Fictional Plot Structure Foldable:

Unveiling Structures in Colson Whitehead's Fiction Paula Martín-Salván, 2025-10-03 This book offers a comprehensive critical analysis of Colson Whitehead's fiction positioning him as a key figure in both African American literature and the global turn to genre. It explores how Whitehead employs conventions from popular genres such as detective, zombie, and caper stories not merely for entertainment but as tools for ideological critique and narrative innovation. Central to the study is the concept of narratives of unveiling in which information is revealed retrospectively, disrupting linear storytelling and reshaping ethical perspectives. These structures allow Whitehead to expose the systemic roots of racism and ideological conflict embedded in American society. The book situates his work within broader debates about canon formation, Afro-pessimism and post-soul aesthetics, and the politics of form. Through close readings of Whitehead's novels, it demonstrates how Whitehead challenges racial myths and signifies genre expectations, offering narratives that performatively enact cultural critique.

Fictional Akkadian Autobiography Tremper Longman, 1991 That autobiography in ancient literature is fictional has long been recognized. The purpose of Longman's study is to delineate the genre of fictional autobiography in Akkadian texts with similar texts from other ancient Near Eastern cultures. Included are the texts of all relevant fictional Akkadian autobiographies as well as an appendix containing English translations of them. The results of the study are of interest to Assyriologists but also have implications for students of comparative literature and the Bible. The Contribution of Fiction to Organizational Ethics Howard Harris, Michael Schwartz, 2014-09-05 Stories are essential to any organization. They help organizations define who they are, what they do, and how they do it. In this issue, we consider how fiction has questioned the moral rules and examined such situations and, in doing so, how it has contributed to our understanding of organizational ethics.

Reality Simulation in Science Fiction Literature, Film and Television Heather Duerre Humann, 2019-08-27 In recent decades, science fiction in both print and visual media has produced an outpouring of story lines that feature forms of simulated reality. These depictions appear with such frequency that fictional portrayals of simulated worlds have become a popular sci-fi trope, one that prompts timeless questions about the nature of reality while also tapping into contemporary debates about emerging technologies. In combination with tech-driven tensions, this study shows that our collective sense of living in politically uncertain times also propels the popularity of these story lines. Because of the kinds of questions they raise and the cultural anxieties they provoke, these fictional representations provide a window into contemporary culture and demonstrate how we are reassessing our own reality.

Reimagining Capitalism: Applying Negative Dialectics for a Better Future David Atkinson, 2023-05-09 The Covid 19 pandemic reinforced the perception that capitalism is in crisis that the future is volatile uncertain complex and ambiguous and that increasingly our thinking about it and ability to manage and organize ourselves within it are challenges we are ill equipped for Despite the efforts of many writers and a surfeit of manuscripts concerning the need to rethink capitalism questions concerning the struggle for social and economic justice remain unanswered While some suggest that with corrective action businesses can save the world there is an acceptance that they cannot do so alone However while governments might strengthen their institutions enacting more effective policies the challenge is simply laid bare at the feet of industry and commerce Is the challenge to confront the establishment just too big to face Government institutions and the barons of industry and commerce are but interrelated interconnected interplaying components in one socio economic system This book offers readers a progressive radical and academic provocation of that system it also proposes a field of Applied Negative Dialectics In Reimagining Capitalism Atkinson confronts the need to rethink capitalism and presents an integrated range of thinking through a lens of applied negative dialectics questioning how and why things might have occurred and where and how we might begin to improve them

Fiction on the Page in Nineteenth-Century Magazines Maria Damkjær, 2024-11-25 What makes fiction recognizable as fiction Texts are shaped by their material print but this book argues that they can also be made in response to it that the needs of the magazine in the nineteenth century spurred writers to create hybrid entangled texts Using book history genre theory and literary close reading this book argues that narrative fiction in the nineteenth century popular periodical was a malleable substance By looking at typography and the attempts to squeeze in too much text or stretch out too little text the book asks what the relationship was between the page that needed filling and the short story that tried to fill it In the messy hybrids and outliers we explore what fiction might have become The book works with magazines like the Englishwoman s Domestic Magazine first series 1852 59 the Family Herald 1842 1945 the Home Circle 1849 54 and authors like Elizabeth Gaskell George Augustus Sala and Samuel Beeton It also includes a chapter on Charles Dickens s arguably least successful venture Master Humphrey s Clock 1840 1 where Dickens was noticeably straining to sell and fill a weekly magazine While the book is not attempting to destabilise the status of canonical fiction it does ask how the page makes fiction happen what kind of readers magazines imagined for themselves and what readers thought they were reading when they picked up an issue The book argues that magazines projected a print imaginary a symbolic realm where the magazine fits perfectly into the lives of happy active readers

