Communications course Master in Communication language English abstract In recent years China's Automotive Market has grown tremendously and reached the goal to be the world's biggest. With the increase of automotive competitors not only from local but also foreign organizations a car brand needs to understand its audience well in order to apply its marketing communication strategies. In other words, apply the correct messages and related media to communicate with the targeted Chinese consumers successfully. China has currently 1.3 billion individual consumers on the market, out of which over 350 are USD Billionaires and 500 million are below age 30. These two distinctive statistics of the consumer market are specifically pointed out as they are the key to acknowledging that the consumers in China are changing. Recent studies have shown that the purchasing criteria, decision making process and used communication channels are quite different of the younger consumers than those of the lost generation who acquired sudden wealth after the Cultural Revolution. Though the newly rich now in their 50s are still the main target group of luxury brands in China, a good marketer always has to be able to predict future developments. With the modernization of the Chinese society the costumers who will inherit the fortunes of the lost generation and rise in line with the rise of the country's economy is namely Generation Y. Who are these successors of the post revolution newly rich consumers and how do we communicate a product to them successfully? On the basis of my unquestionable fascination by China's Automotive Market and German Luxury car brands I will pursue to answer the above question in order to give an overview for a marketer as to how successfully communicate a car to Chinese Generation

The Marketing Complex Giles Lury,2017-09-03 Many marketers spend their days continually reducing brand positioning into single sentences to answer questions such as What is the brand message or What is the USP This tendency to perpetually condense and simplify is a carry over from a long gone era when products and services remained static and changes in platforms happened much more slowly Today however the reality is that brands are infinitely more complex and span territories consumer groups and categories Therefore to boil a branding message down into a single sentence or USP severely limits a brand s potential scope After all a brand is like a person and a person could never be accurately described in a single sentence The Marketing Complex examines the current obsession with over simplification and fearlessly challenges marketers to consider whether they are blurring the line between simplifying and simplistic By exploring the origins and appeal of simplification through some of the best known literature the book conclusively proves that endless simplification actually only serves to limit a brand s appeal By presenting a visionary new model supported by examples tools and expertly explained techniques The Marketing Complex will enable marketers to recognise the important role that depth and multiplicity play in communicating a brand message and to boldly embrace complexity when crafting
