You Are Here an essential companion for students and lovers of Canadian poetry everywhere The Relationship of Verbal and Nonverbal Communication Mary R. Key, 2011-08-02 No detailed description available for The Relationship of Verbal and Nonverbal Communication Arenas of Language Use Herbert H. Clark, 1992 When we think of the ways we use language we think of face to face conversations telephone conversations reading and writing and even talking to oneself These are arenas of language use theaters of action in which people do things with language But what exactly are they doing with language What are their goals and intentions By what processes do they achieve these goals In these twelve essays Herbert H Clark and his colleagues discuss the collective nature of language the ways in which people coordinate with each other to determine the meaning of what they say According to Clark in order for one person to understand another there must be a common ground of knowledge between them He shows how people infer this common ground from their past conversations their immediate surroundings and their shared cultural background Clark also discusses the means by which speakers design their utterances for particular audiences and coordinate their use of language with other participants in a language arena He argues that language use in conversation is a collaborative process where speaker and listener work together to establish that the listener understands the speaker's meaning Since people often use words to mean something quite different from the dictionary definitions of those words Clark offers a realistic perspective on how speakers and listeners coordinate on the meanings of words This collection presents outstanding examples of Clark's pioneering work on the pragmatics of language use and it will interest psychologists linguists computer scientists and philosophers Gesture and the Dynamic Dimension of Language Susan D. Duncan, Justine Cassell, Elena Terry Levy, 2007 Each of the 21 chapters in this volume reflects a view of language as a dynamic phenomenon with emergent structure and in each gesture is approached as part of language not an adjunct to it In this all of the authors have been influenced by David McNeill's methods for studying natural discourse and by his theory of the human capacity for language The introductory chapter by Adam Kendon contextualizes McNeill's research paradigm within a history of earlier gesture studies Chapters in the first section Language and Cognition emphasize what McNeill refers to as the intrapersonal plane Many of the chapters adduce evidence for McNeill's claim that gestures can serve as a window onto the speaker's mind Chapters in the second section Environmental Context and Sociality emphasize the interpersonal plane and exemplify McNeill's focus on how moment to moment language use is determined by contextual factors The final section of the volume Atypical Minds and Bodies concerns lessons to be learned from studies of aphasic patients autistic children and artificial humans Knots and their Untying: Essays on Psychological Dilemmas Ann Belford Ulanov, Using the image of knots that are hard and sometimes impossible to untie Ann Ulanov circles around the psychic dilemmas that entangle us sometimes for decades These can be heartrending to us and destructive to others even to those we love Yet these knots so peculiarly our own also open onto human problems we share with others even across the ages Hence working on our knots takes us far down to taproots of energy and far up and out to bring that vital aliveness into shared existence with others Knots thus comprise a ladder offering footholds and handholds for descending and ascending between what Jung calls Below and Above human and divine What are such knots What to do when forgiveness does not happen What to do with the inferiority of the inferior function With the question of how much lightning can we stand With the perils of individuation These are just a few examples from the essays in this book The reader is invited to browse the essays according to personal interest or to read straight through The surprise is that these vexing knots that tie us up and hold us down also give us a mooring they bind us to a path that is uniquely our own that can bear the fruit of our service to others and to the surrounding whole

Emotion-Oriented Systems

Paolo Petta, Catherine Pelachaud, Roddy Cowie, 2011-02-04 Emotion pervades human life in general and human communication in particular and this sets information technology a challenge Traditionally IT has focused on allowing people to accomplish practical tasks efficiently setting emotion to one side That was acceptable when technology was a small part of life but as technology and life become increasingly interwoven we can no longer ask people to suspend their emotional nature and habits when they interact with technology The European Commission funded a series of related research projects on emotion and computing culminating in the HUMAINE project which brought together leading academic researchers from the many related disciplines This book grew out of that project and its chapters are arranged according to its working areas theories and models signals to signs data and databases emotion in interaction emotion in cognition and action persuasion and communication usability and ethics and good practice The fundamental aim of the book is to offer researchers an overview of the related areas sufficient for them to do credible work on affective or emotion oriented computing The book serves as an academically sound introduction to the range of disciplines involved technical empirical and conceptual and will be of value to researchers in the areas of artificial intelligence psychology cognition and user machine interaction

Persuasion after Rhetoric in the Eighteenth Century and Romanticism Yasmin Solomonescu, Stefan H. Uhlig, 2024-07-18 While the question of how rhetoric lost authority to modern philosophical and scientific inquiry has drawn much scrutiny we have paid less attention to how values that were once bound up with rhetoric were rearticulated after its demise This volume explores how persuasion ceased to be the seemingly self evident objective of rhetoric and became instead a variable and substantive focus for discussion in its own right After rhetoric ceded much of its centrality to logic and empirical procedures the significance and implications of persuasion were the subject of renewed attention in a range of different fields including philosophy law poetry novels botany cultural criticism historiography political thought and public lecturing Persuasion after Rhetoric in the Eighteenth Century and Romanticism maps how values of persuasion were adapted and diversified in ways that still resonate with current arguments about conviction understanding and belief Contributors address the figurations of persuasion in a range of theorists and writers from Jean Jacques Rousseau Adam Smith Immanuel Kant Edmund Burke and Mary Wollstonecraft to Samuel Richardson Jane Austen Thomas De Quincey Thomas Campbell William Hazlitt Heinrich Heine William Lloyd Garrison and Frances Ellen Watkins Harper This collection offers a detailed account of persuasive interests at the threshold of modernity It also prompts us to rethink persuasion now that its continued efficacy seems at risk in a fragmented public sphere From Grammar to Science Victor H. Yngve, 1996-12-19 Although efforts have been under way for the past two centuries to treat language scientifically linguists and others who work with language speech or communication have not found an adequate scientific foundation in current linguistic theory Many of the difficulties are caused by longstanding confusions between the logical domain of science and grammar and the physical domain of sound waves and the people who speak and understand In this book therefore the last impediments of tradition the ancient semiotic grammatical foundations of linguistics are set aside We move into the physical domain where theories and hypotheses can be tested against observations of the physical reality Here new foundations are laid that are fully consonant with modern science as practiced in physics chemistry and biology On these foundations is built a structure of testable specific dynamic causal laws of communicative behavior that provides support for treating previously recalcitrant context dependent semantic pragmatic interactive rhetorical and literary phenomena The central role of context in the foundations of the theory provides the insights of scientific lawfulness while still honoring the particularity of situations celebrated in the humanities
