Archaeology as a Tool of Civic Engagement Barbara J. Little, Paul A. Shackel, 2007-05-17 Archaeology as a Tool of Civic Engagement is an indispensable resource for archaeologists and the communities in which they work. The authors are intensely committed to developing effective models for participating in the civic renewal movement through active engagement in community life in development, for interpretive and educational programming and for participation in debates and decisions about preservation and community planning. Using case studies from different regions within the United States, Guatemala, Vietnam, Canada, and Eastern Europe, Little and Shackel challenge archaeologists to create an ethical public archaeology that is concerned not just with the management of cultural resources but with social justice and civic responsibility. Their new book will be a valuable guide for archaeologists, community planners, historians, and museum professionals.

Archaeology, Heritage, and Civic Engagement Barbara J. Little, Paul A. Shackel, 2016-09-16 The definition of public archaeology has expanded in recent years to include archaeologists' collaborations with and within communities and activities in support of education, civic renewal, peacebuilding, and social justice. Barbara Little and Paul Shackel, long-term leaders in the growth of a civically engaged relevant archaeology, outline a future trajectory for the field in this concise, thoughtful volume. Drawing from the archaeological study of race and labor among other examples, the authors explore this crucial opportunity and responsibility, then point the way for the discipline to contribute to the contemporary public good.

Community-based Archaeology Sonya Atalay, 2012 Community Based Participatory Research in archaeology finally comes of age with Atalay's long anticipated volume. This is essential reading for anyone who asks why we do archaeology, for whom, and how best can it be done. George Nicholas, author of Being and Becoming Indigenous. Archaeologists Sonya Atalay shows archaeologists how the process of Community Based Participatory Research can move our efforts at collaboration with local communities beyond theory and good intentions to a sustainable practice. This is a game-changing book that every archaeologist must read.

Randall H McGuire author of Archaeology as Political Action      Archaeology in Society Marcy Rockman, Joe Flatman, 2011-11-17 The practice of archaeology has many different facets from academia to government to cultural resource management to public media Considering the place of archaeology in society means understanding the role that archaeology has in the present day and a sense of the contributions that it can make in each of these areas both now and in the future Archaeologists come to the field to pursue a variety of interests teaching examining history preserving the environment or studying a specialized time period or interest The outside world has a number of other expectations of archaeology preservation tourism and education to name but a few From a broad and varied background the editors have compiled a rare group of contributors uniquely qualified to address questions about the current state of archaeology and its relevance in society There is no single answer to the question of how the field of archaeology should develop and what it can do for society Instead the authors in this volume lay out the many ways in which archaeology is relevant to the present day considering for example climate change energy exploration warfare national identity the importance of stories and how they are told and how and why opportunities to engage with the past through museums digs television classes and the print media have the form they currently do creating a state of the art tool for archaeologists policymakers and the public alike to understand the work of many in the field and address the challenges we all face      History and Approaches to Heritage Studies Phyllis Mauch Messenger, Susan J. Bender, 2019-01-21 This volume contributes to scholarship on the theory and practice of heritage with a focus on pedagogy It is an important collection at the intersection of theory practice and teaching This work intervenes in a broader discourse on the relevance of archaeology in education and the tensions between education for democracy and justice and the skills based economy      Bioarchaeology Debra L. Transcending the Culture-Nature Divide in Cultural Heritage Sally Brockwell, Sue O'Connor, Denis Byrne, 2013-12-13 While considerable research and on ground project work focuses on the interface between Indigenous local people and nature conservation in the Asia Pacific region the interface between these people and cultural heritage conservation has not received the same attention This collection brings together papers on the current mechanisms in place in the region to conserve cultural heritage values It will provide an overview of the extent to which local communities have been engaged in assessing the significance of this heritage and conserving it It will address the extent to which management regimes have variously allowed facilitated or obstructed continuing cultural engagement with heritage places and landscapes and discuss the problems agencies experience with protection and management of cultural heritage places

