Francis K. Mbroh, 2021-07-11 Within the theoretical framework of the trade growth and structural transformation growth nexuses the book examines the evolution of African goods and service trade in terms of value and share of global commerce relative to other regions during the period 1948-2017. It also identifies and discusses discernible changes in the composition and structure of African exports and imports between 1995 and 2015 and their implications for economic development in Africa. The study attributes Africa's laggard trade performance during the period primarily to sub-optimal macroeconomic policies and lack of bold export development policies and initiatives among other factors. It also offers an incisive discussion of several inhibitions to the structural transformation of African exports and imports including lack of finance globalization tariff and non tariff measures in global markets. The discussion of the evolution of African trade during the period 1948-2017 based on statistics and publications of international organizations including the UNCTAD, the World Bank and the African Development Bank among others is the first of its kind in terms of scope and depth of review of African trade. The analyses of cross border trade during 1948-2017 and their implications for Africa's economic development prospects constitute a useful reference material for academics and students of African and development studies and African and international policymakers.

The External Action of the European Union Sieglinde Gstöhl, Simon Schunz, 2021-03-26 This groundbreaking new textbook offers extensive coverage of EU External Action studies from its major concepts to the key theories in the field. Over the past decades the European Union has progressively developed into a significant global actor in an increasing number of policy fields. This long-awaited volume looks into different ways of conceptualizing the EU as a global actor, the processes and impact of EU external action, explanations offered by IR and integration theories, the discursive normative practice and gender turns and the decentring agenda for EU external action. The book offers a reader friendly guidance on these various ways in which to study the EU as a global actor. Each chapter introduces one concept, approach or theory and illustrates its application by a case study of EU external action. In drawing the different perspectives together, the book underscores that EU External Action Studies is becoming an academic speciality in its own right. Written by leading experts, the volume will make essential reading for students, scholars and practitioners of EU external action. EU External Action Studies nowadays attract attention from scholars and students in International Relations, IR, Foreign Policy Analysis and interdisciplinary EU Studies as well as from practitioners.
