451 is Ray Bradbury's classic novel of censorship and defiance as resonant today as it was when it was first published nearly 50 years ago. Guy Montag was a fireman whose job it was to start fires. The system was simple. Everyone understood it. Books were for burning along with the houses in which they were hidden. Guy Montag enjoyed his job. He had been a fireman for ten years and he had never questioned the pleasure of the midnight runs nor the joy of watching pages consumed by flames. He never questioned anything until he met a seventeen-year-old girl who told him of a past when people were not afraid. Then he met a professor who told him of a future in which people could think, and Guy Montag suddenly realized what he had to do.

Fahrenheit 451 Study Guide 430, 2008-03-07. Fireman Guy Montag loves his job. Since houses have been made fireproof, firemen no longer put out house fires; now they burn books. No one is allowed to read books; no one wants to read books. Books are only filled with confusing and contradictory ideas, and it is more important to have fun and be entertained. But then Montag meets a new young neighbor girl who actually seems to think. When she asks him, "Are you happy?" he finds he has no answer. And when an old woman refuses to leave her books and dies in the flames, he wonders what in her books inspires such passion. He determines to discover it for himself, though his rebellion and his confusion may cost him his life. A good examination of censorship and our responsibility to understand. Setting: Futuristic United States. Category: American Literature. Science Fiction. Fahrenheit 451 Ray Bradbury, 2010.
