

A woman wearing a light-colored headwrap and a patterned dress is focused on shaping a large, wide-mouthed clay pot. She is using her hands to smooth the surface of the pot, which is resting on a colorful, patterned cloth. The background is slightly blurred, showing more of the same cloth and a hint of an outdoor setting.

African Pottery Roulettes Techniques Identification And Distribution Anne Haour:

African Pottery Roulettes Past and Present Anne Haour, K. Manning, N. Arazi, O. Gosselain, 2010-07-10 African Pottery Roulettes Past and Present considers ethnographic museological and archaeological approaches to pottery decorating tools called roulettes that is to say short lengths of fibre or wood that are rolled over the surface of a vessel for decoration This book sets out for the first time a solid typology for the classification of African pottery decorated with such tools and forges a consensus on common methodology and standards It gives an overview of history of research into roulette decoration in Africa and elsewhere Jomon Japan Neolithic Europe Siberia and New York among others outlines the contemporary distribution of roulette usage in sub Saharan Africa today a success story from Senegal to Tanzania and proposes methodologies for the identification of selected roulette decoration types in the archaeological record By achieving standardisation in pottery analysis this book will help researchers make meaningful comparisons between different sites of West Africa and thus guide further research on the West African past As roulette decoration has been such a global phenomenon in the past the book will also be of interest to all researchers with an interest in ceramics from different parts of the world

Griot Potters of the Folona Barbara E. Frank, 2022-02-02 Griot Potters of the Folona reconstructs the past of a particular group of West African women potters using evidence found in their artistry and techniques The potters of the Folona region of southeastern Mali serve a diverse clientele and firing thousands of pots weekly during the height of the dry season Although they identify themselves as Mande the unique styles and types of objects the Folona women make and more importantly the way they form and fire them are fundamentally different from Mande potters to the north and west Through a brilliant comparative analysis of pottery production methods across the region especially how the pots are formed and the way the techniques are taught by mothers to daughters Barbara Frank concludes that the mothers of the potters of the Folona very likely came from the south and east marrying Mande griots West African leatherworkers who are better known as storytellers or musicians as they made their way south in search of clientele as early as the 14th or 15th century CE While the women may have nominally given up their mothers identities through marriage over the generations the potters preserved their maternal heritage through their technological style passing this knowledge on to their daughters and thus transforming the very nature of what it means to be a Mande griot This is a story of resilience and the continuity of cultural heritage in the hands of women

Balkan Dialogues Maja Gori, Maria Ivanova, 2017-02-17 Spatial variation and patterning in the distribution of artefacts are topics of fundamental significance in Balkan archaeology For decades archaeologists have classified spatial clusters of artefacts into discrete cultures which have been conventionally treated as bound entities and equated with past social or ethnic groups This timely volume fulfils the need for an up to date and theoretically informed dialogue on group identity in Balkan prehistory Thirteen case studies covering the beginning of the Neolithic to the Middle Bronze Age and written by archaeologists conducting fieldwork in the region as well as by ethnologists with a research focus on material culture and identity provide a robust foundation for exploring these issues Bringing together the latest research with a particular intentional focus on the central and western Balkans this collection offers original perspectives on Balkan prehistory with relevance to the neighbouring regions of Eastern and Central Europe the Mediterranean and Anatolia Balkan Dialogues challenges long established interpretations in the field and provides a new contextualised reading of the archaeological record of this region

Archaeological Perspectives on the French in the New World Elizabeth M. Scott, 2017-05-09 This book has essentially created a new field of study with a surprising range of insights on the ethnicity class gender and foodways of French speakers of European and African descent adapting to life under British Spanish or American political regimes Gregory A Waselkov author of A Conquering Spirit Fort Mims and the Redstick War of 1813 1814 Significant and intriguing Strengthens the view that French colonists and their descendants are an important part of American heritage and that the worlds they created are significant to our understanding of modern life John A Walthall editor of French Colonial Archaeology The Illinois Country and the Western Great Lakes Correcting the notion that French influence in the Americas was confined mostly to Qu bec and New Orleans this collection reveals a wide range of vibrant French speaking communities both during and long after the end of French colonial rule This volume highlights the complexity of Francophone societies the persistence of their cultural traditions and the innovative means they employed to cope with the cultural and environmental demands of living in the New World Analyzing artifacts including clay pipes colonoware and food remains alongside a rich body of historical records contributors focus on how French descendants impacted North America the Caribbean and South America even after 1763 Taken together the essays argue that communities do not need to be located in French colonies or contain French artifacts to be considered Francophone and they show that many Francophone groups were composed of a mix of ethnic French M tis Native Americans and African Americans The contributors emphasize the important roles that French colonists and their descendants have played in New World histories Elizabeth M Scott former associate professor of anthropology at Illinois State University is the editor of Those of Little Note Gender Race and Class in Historical Archaeology
