Archologies Of Colonialism Consumption Entanglement And Violence In Ancient Mediterranean France:

Archaeologies of Colonialism Michael Dietler, 2010 This book looks at the interactions between indigenous peoples of Mediterranean France and Etruscan Greek and Roman colonists during the first millennium BC It focuses on material culture urban landscapes economic practices and forms of violence It shows how selective consumption linked native societies and colonists and created transformative relationships for each It also examines the role these ancient encounters played in the formation of modern European identity colonial ideology and practices enumerating the problems for archaeologists attempting to reexamine these past societies

Archaeology of Entanglement Lindsay Der, Francesca Fernandini, 2016 Entanglement theory posits that the interrelationship of humans and objects is a delimiting characteristic of human history and culture Here leading archaeological theorists apply this concept to a broad range of topics including archaeological science heritage and theory itself

Colonial Encounters in Ancient Iberia Michael Dietler, Carolina López-Ruiz, 2009-10-15 During the first millennium BCE complex encounters of Phoenician and Greek colonists with natives of the Iberian Peninsula transformed the region and influenced the entire history of the Mediterranean One of the first books on these encounters to appear in English this volume brings together a multinational group of contributors to explore ancient Iberia's colonies and indigenous societies as well as the comparative study of colonialism These scholars from a range of disciplines including classics history anthropology and archaeology address such topics as trade and consumption changing urban landscapes cultural transformations and the ways in which these issues played out in the Greek and Phoenician imaginations Situating ancient Iberia within Mediterranean colonial history and establishing a theoretical framework for approaching encounters between colonists and natives these studies exemplify the new intellectual vistas opened by the engagement of colonial studies with Iberian history

Rethinking Colonial Pasts Through Archaeology Neal Ferris, Rodney Harrison, Michael Vincent Wilcox, 2014 This work explores the archaeologies of daily living left by the indigenous and other displaced peoples impacted by European colonial expansion over the last 600 years Case studies from North America Australia Africa the Caribbean and Ireland significantly revise conventional historical narratives of those interactions their presumed impacts and their ongoing relevance for the material social economic and political lives and identities of contemporary indigenous and other peoples

Scandinavian Colonialism and the Rise of Modernity Magdalena Naum, Jonas M. Nordin, 2013-02-20 In Scandinavian Colonialism and the Rise of Modernity Small Time Agents in a Global Arena archaeologists anthropologists and historians present case studies that focus on the scope and impact of Scandinavian colonial expansion in the North Africa Asia and America as well as within Scandinavia itself They discuss early modern thinking and theories made valid and developed in early modern Scandinavia that justified and propagated participation in colonial expansion The volume demonstrates a broad and comprehensive spectrum of archaeological anthropological and historical research which engages with a variation of themes relevant for the understanding of Danish and Swedish colonial history from the early 17th century until today The aim is to add to the on going global debates on the context of the rise of the modern society and to revitalize the field of early modern studies in Scandinavia where methodological nationalism still determines many archaeological and historical studies Through their theoretical commitment critical outlook and application of postcolonial theories the contributors to this book shed a new light on the processes of establishing and maintaining colonial rule hybridization and creolization in the sphere of material culture politics of resistance and responses to the colonial claims This volume is a fantastic resource for graduate students and researchers in historical archaeology Scandinavia early modern history and anthropology of colonialism The Art of Contact S. Rebecca Martin, 2017-05-19 The proem to Herodotus's history of the Greek Persian wars relates the long standing conflict between Europe and Asia from the points of view of the Greeks chief antagonists the Persians and Phoenicians However humorous or fantastical these accounts may be their stories as voiced by a Greek reveal a great deal about the perceived differences between Greeks and others The conflict is framed in political not absolute terms correlative to historical events not in terms of innate qualities of the participants Becky Martin reconsiders works of art produced by or thought to be produced by Greeks and Phoenicians during the first millennium B C when they were in prolonged contact with one another Although primordial narratives that emphasize an essential quality of Greek and Phoenician identities have been critiqued for decades Martin contends that the study of ancient history has not yet effectively challenged the idea of the inevitability of the political and cultural triumph of Greece She aims to show how the methods used to study ancient history shape perceptions of it and argues that art is especially positioned to revise conventional accountings of the history of Greek Phoenician interaction Examining Athenian and Tyrian coins kouros statues and wall mosaics as well as the familiar Alexander Sarcophagus and the sculpture known as the Slipper Slapper Martin questions what constituted Greek and Phoenician art and by extension Greek and Phoenician identity Alcohol and Humans Kimberley Hockings, Robin Ian MacDonald Dunbar, 2020 Alcohol use has a long and ubiquitous history This fascinating multi disciplinary volume examines the broad use of alcohol in the human lineage and its wider relationship to social contexts such as feasting sacred rituals and social bonding Making Journeys Catriona D. Gibson, Kerri Cleary, Catherine J. Frieman, 2021-02-01 Despite notable explorations of past dynamics much of the archaeological literature on mobility remains dominated by accounts of earlier prehistoric gatherer hunters or the long distance exchange of materials Refinements of scientific dating techniques isotope trace element and aDNA analyses in conjunction with phenomenological investigation computer aided landscape modeling and GIS style approaches to large data sets allow us to follow the movement of people animals and objects in the past with greater precision and conviction One route into exploring mobility in the past may be through exploring the movements and biographies of artifacts Challenges lie not only in tracing the origins and final destinations of objects but in the less tangible in between journeys and the hands they passed through Biographical approaches to artifacts include the recognition that culture contact and hybridity affect material culture in meaningful ways Furthermore discrete and bounded sites still dominate archaeological inquiry leaving the spaces and connectivities between features and settlements unmapped These are linked to an under explored middle spectrum of mobility a range nestled between everyday movements and one off ambitious voyages We wish to explore how these travels involved entangled meshworks of people animals objects knowledge sets and identities By crossing and re crossing cultural contextual and tenurial boundaries such journeys could create diasporic and novel communities ideas and materialities

