Navarro,2016-04-01 Scientists historians philosophers and theologians often engage in debates on the limitations and mutual interactions of their respective fields of study Serious discussions are often overshadowed by the mass produced popular and semi popular literature on science and religion as well as by the political agendas of many of the actors in these debates For some reducing religion and science to forms of social discourse is a possible way out from epistemological overlapping between them yet is there room for religious faith only when science dissolves into one form of social discourse The religion thus rescued would have neither rational legitimisation nor metaphysical validity but if both scientific and religious theories try to make absolute claims on all possible aspects of reality then conflict between them seems almost inevitable In this book leading authors in the field of science and religion including William Carroll Steve Fuller Karl Giberson and Roger Trigg highlight the oft neglected and profound philosophical foundations that underlie some of the most frequent questions at the boundary between science and religion the reality of knowledge and the notions of creation life and design In tune with Mariano Artigas s work the authors emphasise that these are neither religious nor scientific but serious philosophical questions