Heritage Studies Marie Louise Stig Sørensen, John Carman, 2009-09-18 This is the first volume specifically dedicated to the consolidation and clarification of Heritage Studies as a distinct field with its own means of investigation It presents the range of methods that can be used and illustrates their application through case studies from different parts of the world including the UK and USA The challenge that the collection makes explicit is that Heritage Studies must develop a stronger recognition of the scope and nature of its data and a concise yet explorative understanding of its analytical methods The methods considered fall within three broad categories textual discourse analysis methods for investigating people's attitudes and behaviour and methods for exploring the material qualities of heritage The methods discussed and illustrated range from techniques such as text analysis interviews participant observation to semiotic analysis of heritage sites and the use of GIS Each paper discusses the ways in which methods used in social analysis generally are explored and adapted to the specific demands that arise when applied to the investigation of heritage in its many forms Heritage Studies is a seminal volume that will help to define the field The global perspective and the shared focus upon the development of reflexive methodologies ensure that the volume explores these central issues in a manner that is simultaneously case specific and of general relevance New Perspectives in Global Public Archaeology Katsuyuki Okamura,Akira Matsuda,2011-09-03 Since its very beginning archaeology has in many senses always related to a much wider constituency than just archaeologists This relationship between archaeology and the public has often been overlooked and constantly changes Public archaeology as a field of research and practice has been developing since the 1970s in English speaking countries particularly in the United States Britain and Australia and is today beginning to spread to other parts of the world Global expansion of public archaeology comes with the recognition of the need for a careful understanding of local contexts particularly the culture and socio political climate This volume critically examines the current theories and practices of public archaeology through relevant case studies from different regions throughout the world including Japan China South Korea New Caledonia South Africa Senegal Jordan Italy Peru Canada the United Kingdom the United States and Australia These case studies are examined from a wide variety of theoretical contexts to provide a thorough and comprehensive guide to the state of public archaeology today as well as implications for its future As the theory and practice of public archaeology continues to change and grow archaeology s relationship with the broader community needs to be critically and openly examined The contributions in this wide ranging work are a key source of information for anyone practicing or studying archaeology in a public context The Oxford Handbook of North American Archaeology Timothy R. Pauketat,2012-02-23 The Oxford Handbook of North American Archaeology reviews the continent s first and last foragers farmers and great pre Columbian civic and ceremonial centers from Chaco Canyon to Moundville and beyond

Archaeologists as Activists M. Jay Stottman,2010 Examines the various ways in which archaeologists can and do use their research to forge a partnership with the past and guide the ongoing dialogue between the archaeological record and various contemporary stakeholders Could archaeologists benefit contemporary cultures and be a factor in solving world problems Can archaeologists help individuals Can archaeologists change the world These questions form the root of archaeology activism or activist archaeology using archaeology to advocate for and affect change in contemporary communities Archaeologists currently change the world through the products of their archaeological research that contribute to our collective historical and cultural knowledge Their work helps to shape and reshape our perceptions of the past and our understanding of written history Archaeologists affect contemporary communities through the consequences of their work as they become embroiled in controversies over negotiating the past and the present with native peoples Beyond the obvious economic contributions to local communities caused by heritage tourism established on the research of archaeologists at cultural sites archaeologists have begun to use the process of their work as a means to benefit the public and even advocate for communities In this volume Stottman and his colleagues examine the various ways in which archaeologists can and do use their research to forge a partnership with the past and guide the ongoing dialogue between the archaeological record and the various contemporary stakeholders They draw inspiration and guidance from applied anthropology social history public history heritage studies museum studies historic preservation philosophy and education to develop an activist approach to archaeology theoretically methodologically and ethically

