Film, Architecture and Spatial Imagination Renée Tobe,2016-08-25 Films use architecture as visual shorthand to tell viewers everything they need to know about the characters in a short amount of time Illustrated by a diverse range of films from different eras and cultures this book investigates the reciprocity between film and architecture Using a phenomenological approach it describes how we the viewers can learn how to read architecture and design in film in order to see the many inherent messages Architecture s representational capacity contributes to the plausibility or reality possible in film The book provides an ontological understanding that clarifies and stabilizes the reciprocity of the actual world and a filmic world of illusion and human imagination thereby shedding light on both film and architecture Architecture and Science-fiction Film David Terrance Fortin,2011 The enduring paradoxes of the home are often brought to light in science fiction SF writing and film However while crossovers between architecture and SF have proliferated the home is often overshadowed by the spectacle of otherness By examining the home from the estranging perspective of SF and in particular the films based on Phillip K Dick s books this work offers a unique critical analysis with particular relevance for contemporary architecture Perspective as Logic: Positioning Film in Architecture Stefanos Roimpas,2023-04-28

Perspective as Logic offers an architectural examination of the filmic screen as an ontologically unique element in the discipline's repertoire. The book determines the screen's conditions of possibility by critically asking not what a screen means but how it can mean anything of architectural significance. Based on this shift of enquiry towards the question of meaning, it introduces Jacques Lacan and Alain Badiou in an unprecedented way to architecture since they exemplify an analogous shift of perspective towards the question of the subject and the question of being accordingly. The book begins by positing perspective projection as being a logical mapping of space instead of a matter of sight. Alberti, Lacan. Secondly, it discusses the very nature of architecture's view and relation to the topological notion of outside between immediacy and mediation. Diller and Scofidio, The Slow House. It examines the limitation of pictorial illusion and the productive negativity in the suspension of architecture's signified equivalent to language's production of undecidable propositions. Eisenman, Badiou. In addition, the book outlines the difference between the point of view and the vanishing point by introducing two different conceptions of infinity. Michael Webb, Temple Island. Finally, a series of design experiments playfully shows how the screen exemplifies architecture's self-reflexive capacity where material and immaterial components are part of the spatial conception to which they refer and produce. This book will be particularly appealing to scholars of architectural theory, especially those interested in the domains of philosophy, psychoanalysis, and the linguistic turn of architecture.

Architecture, Film, and the In-Between Vahid Vahdat, James F. Kerestes, 2024-09-09. How films imagine and represent in-between spaces and how cinematic production becomes a site to project spatial fantasies. Architecture, Film, and the Inbetween. Spatio-Cinematic Betwixt looks at the cinematic representation of architectural in-betweenness as well as the in-between spaces within the architectural structure of films. As films seek to depict architecture in evolving original ways, they can also expand betwixt areas, imbuing them with horror or fantasy. Spies can escape inside unconvincingly stable ducts, and children can slide through pipes with no discernible function. And just as subway routes and airplanes can stitch together two destinations, loopholes and magic architectural features can connect distinct realms via interstitial spaces. Contributors discuss a range of architects and filmmakers, including John Lautner, David Lynch, Christopher Nolan, Agnès Varda, and Mies van der Rohe, and take diverse approaches to the liminal space between architecture and film, touching on existential experience, post-phenomenological thinking, sociopolitical cinearchitecture, fictive ecologies, and more. Collecting essays by well-respected architects, thinkers, and philosophers such as Juhani Pallasmaa, Beatriz Colomina, and Graham Harman, the book includes imagery and infographics that map filmic spaces, diagram narratives, and visualize the hidden spatial dimensions of movies.

Cinema & Architecture: Fresh Perspectives Pasquale De Marco, 2025-07-24. Cinema Architecture: Fresh Perspectives explores the dynamic and ever-evolving relationship between two powerful art forms. From the early days of silent films to the modern era of digital cinema, filmmakers and architects have inspired and influenced each other, creating iconic and memorable works that have shaped our understanding of both disciplines. Architecture and Science-Fiction Film David T. Fortin,2016-12-05 The home is one of our most enduring human paradoxes and is brought to light tellingly in science fiction SF writing and film However while similarities and crossovers between architecture and SF have proliferated throughout the past century the home is often overshadowed by the spectacle of otherness The study of the familiar home within the alien SF creates a unique cultural lens through which to reflect on our current architectural condition SF has always been linked with alienation however the conditions of such alienation and hence notions of home have evidently changed There is often a perceived comprehension of the familiar that atrophies the inquisitive and interpretive processes commonly activated when confronting the unfamiliar. Thus by utilizing the estranging qualities of SF to look at a concept inherently linked to its perceived opposite the home a unique critical analysis with particular relevance for contemporary architecture is made possible. Slicing Spaces Gul Kacmaz Erk, Rebecca-Jane McConnell, 2023. As suggested in the title Slicing Spaces Performance of Architecture in Cinema this project slices through the multifaceted layers of film space. The text investigates how architecture performs as an altruist proving that envired space is not merely a backdrop in film scenes but an active performing character. The substantial spectrum of opinions from contributing authors allows the reader to absorb the diverse relationships of architecture in cinema inviting the reader to form their own opinions on the topic and inspiring a new way of thinking. Slicing Spaces explores the interconnected relationship between architecture and film via distinct approaches to spaces of the city confinement actuality the psyche and the imagination. The book uncovers a path to look at lived spaces of architectural design from an alternative perspective focusing on the authoritative contribution of architecture to the realm of filmmaking.
