Emily Winderman, Allison L. Rowland, Jennifer Malkowski, 2023-09-01 Covid and How To Do Rhetoric in a Pandemic is among the first edited collections to consider how rhetoric shapes Covid's disease trajectory. Arguing that the circulation of any virus must be understood in tandem with the public communication accompanying it, this collection converses with interdisciplinary stakeholders also committed to the project of social wellness during pandemic times. With inventive ways of thinking about structural inequities in health, these essays showcase the forces that pandemic rhetoric exerts across health conditions, politics, and histories of social injustice. The American Journal of Psychiatry ..., 1968 The Publishers Weekly, 2000 Reflective Writing in Medical Practice Miriam A. Locher, 2017-06-05 This book reports the results of a linguistic analysis of reflective written texts produced during medical education or practice. It explores the topics and communication skills the authors write about, how the narratives develop, how these texts are shaped, what genres influence their composition, how relational work surfaces in them, and how the writers linguistically create their identities as experts or novices. It is clear that both experienced and trainee medics grapple with the place of emotions in their communicative acts and with the idea of what it means to be a doctor. The book makes a valuable contribution to genre analysis, interpersonal pragmatics, and the study of linguistic identity construction and will be essential reading for those involved in teaching doctor-patient communication skills. "The" Journal of the American Medical Association American Medical Association, 1898 The Journal of the American Medical Association, 1883 Attending Ronald Epstein, 2017-01-24 A guide to mindfulness as part of a safe, patient-centered health care and medical practice describes the author's perspective, changing experiences as a Harvard Medical student at the sides of doctors who practiced in very different ways.
