The Oxford Handbook of Caribbean Archaeology William F. Keegan, Corinne L. Hofman, Reniel Rodriguez Ramos, 2013-02-07 The Oxford Handbook of Caribbean Archaeology provides an overview of archaeological investigations in the insular Caribbean understood here as the islands whose shores surround the Caribbean Sea and the islands of the Bahama Archipelago Though these islands were never isolated from the surrounding mainland their histories are sufficiently diverse to warrant their identification as distinct areas of culture Over the past 20 years Caribbean archaeology has been transformed from a focus on reconstructing culture histories to one on the mobility and exchange expressed in cultural and social dynamics This Handbook brings together for the first time examples of the best research conducted by scholars from across the globe to address the complexity of the Caribbean past The Handbook is divided into five sections Part I Islands of History and the Precolonial History of the Caribbean Islands provides an introduction to Caribbean Archaeology and its history The papers in the following Ethnohistory section address the diversity of cultural practices expressed in the insular Caribbean and develop historical descriptions in concert with archaeological evidence in order to place language social organization and the native Ta nos and Island Caribs in perspective The following section Culture History provides the latest research on specific geographical locations and cross cultural engagements from Jamaica and the Bahama archipelago to the Saladoid and the Isthmo Antillean Engagements Creating History the fourth section includes papers on specific issues related to the field such as Zooarchaeology Rock Art and DNA analysis among others The final section World History centers on the consequences of European colonization plantation Historical Archaeologies of the Caribbean Contextualizing Sites through Colonialism Capitalism and Globalism addresses issues in Caribbean history and historical archaeology such as freedom frontiers urbanism postemancipation life trade plantation life and new heritage This collection moves beyond plantation archaeology by expanding the knowledge of the diverse Caribbean experiences from the late seventeenth through the mid nineteenth centuries The essays in this volume are grounded in strong research programs and data analysis that incorporate humanistic narratives in their discussions of Amerindian freedmen plantation institutional military and urban sites Sites include a sample of the many different types found across the Caribbean from a variety of colonial contexts that are seldom reported in archaeological research yet constitute components essential to understanding the full range and depth of Caribbean history Contributors examine urban contexts in Nevis and St John and explore the economic connections between Europeans and enslaved Africans in urban and plantation settings in St Eustatius The volume contains a pioneering study of frontier exchange with Amerindians in Dominica and a synthesis of ceramic exchange networks among enslaved Africans in the Leeward Islands Chapters on military forts in Nevis and St Kitts call attention to this often neglected aspect of the Caribbean colonial landscape Contributors also directly address culture heritage issues relating to community participation and interpretation On St Kitts the legacy of forced confinement of lepers ties into debates of current public health policy Plantation site studies from Antigua and Martinique are especially relevant because they detail comparisons of French and British patterns of African enslavement and provide insights into how each addressed the social and economic changes that occurred with emancipation Contributors Todd M Ahlman Douglas V Armstrong Samantha Rebovich Bardoe Paul Farnsworth Jeffrey R Ferguson R Grant Gilmore III Diana Gonz lez Tennant Edward Gonz lez Tennant Barbara J Heath Carter L Hudgins Kenneth G Kelly Eric Klingelhofer Roger H Leech Stephan Lenik Gerald F Schroedl Diane Wallman Christian Williamson

Blood is Thicker Than Water Alistair J. Bright, 2011 This study represents a contribution to the pre Colonial archaeology of the Windward Islands in the Caribbean The research aimed to determine how the Ceramic Age c 400 BC AD 1492 Amerindian inhabitants of the region related to one another and others at various geographic scales with a view to better understanding social interaction and organisation within the Windward Islands as well the integration of this region within the macro region This research approached the study of intra and inter island interaction and social development through an island by island study of some 640 archaeological sites and their ceramic assemblages Besides providing insight into settlement sequences patterns and micro mobility through time it also highlighted various configurations of sites spread across different islands that were united by shared ceramic decorative traits These configurations were more closely examined by taking recourse to graph theory By extending the comparative scope of this research to the Greater Antilles and the South American mainland possible material cultural influences from more distant regions could be suggested While Windward Island communities certainly developed a localised material cultural identity they remained open to a host of wide ranging influences outside the Windward Island micro region As such rather than representing a cultural backwater operating in the periphery of a burgeoning Ta no empire it is argued that Windward Island communities actively and flexibly realigned themselves with several mainland South American societies in Late Ceramic Age times c AD 700 1500 forging and maintaining significant ties and exchange relationships Alistair Bright was a member of the Caribbean Research Group at Leiden University from 2003 to 2010 and participated in numerous archaeological surveys and excavations in the Caribbean during that time His research interests include the archaeology ethnohistory and ethnography of the Caribbean and South America as well as the archaeology of island societies throughout the world in general