Tenahaha and the Wari State Justin Jennings, Willy Yépez Álvarez, 2015 Tenahaha and the Wari State presents new findings and interpretations that challenge existing theories of Wari state dominance during the Middle Horizon period A D 600 1000 in Peru Ritual, Performance, and Politics in the Ancient Near East Lauren Ristvet, 2015 In this book Lauren Ristvet rethinks the narratives of state formation by investigating the interconnections between ritual performance and politics in the ancient Near East She draws on a wide range of archaeological iconographic and cuneiform sources to show how ritual performance was not set apart from the real practice of politics it was politics Rituals provided an opportunity for elites and ordinary people to negotiate political authority Descriptions of rituals from three periods explore the networks of signification that informed different societies From circa 2600 to 2200 BC pilgrimage made kingdoms out of previously isolated villages Similarly from circa 1900 to 1700 BC commemorative ceremonies legitimated new political dynasties by connecting them to a shared past Finally in the Hellenistic period the traditional Babylonian Akitu festival was an occasion for Greek speaking kings to show that they were Babylonian and for Babylonian priests to gain significant power

The Archaeology and Ethnohistory of Araucanian Resilience Jacob J. Sauer, 2014-09-13 This volume examines the processes and patterns of Araucanian cultural development and resistance to foreign influences and control through the combined study of historical and ethnographic records complemented by archaeological investigation in south central Chile This examination is done through the lens of Resilience Theory which has the potential to offer an interpretive framework for analyzing Araucanian culture through time and space Resilience Theory describes the capacity of a system to absorb disturbances and reorganize while undergoing change so as to still retain the same function The Araucanians incorporated certain Spanish material culture into their own rejected others and strategically restructured aspects of their political economic social and ideological institutions in order to remain independent for over 350 years

Archaeology Ann B. Stahl, 2022-11-21 History lies beneath our feet and in the landscapes around us In contrast to the history that comes from studying texts archaeology is the study of history through objects monuments and other traces of past lives history that extends beyond the earliest writings into the deep past revealing the varied pathways that led to the present and the challenges often similar to those we face today that confronted our ancestors Ann Stahl argues that archaeology is unique in its focus on the everyday lives of all peoples in all places and times From ancient temples to humble homes archaeologists piece together worlds that would otherwise be lost knowledge that shows us how routine actions have shaped societies how and why societies have changed in light of environment politics and culture and perhaps what the future holds for our societies too Using compelling examples from a storied international career Stahl provides the perfect summary of why archaeology is both a vitally important and enjoyable subject to study

Materialising the Roman Empire Jeremy Tanner, Andrew Gardner, 2024-03-19 Materialising the Roman Empire defines an innovative research agenda for Roman archaeology highlighting the diverse ways in which the Empire was made materially tangible in the lives of its inhabitants The volume explores how material culture was integral to the processes of imperialism both as the Empire grew and as it fragmented and in doing so provide up to date overviews of major topics in Roman archaeology Each chapter offers a critical overview of a major field within the archaeology of the Roman Empire The book's authors explore the distinctive contribution that archaeology and the study of material culture can make to our understanding of the key institutions and fields of activity in the Roman Empire The initial chapters address major technologies which at first glance appear to be mechanisms of integration across the Roman Empire roads writing and coinage The focus then shifts to analysis of key social structures oriented around material forms and activities found all over the Roman world such as trade urbanism slavery craft production and frontiers Finally the book extends to more abstract dimensions of the Roman world art empire religion and ideology in which the significant themes remain the dynamics of power and influence The whole builds towards a broad exploration of the nature of imperial power and the inter connections that stimulated new community identities and created new social divisions

The Oxford Handbook of History and Material Culture Ivan Gaskell, Sarah Anne Carter, 2020 Most historians rely principally on written sources Yet there are other traces of the past available to historians the material things that people have chosen made and used This book examines how material culture can enhance historians understanding of the past both worldwide and across time Deploying material culture to discover the pasts of constituencies who have left few traces in written record the authors present familiar historical problems in new ways This volume offers case studies arranged thematically in six sections that address the relationship of history and material culture to cognition technology the symbolic social distinction and memory
