

Mathematics Alignment Lesson

Grade 5 Quarter 1 Day 24

Common Core State Standard(s)

5.NBT.4 Use place value understanding to round decimals to any place.

Standards for Mathematical Practice

Standard 3 Construct viable arguments and critique the reasoning of others.

Materials Needed:

- Cardstock-
"Decimal Cards" (10 copies per class)
- Transparency/Blackline Master-
"Decimal Benchmarks"
- Construction paper (large sheet)
- Glue
- Markers

Assessment

Ask students: "I notice that 0.23 and 0.27 are very close. What would each one be rounded to? Why is there this difference?"

Homework

Blackline Master, "Use Benchmarks to Round Decimals Journal Prompt"

Alignment Lesson

Use Benchmarks to Round Decimals

1. Display Transparency "Decimal Benchmarks", showing only one column at a time from left to right. Display the first column (decimals near or equal to 0), tell students that all of these decimals are near or equal to 0, and ask students to study the decimals shown and see what they have in common. Use math talk to generate rules for determining if decimals are close or equal to 0 and record them in the first column on the transparency. Have students record the rules on their copy of the chart as well.
2. Repeat these steps for each of the other benchmarks.
3. Break students into groups of 3 – 4 and give each group a set of decimal cards and a large sheet of construction paper. Have each group divide their sheet into 5 columns and copy the headings from the chart you've just used. Students will then work together to place the cards in the correct column, gluing them down once the group has reached consensus.
4. Have a student leader guide the class to discuss where these decimals should be placed. Make sure that students give a clear rationale for their placement of the decimal.

Note: To maximize instructional time, have sets of decimal cards pre-cut and in baggies prior to the lesson.

Note: Assign homework "Use Benchmarks to Round Decimals Journal Prompt" to give students an opportunity to reflect on to determine if a decimal is close or equal to 0, 0.5, 1.0, 1.5 or much greater than 1.5.
