Firsthand Account

A firsthand account is the description of an event by a person who was there at the event and experienced it.

Here's a tip to help you remember!

Think of a firsthand account as a person with a camera. The person taking the account was at the event they are describing and therefore could have snapped some photos.

Secondhand Account

A secondhand account is a description of an event often based on research.

Here's a tip to help you remember!

Think of a secondhand account as a person reading a book. The person telling the account was not at the event they are describing and quite possibly gathered his or her information from a book.

Firsthand or Secondhand Account?

After your class has read the articles, your teacher finds Martin Luther King's I Have a Dream speech on the Internet. She projects it on the screen, and the entire class watches King deliver his famous speech.

Firsthand Account

This video was shot by someone who witnessed the speech in person.

Firsthand or Secondhand Account?

You just finished reading a book about your favorite soccer player, Lionel Messi. It was written by Leonardo Faccio, and it chronicles Messi's life and accomplishments.

Secondhand Account

This is a biography about Lionel Messi, written by another person, Leonardo Faccio.

Passage A
Hundreds of people turned out to watch the Stanton School fall to the ground last Thursday afternoon. The school had been a landmark in Stanton since 1917, and had felt the footsteps of thousands of students and teachers over the past century.

One person not in attendance to see the stately old building crumble was Margaret Wise, a 1934 graduate of the school. "I couldn't bear to watch it being demolished. I just have too many fond memories in that building," Wise said. Wise recalled the day a small fire was ignited while her science teacher performed an experiment for the class. The first-year teacher panicked and directed his class to exit through the third-floor fire escape door while he stayed behind to put out the fire. "It was raining cats and dogs, and the metal stairs were quite slippery. Bert Camfy was at the back of the line and slipped on a stair. All eighteen of us in line went down like dominoes. It was terrifying at the time, but now, of course, it's become a fond memory."

The Old School

1. Which passage was a firsthand account?

Passage B

2. How did you know?

In Passage B, Margaret Wise was telling the story herself. In Passage A, a reporter was retelling the story that Margaret Wise had to her.

3. How were the two accounts different?

In Passage B, Margaret Wise was telling the entire story herself, so there were no quotation marks. In Passage A, however, there was a mix of the reporter's words and Margaret Wise's story. The reporter had to put Margaret Wise's words in quotation marks to show what she said, but the reporter's own words, parts that had been researched or summarized, were not placed in quotation marks.
