Deserts and Food Security in Africa Jonathan Crush, Jane Battersby, 2016-09-23 This book investigates food security and the implications of hyper urbanisation and rapid growth of urban populations in Africa By means of a series of case studies involving African cities of various sizes it argues that while the concept of food security holds value it needs to be reconfigured to fit the everyday realities and distinctive trajectory of urbanisation in the region The book goes on to discuss the urban context where food insecurity is more a problem of access and changing consumption patterns than of insufficient food production In closing it approaches food insecurity in Africa as an increasingly urban problem that requires different responses from those applied to rural populations Consumer choices and demand for tilapia in urban Malawi: What are the complementarities and trade-offs? Chikowi, Christopher T. M., Ochieng, Dennis O., Jumbe, Charles B. L., 2020-01-09 Despite concerted efforts to develop the fisheries sector in many developing countries fish demand remains poorly understood due to weak and fragmented domestic markets particularly in Africa south of the Sahara An important area that affects the development of the fishery sector is limited understanding of how the choice between different fish products is affected by the socioeconomic characteristics of consumers marketing factors and fish specific attributes Previous studies in Malawi have assessed consumer choice and demand for fish in general without considering species specific consumer choices This paper analyzes consumer choices and demand for two species of tilapia Lake Malawi Oreochromis Nyasalapia spp Ny and Oreochromis shiranus Os in unprocessed and processed form in urban Malawi We use data collected from a sample of 584 urban households in Malawi s two major cities Blantyre and Lilongwe Multivariate probit and seemingly unrelated regression models are employed to analyze the correlates of consumer choice and demand for tilapia products Even though most consumers chose farmed tilapia Os over the wild tilapia Ny our results indicate trade offs in choice but complementarities in demand for unprocessed and processed tilapia products We find that the correlates of choice are not the same as correlates of demand for tilapia products This is explained by heterogenous consumer profiles market conditions and tilapia trait descriptors Developing robust tilapia value chains requires exploiting these complementarities and trade offs policy support to boost tilapia production and reducing its relative caloric price to consumers These measures will contribute to increased consumer demand More generally fish breeding programs should also link breeding objectives to consumer choices and demand for fisheries products particularly considering rarely examined fish attributes such as its nutritive value and body texture

The Plight of the Urban Poor in Malawi Gillian Roe,1992 Africa's Urban Revolution Doctor Edgar Pieterse,Susan Parnell,2014-01-09

The facts of Africa s rapid urbanisation are startling By 2030 African cities will have grown by more than 350 million people and over half the continent s population will be urban Yet in the minds of policy makers scholars and much of the general public Africa remains a quintessentially rural place This lack of awareness and robust analysis means it is difficult to make a policy case for a more overtly urban agenda As a result there is across the continent insufficient urgency directed to responding to the challenges and opportunities associated with the world s last major wave of urbanisation Drawing on the expertise of scholars and practitioners associated with the African Centre for Cities and utilising a diverse array of case studies Africa s Urban Revolution provides a comprehensive insight into the key issues demographic cultural political technical environmental and economic surrounding African urbanisation

Bibliography of Food Consumption Surveys Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations. Statistics Division,1981-01-01 Global Urban Agriculture Antoinette M G A WinklerPrins,2017-05-24 There has been growing attention paid to urban agriculture worldwide because of its role in making cities more environmentally sustainable while also contributing to enhanced food access and social justice This edited volume brings together current research and case studies concerning urban agriculture from both the Global North and the Global South Its objective is to help bridge the long standing divide between discussion of urban agriculture in the Global North and the Global South and to demonstrate that today there are greater areas of overlap than there are differences both theoretically and substantively and that research in either area can help inform research in the other The book covers the nature of urban agriculture and how it supports livelihoods provides ecosystem services and community development It also considers urban agriculture and social capital networks and agro biodiversity conservation Concepts such as sustainability resilience adaptation and community and the value of urban agriculture as a recreational resource are explored It also examines quite fundamentally why people farm in the city and how urban agriculture can contribute to more sustainable cities in both the Global North and the Global South

Assessing the Power of HIV Self-testing in Unreachable Populations in Sub-Saharan Africa Joseph K. B. Matovu, Donaldson Fadael Conserve, Jeffrey Korte, Augustine Talumba Choko, 2022-12-06 The State of Food Insecurity in Windhoek, Namibia Pendleton, Wade, Nickanor, Ndeyapo, 2016-10-17 AFSUN recently conducted a survey of poor urban households in eleven major cities in Southern Africa to better understand the seriousness of the urban food insecurity situation This report looks in detail at the results for Windhoek and seeks to answer one central question that is why do the urban poor in Namibia's capital generally appear to be better off than the urban poor in most of the other ten cities where the survey was conducted and why at the same time does Windhoek contain some of the most food insecure households in the region As a city of migrants Windhoek's case also presents the opportunity to examine the relationship between migration and urban food security in more depth Among the key findings is that access to food which depends on incomes and food pricing is critical in Windhoek where food availability is not an issue What is required is a systematic national and city strategy for reducing the high levels of food insecurity amongst the urban poor in general and in informal settlements in particular Food and Nutrition Security in Southern African Cities Bruce Frayne, Jonathan Crush, Cameron McCordic, 2017-12-22 Urban population growth is extremely rapid across Africa and this book places urban food and nutrition security firmly on the development and policy agenda It shows that current efforts to address food poverty in Africa that focus entirely on small scale farmers to the exclusion of broader socio economic and infrastructural approaches are misplaced and will remain largely ineffective in ameliorating food and nutrition insecurity for the majority of Africans Using original data from the African Food Security Urban Network's AFSUN extensive database it is demonstrated that the primary food security challenge for urban households is access to food Already linked into global food systems and value chains Africa's supply of food is not necessarily in jeopardy Rather the widespread poverty and informal urban fabric that characterizes Africa's emerging cities impinge directly on households capacity to access food that is readily available Through the analysis of empirical data collected from 6 500 households in eleven cities in nine countries in Southern Africa the authors identify the complexity of factors and dynamics that create the circumstances of widespread food and nutrition insecurity under which urban citizens live They also provide useful policy approaches to address these conditions that currently thwart the latent development potential of Africa's expanding urban population Urban Poverty in Africa Mary Gachochi, 1999 This volume represents a selection of papers presented at the Africa Regional Workshop on Urban Poverty held in Nairobi Kenya in September 1998 The papers are the outputs of the regional programme supported by UNCHS Habitat and the Ford Foundation since 1992 The papers published in this volume analyse urban poverty trends in East and Southern Africa and review different strategies that countries and cities have pursued to address urban poverty Britannica Book of the Year 2013 Encyclopaedia Britannica, Inc., 2013-03-01 The Britannica Book of the Year 2013 provides a valuable viewpoint of the people and events that shaped the year and serves as a great reference source for the latest news on the ever changing populations governments and economies throughout the world It is an accurate and comprehensive reference that you will reach for again and again Britannica Book of the Year 2011 Encyclopaedia Britannica, Inc., 2011-03-01 The Britannica Book of the Year 2011 provides a valuable viewpoint on the people and events that shaped the year In addition to keeping the Encyclopaedia Britannica updated it serves as a great reference source for the latest news on the ever changing populations governments and economies throughout the world Themes in the Christian History of Central Africa T.
