Define the words in the boxes. On the line across each arrow, write a phrase that describes how the words in the boxes are related to one another.

Fill in the blank:

Virtually all forms of life depend on a molecule known as ATP as their primary energy carrier. Plants produce this during photosynthesis, but plants and all other organisms can also produce ATP through chemical pathways that degrade food molecules. The main degradative pathway requires free oxygen and is called aerobic.

There are three stages of aerobic respiration. In the first stage, glucose is partially degraded to pyruvate. By the end of the second stage, which includes the Citric Acid cycle, glucose has been completely degraded to carbon dioxide and water. Neither of the first two stages produce much ATP.
