Honduras International Monetary Fund. Western Hemisphere Dept., 2016-11-22 This Selected Issues paper uses efficiency frontiers for benchmarking of social spending in Honduras The results reveal significant room to improve public health and education spending efficiency with potentially large fiscal savings From an input oriented point of view Honduras performs poorly in education and health spending efficiency From an output oriented point of view health spending efficiency appears to be in line with regional comparators while there is room to improve efficiency in secondary education In health and education spending the priority is to tackle the disconnection between compensation benefits and labor productivity

The Profiteers Sally Denton,2017-02-14 The tale of the Bechtel family dynasty is a classic American business story It begins with Warren A Dad Bechtel who led a consortium that constructed the Hoover Dam From that auspicious start the family and its eponymous company would go on to build the world from the construction of airports in Hong Kong and Doha to pipelines and tunnels in Alaska and Europe to mining and energy operations around the globe Today Bechtel is one of the largest privately held corporations in the world enriched and empowered by a long history of government contracts and the privatization of public works made possible by an unprecedented revolving door between its San Francisco headquarters and Washington

Mechanical Properties Data Center,1970      Making Republicans Liberal Kristoffer Smemo,2024-08-20 Mass movements and social protest forced mid century Republicans to articulate their own form of liberalism As poor and working people organized themselves on the job in the streets and at the polls during the mid twentieth century they forced Republicans to reckon with new demands for political and social citizenship in big cities across the Northeast Midwest and Pacific Coast While rightwing Republicans mobilized to crush those movements Making Republicans Liberal explores how another wing of the party responded to intensifying mass movement pressure Beginning in the 1930s Republican governors such as Earl Warren of California George Romney of Michigan and Nelson Rockefeller of New York spent the next four decades articulating their own vision of liberalism These Republican liberals believed that strategically they could not win elections and govern in places where unions civil rights groups and other social movements organized voters What may have begun as an opportunistic strategy soon mutated into an ideological commitment to use state power to realize working people s demands for a greater say and stake in the decisions governing their lives Republican liberals accepted labor s right to organize legislated antidiscrimination laws and legalized abortion Yet at the same time each of those policies proved weaker than the alternatives supported by organized labor or mainline civil rights groups and paled in comparison to what people on strike and on the march really wanted Kristoffer Smemo shows how this was the contradiction of Republican liberalism as a policy program and as an ideology The reforms it ushered in at once asked too much from core conservative Republican constituencies and offered too little to the movements struggling for change As the movements making Republicans compromise fragmented and collapsed in the late twentieth century so too did the material foundation for Republican liberalism      Title List of Documents Made Publicly Available U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission,1984-02

Bureau of Naval Personnel Information Bulletin ,1944      Migration, Mobility and Education Kate Hoskins,Bernard Barker,2025-05-06 This book examines the role of family and schooling through an interpretive qualitative intergenerational case study It examines the formation of academic and vocational aspirations by second generation G2 migrant students from diverse international backgrounds Looking at the influence of family background the changes and impacts of the migrant experience and the effectiveness of the Academy Hoskins and Barker interpret the successes of a cohort of sixth form migrant students from diverse backgrounds They ask key questions about how participants perceive their lived experiences and imagined futures how their aspirations and identities relate to their background circumstances and in what ways the school and teachers enable and facilitate their future progress and potential career pathways The findings challenge prevailing pessimism about the role of families and schools in enabling social mobility and suggests the possibility that there may be important messages here for social mobility more widely How do G2 migrants buck the trend A valuable resource for scholars of social mobility as well as for educators especially those working with migrant learners The use of theory policy analysis and genealogy will provide students with accessible social mobility case studies     Routledge Handbook of Civil and Uncivil Society in Southeast Asia Eva Hansson, Meredith L.
