House of Commons - Business, Innovation and Skills Committee: The Retail Sector: Volume I - HC 168-I Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Business, Innovation and Skills Committee,Adrian Bailey,2014-03-04 The Committee calls for a wholesale review that goes beyond the administration of business rates to examine whether retail taxes should be based on sales rather than the rateable value of a property whether retail needs its own system of business taxation and how frequently revaluations should take place In the interim the Committee calls for a six months business rates amnesty for businesses occupying empty properties This would go further than the 50% reduction announced in the Autumn Statement and would encourage new businesses to the High Street The Committee also recommends that in the interim the Government review whether business rates are more appropriately linked to CPI or RPI and calls for annual increases to be linked to a 12 month average of either RPI or CPI with a cap at 2% This would replace the current link to a monthly snapshot of RPI The Government should provide information on how and how much of the money allocated to the Portas Pilots is being spent This follows concerns that much of the money allocated to the pilots has not been spent The Government is also urged to outline the results of its latest STEM skills analysis and outline the action it will take to tackle any skills shortages The retail sector also needs to encourage more staff to be trained at Apprenticeship Level 3 and above and consider developing language skills to enhance the international consumers experience

Your Federal Income Tax for Individuals , Bible Missals and the Medieval Dominican Liturgy Innocent Smith,2023-11-06 Bible Missals are manuscripts that integrate liturgical prayers for the Mass with the scriptural texts of the Latin Vulgate Long overlooked by scholars Bible Missals offer important evidence for the development of the medieval liturgy and the liturgical use of scripture by medieval Christians This monograph is the first comprehensive analysis of the codicology and contents of Bible Missals Mostly produced in the first half of the 13th century by professional book makers in centers like Paris and Oxford these hybrid manuscripts were customized for secular monastic and mendicant patrons This monograph focuses on Dominican Bible Missals the largest group within the repertoire providing detailed codicological descriptions of each manuscript and analyzing their texts for the Order of Mass and selected liturgical formularies including prayers for the feast of St Dominic For medieval Christians the words and events of scripture were continually called to mind and reenacted in the sacramental rites of the Mass Bible Missals provide important material evidence for this interplay between word and sacrament
