Ezekiel's Vision Accounts as Interrelated Narratives Janina Maria Hiebel,2015-06-16 Ezekiel is one of the best structured books in the Old Testament It is commonly recognized that the strongly interrelated vision accounts Ez 1 1 3 15 8 11 37 1 14 40 48 contribute greatly to this impression of unity However there is a marked lacuna in publications focusing on the vision accounts in Ezekiel as an interconnected text corpus The present study combines redaction critical analysis with literary methods that are typically used in a synchronic approach Drawing on the paradigm of Fortschreibung it is the first to present a united redaction history that takes into account the growing interconnections and dependencies between the vision accounts Building on these results the second part follows the development of selected themes such as the relationships between characters the roles of intermediate figures and anthropological and theological implications throughout the stages of redaction The study thus represents an important step towards an understanding of the complex redaction history of the book of Ezekiel and indeed of its theology The combination of diachronic and synchronic methods makes it relevant for scholars of both directions and is itself a methodological statement

Canadiana, 1990-09 The New Global Rulers Tim Büthe, Walter Mattli, 2013-07-21 Global private regulations who wins who loses and why Over the past two decades governments have delegated extensive regulatory authority to international private sector organizations This internationalization and privatization of rule making has been motivated not only by the economic benefits of common rules for global markets but also by the realization that government regulators often lack the expertise and resources to deal with increasingly complex and urgent regulatory tasks The New Global Rulers examines who writes the rules in international private organizations as well as who wins who loses and why Tim Büthe and Walter Mattli examine three powerful global private regulators the International Accounting Standards Board which develops financial reporting rules used by corporations in more than a hundred countries and the International Organization for Standardization and the International Electrotechnical Commission which account for 85 percent of all international product standards B the and Mattli offer both a new framework for understanding global private regulation and detailed empirical analyses of such regulation based on multi country multi industry business surveys They find that global rule making by technical experts is highly political and that even though rule making has shifted to the international level domestic institutions remain crucial Influence in this form of global private governance is not a function of the economic power of states but of the ability of domestic standard setters to provide timely information and speak with a single voice B the and Mattli show how domestic institutions abilities differ particularly between the two main standardization players the United States and Europe
