A pictorial history of the Nazi German army expeditionary force deployed to North Africa during World War II between 1941 and 1943 Afrika Korps is an illustrated record of Field Marshal Erwin Rommel and his desert troops that fought in North Africa against British and Commonwealth forces between 1941 and 1943 Using previously rare and unpublished photographs many of which have come from the albums of individuals who took part in the desert campaign it presents a unique visual account of the famous Afrika Korps operations and equipment Thanks to an informative caption with every photograph Afrika Korps vividly portrays how the German Army fought across the uncharted and forbidding desert wilderness of North Africa Throughout the book it examines how Rommel and his Afrika Korps were so successful and includes an analysis of desert war tactics which Rommel himself had indoctrinated These tactics quickly won the Afrika Korps a string of victories between 1941 and 1942 The photographs that accompany the book are a fascinating collection that depicts life in the Afrika Korps as seen through the lens of the ordinary soldier The Ordnance Department Lida Mayo,1968 Provides a description of how America s munitions reached U S and Allied troops and how Ordnance soldiers stored maintained supplied and salvaged materiel in the major theaters of operations United States Army in World War II.: The technical services United States. Dept. of the Army. Office of Military History,1947 Bulletins from Britain ,1942 Logistics in World War II John Norris,2020-04-30 John Norris shows how logistics though less glamorous than details of the fighting itself played a decisive role in the outcome of every campaign and battle of World War Two The author marshals some astounding facts and figures to convey the sheer scale of the task all belligerents faced to equip vast forces and supply them in the field He also draws on first hand accounts to illustrate what this meant for the men and women in the logistics chain and those depending on it at the sharp end Many of the vehicles from supply trucks to pack mules and other relevant hardware are discussed and illustrated with numerous photographs This first volume of two looks at the early years of the war so we see for example how Hitlers panzer divisions were kept rolling in the Blitzkrieg a German division in 1940 still had around 5000 horses requiring hundreds of tonnes of fodder and the British armys disastrous loss of equipment at Dunkirk This is a fascinating and valuable study of a neglected aspect of World War Two Afrika Korps at War: The road to Alexandria George Forty,1978

The Ordnance Department ,1991 United States Army in World War 2, The Technical Services, The Ordnance Department, On Beachhead and Battlefront , United States Army in World War II. ,2009 The Ordnance Department: on Beachhead and Battlefront Lida Mayo,1968 Military Review ,1943 The Mareth Line 1943 Ken Ford,2012-10-20 The battle of El Alamein saw the shattering of Germany s hopes for victory in North Africa and from this point on the end was inevitable In the six months that passed before the final surrender there was much hard fighting as the defeated German and Italian armies sought to hold off the encroaching Eighth Army Rommel his health suffering fought a number of major actions during this campaign before his forces settled into the pre war French defensive position the Mareth

Line All the way he was pursued by an increasingly confident Eighth Army under the command of General Montgomery although he was unable to outflank the retreating German and Italian forces decisively and Rommel was even able to divert forces to inflict a sharp defeat on the newly arrived US forces at Kasserine Pass in February 1943 This was one of Rommel's last acts in the Desert War as his health problems forced his return to Germany shortly afterwards The stage was now set for the last great battle of the Desert War as the veteran formations of the British Eighth Army took on their foes in the Afrikakorps for one last time in the major set piece battle for the Mareth Line
