African Urban Harvest Agriculture In The Cities Of Cameroon Kenya And Uganda:

African Urban Harvest Gordon Prain, 2010-09-17 This book seeks to answer the question of how much urban agriculture helps feed and support people living in towns and cities with evidence and proposals based on studies in Eastern and Central Africa

African Urban Harvest Gordon Prain, 2011 , Digging Deeper: Inside Africa's Agricultural, Food and Nutrition Dynamics , 2014-11-06 This volume attempts to dig deeper into what is currently happening in Africa's agricultural and rural sector and to convince policymakers and others that it is important to look at the current African rural dynamics in ways that connect metropolitan demands for food with value chain improvements and agro food cluster innovations It is essential to go beyond a development bureaucracy and a state based approach to rural transformation such as the one that often dominates policy debate in African government circles organizations like the African Union and the UN and donor agencies

The Spatial Organisation of Urban Agriculture in the Global South Ada Górná, 2024-04-01 This book examines the role and position of urban agriculture in the spatial and functional structure of cities in the Global South In the face of dynamic urbanisation and negative consequences of climate change one of the key challenges is not only how to provide food for the ever growing urban population but also how to achieve urban sustainability and simultaneously reduce the negative impact of cities on the natural environment These problems are particularly urgent in the metropolises of the Global South that are experiencing the greatest population growth while struggling with increasing social inequalities and the resulting uneven distribution of resources Examining the role that urban agriculture can play in addressing these challenges this book draws on three case study cities Havana Singapore and Kigali The case studies differing in socio economic spatial political and environmental terms exemplify diverse characteristics of urban agriculture in different geographical conditions Drawing on fieldwork conducted in each city the book also provides a unique perspective on the constraints in the development of urban agriculture and the use of its full potential for urban sustainability This book will appeal to students and scholars as well as decision makers interested in the issues of urban sustainability food security spatial development and alternative food systems

Cross-cutting issues in the water, land, energy and food security nexus: Perspectives from sub-saharan africa Felix Kwabena Donkor, Mulala Danny Simatele, Henry Bikwibili Tantoh, 2023-06-27

Urban Ecology Philip James, Ian Douglas, 2023-12-22 This fully revised second edition reflects the great expansion in urban ecology research action and teaching since 2015 Urban ecology provides an understanding of urban ecosystems and uses nature based techniques to enhance habitats and alleviate poor environmental conditions Already the home to the majority of the world's people urban areas continue to grow causing ecological changes throughout the world To help students of all professions caring for urban areas and the people animals and plants that live in them the authors set out the environmental and ecological science of cities linkages between urban nature and human health urban food production in cities and how we can value urban nature The authors explore our responsibilities for urban nature and greening ecological management techniques and the use of nature based solutions to achieve a better more sustainable urban future and ensure that cities can climate change and become more beautiful and more sustainable places in which to live This text provides the student and the practitioner with a critical scientific overview of urban ecology that will be a key source of data and ideas for studies and for sound urban management

The Security of Water, Food, Energy and Liveability of Cities Basant Maheshwari,Ramesh Purohit,Hector Malano,Vijay P. Singh,Priyanie Amerasinghe,2014-05-27 The population of cities around the world is growing at an alarming rate and as a result the landscapes of most cities are going through enormous changes In particular fertile agricultural lands at the periphery of cities are being developed without consideration of holistic planning As such peri urban areas zones of transition from rural to urban land uses located between the outer limits of the urban and the rural environment are experiencing significant losses of agricultural land increased runoff and water quality degradation Concurrently the demands for water food and energy are increasing within cities and unless a balance is struck the liveability of these cities will soon be compromised The current water and land use changes have serious consequences on lifestyle environment health and overall well being of urban communities This book therefore helps readers to understand the current issues and challenges and examines suitable strategies and practices to cope with current and future pressures of urbanisation and peri urban land use changes The book examines a number of critical aspects in relation to the future of cities and peri urban regions including the suitability of policies and institutions to sustain cities into the future impact of current trends in land use change population increase and water demand long term planning needs and approaches to ensure the secured future for generations ahead and strategies to adapt the cities and land uses so that they remain viable and liveable The readership of the book will include policy makers urban planners researchers post graduate students in urban planning and environmental and water resources management and managers in municipal councils

Urban Horticulture Shashank Shekhar Solankey, Shirin Akhtar, Alejandro Isabel Luna Maldonado, Humberto Rodriguez-Fuentes, Juan Antonio Vidales Contreras, Julia Mariana Márquez Reyes, 2020-06-17 Urban horticulture is a means of utilizing every little space available in cities amidst buildings and other constructions for growing plants It utilizes this space to raise gardens that can be economically productive while contributing to environmental greening It can boost food and ornamental plants production provide job opportunities promote green space development waste recycling and urban landscaping and result in improved environment This book covers a wide array of topics on this subject and constitutes a valuable reference guide for students professors researchers builders and horticulturists concerned with urban horticulture city planning biodiversity and the sustainable development of horticultural resources