Make Believe in Film and Fiction K. Kroeber, 2006-05-12 This study provides the first detailed contrast between the experiences of reading a novel and watching a movie Kroeber shows how fiction evokes morally inflected imagining and how movies reveal through magnification of human movements and expression subjective effects of complex social changes

The Multiverse as Theory in Postmodern Speculative Fictional Narratives Angélica Cabrera Torrecilla, Francisco Sáez de Adana, 2024-11-15 The Multiverse as Theory in Postmodern Speculative Fictional Narratives considers the concept of the multiverse beyond the immediacy of being merely an excuse or scenario for the development of stories instead positioning the multiverse as a theoretical method in which speculative fiction narratives can explore diverse issues to bridge ideas across cultural social and philosophical analysis Taking a cross cultural approach the book centres around the critical engagements that literary and media texts have with the representations of the multiverse beyond considering this subject as a mere rhetorical flourish or a passing fad A diverse and international team of authors engage with the multiverse from the point of view of other worlds understanding it not as the appearance of another independent world but as the collision of two or more different worlds into one of them From this key finding the multiverse encourages us to pay attention to the influence that fiction exerts on narratives and world building providing possible frameworks to rethink critical aspects of temporality space self society and culture in contemporary times This pioneering work will interest students and scholars working in the areas of media and cultural studies comparative literature popular culture studies speculative fiction and transmedia studies The Rhetoric of Fiction Wayne C. Booth, 2010-05-15 The first edition of The Rhetoric of Fiction transformed the criticism of fiction and soon became a classic in the field. One of the most widely used texts in fiction courses, it is a standard reference point in advanced discussions of how fictional form works, how authors make novels accessible, and how readers recreate texts and its concepts and terms. Such as the implied author, the postulated reader, and the unreliable narrator have become part of the standard critical lexicon. For this new edition, Wayne C. Booth has written an extensive Afterword in which he clarifies misunderstandings, corrects what he now views as errors, and sets forth his own recent thinking about the rhetoric of fiction. The other new feature is a Supplementary Bibliography prepared by James Phelan in consultation with the author, which lists the important critical works of the past twenty years, two decades that Booth describes as the richest in the history of the subject. Imaginary Spaces of Power in Sub-Saharan Literatures and Films Alix Mazuet, 2012-04-25 This collection of essays is unlike others in the field of African studies for it is based on three very precisely delineated focal points: a particular geographical region, the sub-Saharan; specific modes of cultural production, literature and cinema; and a focus on works of French expression. This three-fold approach to exploring the relationships between power and culture in a non-Western environment greatly contributes to making this book unique from a variety of perspectives: African, Francophone, and postcolonial studies, as well as cross-disciplinary, cultural, transnational, and diasporic studies. Moreover, the book offers deft and innovative analyses that move beyond the rhetoric of crises on the African continent, which we so very often hear of, so as to present a critical reflection on the subject at hand that is specific to the sub-Saharan and at the same time intimately linked to global culture, economy, and politics. The authors' three-fold approach also presupposes that disciplinary compartmentalization increases power conflicts in academia. If only in part, compartmentalization is the result of antagonistic and competitive relations between specialization and multidisciplinary education. This book is thus a modest attempt at presenting an alternative to excessively fixed and homogeneous academic frontiers while considering that disciplinary expertise remains a must. Keeping in mind that an increasing number of scholars in Anglophone Postcolonial studies and Francophone African studies have been attempting for quite some time now to open interstices and build crossroads that can better connect them to each other, keeping in mind that these scholars work at revealing mechanisms by which any antagonistic discourses can mix, influence, act upon, or react to one another, this book seeks to take a constructive step in establishing enduring grounds for multidisciplinary, cross-disciplinary, and transnational academic research and collaboration. Shakespeare and Contemporary Fiction Barbara L. Estrin, 2012-01-01 As the first book to use fiction as theory, Shakespeare and Contemporary Fiction reads backward to demonstrate how recent novelists redeploy founding and lyric plots to uncover a Shakespeare who similarly challenges the mythological homogeneity that scripts us. Fold-along Stories, 2001 12 short stories illustrated by 12 easy origami models The Study of English Literature Margaret Janice Turner, 1998 Language

Structures of Appearing:Allegory and the Work of Literature Brenda Machosky,2013 Structures of Appearing Allegory and the Work of Literature is an interdisciplinary study that revises the history of allegory through a phenomenological approach The book also takes on the history of aesthetics as an ideology that has long subjugated literature and art generally to criteria of judgment that are philosophical rather than literary
