Moore, Barbara B. Wilson, 2013-07-24 The book shines light on the problem of judgment particularly in the realm of architectural technics and the codes that regulate it The struggle to define sustainability and thus judge architecture through such lenses is but one dimension of the contemporary problem of judgment By providing the reader with an inherently interdisciplinary study of a particular discipline architecture it brings to the topic lenses that challenge the too frequently unexamined assumptions of the discipline By situating architecture within a broader cultural field and using case studies to dissect the issues discussed the book emphasizes that it is not simply a matter of designing better more efficient or more stringent codes to guide place making but a matter of reconstructing the boundaries of the systems to be coded The authors are winners of the EDRA Place Research Award 2014 for their work on the Green Alley Demonstration Project used in the book Dream Cities Wade Graham, 2016-05-15 The ideas that became the blueprints for the world we live in Architecture's New Media Yehuda E. Kalay, 2004 A comprehensive examination of computer aided architectural design and its potential effect on architectural design practice for practitioners educators students and researchers Computer aided design CAD technology has already changed the practice of architecture and it has the potential to change it even more radically With Architecture's New Media Yehuda Kalay offers a comprehensive exposition of the principles methods and practices that underlie architectural computing He discusses the aspects of information technology that are pertinent to architectural design analyzes the benefits and drawbacks of particular computational methods and looks at the potential of emerging computational techniques to affect the future of architectural design CAD technology introduced in the postwar era and adopted in everyday architectural practice beginning in the 1970s is now so indispensable that as William Mitchell observes in his foreword architectural practice without it is as unimaginable as writing without a word processor Yet Kalay argues it has had little qualitative effect This book provides a detailed introduction for practitioners educators students and researchers to aspects of CAD that go beyond the improvements in drafting modeling and rendering for which it is commonly used Computer aided architectural design CAAD is capable of modeling and manipulating objects not merely their graphical representations reasoning about and predicting performance of design solutions generating new design solutions through algorithmic and other methods managing vast amounts of information and taking advantage of opportunities offered by the Internet for collaboration across time and space and for design of the virtual space of the Internet itself Architecture's New Media covers five main topics design methods and computer technology and the relationship between computers and design the principles of communication and representation generative design methods the advantages of computational methods for predicting and evaluating the performance of design solutions and current and future developments in technology including collaborative design intelligent design assistants construction automation and virtual design environments
