Knowledge, Power and Young Sexualities Tamara Shefer, Jeff Hearn, 2022-07-27 This book troubles the ways young people have been constructed as trouble through critical readings of the effects and impacts politically and ideologically globally and locally of scholarship and practice directed at South African young people's sexualities over the last three decades of addressing HIV GBV and other sexual and gender justice challenges Located primarily in South Africa the book speaks to global concerns about the politics of knowledge and transnational flows of information and practice with respect to gender and sexuality and is framed by global imperatives and analyses located in transnational postcolonial and intersectional feminist frameworks The key argument developed here and explored in relation to several different forms of research and practice is that efforts to challenge HIV GBV and unequal sexual and gender practices among young people particularly as evident in heterosexual relationships have tended to reflect and reproduce renewed orthodoxies about sexuality gender family and young people while bolstering global and local racist classist othering of certain communities and nation states and reiterating the innocence and authority of those already privileged and centred The book contributes to critical reflexive work on global practices of knowledge and its complex enmeshment with power in the terrain of sexual and gender justice work aimed at young people

Academic Life in the Measured University Tai Peseta, Simon Barrie, Jan McLean, 2020-05-18 While a life in academia is still one bestowed with enormous privilege and opportunity on the inside its cracks and fragility have been on display for some time We see evidence of this in researchers bemoaning time spent applying for grants rather than doing research teachers frustrated at the ways student feedback data are deployed to feed judgements about them and doctoral students realising that they have little chance of securing full time academic work Yet in the public policy domain the opposite appears true academics left to their own devices in their elite ivory towers rarely ever do enough This collection addresses the fact that academic life deserves to be rigorously researched Its emphasis on the measured university traces how academic life had ceded itself to the logics of perverse measures and raises questions about whether the contemporary university may well have become too measured to adequately counter the political times now upon us The contributors explore the ways in which measurement inhabits paradoxical positions in these spaces It sketches the contours and consequences of mismeasurement including the personal costs to academic staff It examines our desires and fumbled efforts at institutional transformation and it puts on display our own ethical conduct The collection concludes with a call to chart a course for a revitalized moral economy of academic labour This book was originally published as a special issue of Higher Education Research Development Environment and Society in Ethiopia Girma Kebbede, 2016-10-04 Ethiopia is facing environmental and poverty challenges and urgently needs effective management of its environmental resources Much of the Ethiopian landscape has been significantly altered and reshaped by centuries of human activities and three quarters of the rural population is living on degraded land Over the past two decades the country has seen rapid economic and population growth and unparalleled land use change This book explores the challenges of sustaining the resource base while fuelling the economy and providing for a growing population that is greatly dependent on natural resources for income and livelihoods Adopting a political ecology perspective this book comprehensively examines human impacts on the environment in Ethiopia defining the environment both in terms of the quantity and quality of renewable and non renewable natural resources With high levels of economic production and consumption also come unintended side effects waste discharges emissions of pollutants and industrial effluents These pollutants can degrade the quality of water air land and forests as well as harm the health of people animals and other living organisms if untreated or disposed of improperly This book demonstrates how the relationship between society and environment is inherently and delicately interwoven providing an account of Ethiopia's current environment and natural resource base and future considerations for environmentally sustainable development Urban Water Engineering and Management Mohammad Karamouz, Ali Moridi, 2025-09-29 Integrating the latest developments in urban water hydrology and management Urban Water Engineering and Management takes a system approach to urban water hydrology engineering planning and management supplying examples and case studies and highlighting pressing issues such as urban water governance disaster management and climate change impacts on urban areas This expanded and updated edition draws attention to climate change as a main concern of this century by focusing on how it impacts the water cycle Time series analysis is simplified in a practical manner and hydro informatics principles and applications in urban water are also added as unique features of this edition Written and designed especially for intermediate and advanced courses modules in water resources in civil and environmental engineering and in urban planning this book can be used as a textbook for civil engineering urban and regional planning geography environmental science and in courses dealing with the urban water cycle Features Is updated throughout and adds numerous new examples and case studies Integrates the latest developments in urban water hydrology and management providing a holistic system perspective on urban water engineering and planning Includes numerous examples case studies and technological and IT tools addressing critical issues such as urban water governance asset and disaster management and the impacts of climate change on urban areas Offers new insights for engineers policy makers and

Social Policy in Post-Apartheid South Africa Ndangwa Noyoo, 2019-11-01 This book critically examines the current social policy in post apartheid South Africa and proposes an alternative social policy agenda to create a new development pathway for the country Taking social policy as a vehicle that will facilitate the creation of a new society altogether namely the Good Society the author argues for the adoption of policy that will socially re engineer South Africa The author shows how the policy tools and development interventions which were undertaken by the post apartheid state in driving South Africa s transformation agenda failed to emancipate many individuals families and communities from the cycle of intergenerational poverty and underdevelopment He contends that social policy interventions that foster the social re engineering of South African society must take place to untangle the inherited colonial apartheid social order This book includes comparative analyses on the Global South and Global North to present the ways in which countries such as post Second World War Great Britain and Sweden and post independence Zambia of the 1960s and 1970s were able to use social policy to create new societies altogether or places similar to the Good Society The conceptual and methodological issues that form the basis for this book reside in public policy making and the public good and will be of interest to scholars of social policy social development and South African society