Tradition, Archaeological Heritage Protection and Communities in the Limpopo Province of South Africa Innocent Pikirayi, 2011 This book captures community voices in matters relating to their relationship with specific archaeological heritage sites and landscapes in the Limpopo Province of South Africa Focusing on the stonewalled archaeological heritage associated with Venda speakers and the reburial in 2008 of human remains excavated by the University of Pretoria from the cultural landscape of Mapungubwe the book attempts to establish why archaeology and cultural heritage conservation struggle for relevance in South Africa today In articulating the relevance of archaeology in South Africa in particular and southern Africa in general and in the context of public or community based archaeology the book explores how communities and the public interact use and negotiate with their pasts The research critiques the notion of archaeological heritage conservation and attempts to understand cultural heritage conservation from the perspectives of descendant communities The book further exposes the conflict between cultural heritage protection efforts and modern development and questions the role of such efforts given the challenges of unemployment social inequality and poverty in democratic South Africa The book is also about community engagement in archaeology specifically in matters relating to access to cultural heritage resources This study suggests that there is scope for community archaeology to take centre stage and drive future directions in archaeology if archaeologists change their approach in dealing with communities Researchers are challenged in this study to rethink the notion of heritage to debate the objectives behind cultural heritage conservation and to critically reexamine the relevance of archaeology today This study suggests that the conflicting positions between heritage managers archaeologists and descendant communities may be resolved through sharing of tradition with the present

Transforming Archaeology Sonya Atalay, Lee Rains Clauss, Randall H McGuire, John R Welch, 2016-07 Archaeology for whom The dozen well known contributors to this innovative volume suggest nothing less than a transformation of the discipline into a service oriented community based endeavor They wish to replace the primacy of meeting academic demands with meeting the needs and values of those outside the field who may benefit most from our work They insist that we employ both rigorous scientific methods and an equally rigorous critique of those practices to ensure that our work addresses real world social environmental and political problems A transformed archaeology requires both personal engagement and a new toolkit Thus in addition to the theoretical grounding and case materials from around the world each contributor offers a personal statement of their goals and an outline of collaborative methods that can be adopted by other archaeologists

The Oxford Handbook of Public Archaeology Robin Skeates, Carol McDavid, John Carman, 2012-01-05 Divided into four distinct sections and drawing across various disciplines this volume seeks to reappraise the place of archaeology in the contemporary world by providing a series of essays that critically engage with both old and current debates in the field of public archaeology

Debating Archaeological Empiricism Charlotta Hillerdal, Johannes Siapkis, 2015-03-05 Debating Archaeological Empiricism examines the current intellectual turn in archaeology primarily in its prehistoric and classical branches characterized by a return to the archaeological evidence Each chapter in the book approaches the empirical from a different angle illuminating contemporary views and uses of the archaeological material in interpretations and theory building The inclusion of differing perspectives in this collection mirrors the conceptual landscape that characterizes the discipline contributing to the theoretical debate in archaeology and classical studies As well as giving an important snapshot of the practical as well as theoretical uses of materiality in archaeologies today this volume looks to the future of archaeology as an empirical discipline

Aboriginal and European History Past and Present Kellie Pollard, 2024-12-30 This book analyses the 150 year history of continuous contact between Aboriginal people and non Aboriginal people in the Darwin region of the Northern Territory of Australia after the European invasion in 1869 to the present day It explores the role Aboriginal fringe camps served and still do as places of interface between Aboriginal people and non Aboriginal people in the context of ongoing colonialism after colonisation The book argues that Aboriginal fringe camps provide much potential for elucidating aspects of Aboriginal responses to the European invasion and in a contemporary context bear distinct evidence of a cultural nature that associates their origins use purpose and functions predominantly with Aboriginal people It contributes a new and innovative theoretical model that will enable readers to conceive how insights about Aboriginal behaviour in the context of Aboriginal fringe camps were achieved The model is informed by the frameworks of colonialism and innovatively philosophy Contributing new theoretical knowledge to contact histories and relations between Europeans and Indigenous peoples the book will be important to researchers in the archaeology of Australia and those concerned with Indigenous Studies