The State, Non-State Organizations and Livelihood Outcomes in Sub-Saharan Africa Roland Azibo Balgah, Emmanuel Yenshu Vubo, 2024-02-06 The discussion on the role of the state and non state actors in the improvement of livelihoods in Sub Saharan Africa SSA where economic and social development is slowest has been characterized by a disjoint between theory and empirical research This volume sets out to revisit this question by examining the place of the two types of actors in the development process and the increasing influence of public private partnerships in livelihood outcomes The book combines theoretical reflections and empirical studies on a wide variety of initiatives in several domains that seek to improve wellbeing and livelihoods with a focus on the Sub Saharan country of Cameroon The book will provide insights on an area which has been both neglected with the rise of neo liberalism and also revived by the recent introduction of the global development goals

Rapid Urbanisation, Urban Food Deserts and Food Security in Africa Jonathan Crush, Jane Battersby, 2016-09-23 This book investigates food security and the implications of hyper urbanisation and rapid growth of urban populations in Africa By means of a series of case studies involving African cities of various sizes it argues that while the concept of food security holds value it needs to be reconfigured to fit the everyday realities and distinctive trajectory of urbanisation in the region The book goes on to discuss the urban context where food insecurity is more a problem of access and changing consumption patterns than of insufficient food production In closing it approaches food insecurity in Africa as an increasingly urban problem that requires different responses from those applied to rural populations

Urban Blue-Green Infrastructure Approach for Food Security and Climate Disaster Resilience Mohammad Golam Kibria, Gulsan Ara Parvin, Md. Anwarul Abedin, Rajib Shaw, 2025-09-26 This book deliberates the trends challenges and potential strategies including urban blue green infrastructure BGI approaches to ensure food security and disaster resilience across the globe Furthermore the book explores urban planning both engineering and social aspects resource management and financing the BGI approaches in developed and developing countries Urbanization can have both positive and negative impacts on agriculture and aquaculture It often leads to changes in land use increased competition for resources and shifts in market dynamics Due to the increasing urbanization across the globe the cultivable agricultural land is decreasing which threatens the food supply for the growing global population and increases the disaster occurrence in urban areas The city dwellers are the most vulnerable in terms of food security and climate disaster resilience due to the rapid urbanization across the globe However the impact of urbanization is not the same for the urban areas in developed and developing countries Although food security and climate disaster resilience are critical issues facing urban areas an urban blue green infrastructure approach can help address these challenges This approach combines elements of both natural and built environments to create more sustainable and resilient cities Adopting such an approach can enhance food security and climate disaster resilience by integrating nature based solutions into urban planning and design This book is a valuable resource for students researchers academia policymakers and development practitioners The Economy of Green Cities

Richard Simpson,Monika Zimmermann,2012-11-06 This volume bridges the gap between the global promotion of the Green Economy and the manifestation of this new development strategy at the urban level Green cities are an imperative solution not only in meeting global environmental challenges but also in helping to ensure socio economic prosperity at the local level

Environmental Resilience Percy Toriro,Innocent Chirisa,2021-05-21 This book discusses the production distribution regulatory and management frameworks that affect food in urban settings It plugs a gap in knowledge especially in the sub Saharan Africa region where food despite its critical importance has been ignored as a determinant of success in the planning and management of cities and towns The various chapters in the book demonstrate how urban populations in Zimbabwe and elsewhere have often devised ways to produce own food to supplement on their incomes Food is produced largely by way of urban agriculture or imported from the countryside and sold in both formal and informal stores and stalls The book shows how in spite of the important space food occupies in the lives of all city residents the planning and regulatory framework does not facilitate the better performance of food systems Ensuring a Sustainable Future Jody

Heymann,Magda Barrera,2013-11 This edited volume outlines the most innovative programs to address environmental challenges and improve the welfare of poor and marginalized populations Cities and Agriculture Henk de Zeeuw,Pay Drechsel,2015-09-16 As people increasingly migrate to urban settings and more than half of the world s population now lives in cities it is vital to plan and provide for sustainable and resilient food systems which reflect this challenge This volume presents experience and evidence based state of the art chapters on the key dimensions of urban food challenges and types of intra and peri urban agriculture The book provides urban planners local policy makers and urban development practitioners with an overview of crucial aspects of urban food systems based on an up to date review of research results and practical experiences in both developed and developing countries By doing so the international team of authors provides a balanced textbook for students of the growing number of courses on sustainable agriculture food and urban studies as well as a solid basis for well informed policy making planning and implementation regarding the development of sustainable resilient and just urban food systems

Growing Greener Cities in Africa Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations,2012 The Second Global Plan of Action addresses new challenges such as climate change and food insecurity as well as novel opportunities including information communication and molecular methodologies It contains 18 priority activities organized in four main groups In situ conservation and management Ex situ conservation Sustainable use and Building sustainable institutional and human capacities

SDGs in Africa and the Middle East Region Ismaila Rimi Abubakar,Izael da Silva,Rudi Pretorius,Khaled Tarabieh,2024-09-01 Africa is one of the most vulnerable regions and one where the implementation of the SDGs is particularly urgent Underinvestments in natural conservation are increasing the vulnerability of people across many African countries whose well being is endangered by deteriorating socio economic and environmental conditions This volume provides a contribution towards showcasing how natural resources may be more efficiently used and investments may be mobilised to augment the limited public sector funds available to achieve the SDGs This book is part of the 100 papers to accelerate the implementation of the UN Sustainable Development Goals initiative
