Summary Urban Transport XX C. A. Brebbia, 2014-05-28 Urban Transport XX contains the proceedings of the 20th International Conference on Urban Transport and the Environment. Transportation in urban areas with its related environmental and social impacts is a topic of significant concern for policymakers in both municipal and central government and for the urban citizens who need effective and efficient transport systems. Urban transport systems require considerable studies to devise and then safeguard their operational use, maintenance and operational safety. Transportation systems produce significant environmental impacts and can enhance or degrade the quality of life in urban centres. Clearly the challenge of providing effective and efficient transport systems in urban settings remains an acute challenge with financial, political and environmental constraints limiting the ability of transport system planners and operators to deliver the high quality outcomes expected by the public Topics covered include Transport Strategies Public Transport Systems Environmentally Friendly Transport Modes Pedestrians and Traffic Environmental Impact Intelligent Transport Systems Transport Safety and Security Infrastructure Experiences from Emerging Countries Land use and Transport Integration

Urban Transport XXVI S. Syngellakis,2020-11-24 A continuous requirement for better urban transport systems and the need for a healthier environment has resulted in an increasing demand for new solutions Innovative systems new approaches and original ideas need to be thoroughly tested and critically evaluated before they can be implemented in practice Moreover there is a growing need for integration with telecommunications systems and IT applications in order to improve safety security and efficiency This volume also addresses the need to solve important pollution problems associated with urban transport in order to achieve a healthier environment The variety of topics covered by the included research works which were presented at the 26th International Conference on Urban Transport and the Environment reflect the complex interaction of urban transport systems with their environment and the need to establish integrated strategies The goal is to arrive at optimal socio economic solutions while reducing the negative environmental impacts of current transportation systems

Bicycles in American Highway Planning Bruce D. Epperson,2014-11-19 The United States differs from other developed nations in the extent to which its national bicycle transportation policy relies on the use of unmodified roadways with cyclists obeying the same traffic regulations as motor vehicles This policy known as vehicular cycling evolved between 1969 when the 10 speed boom saw a sharp increase in adult bicycling and 1991 when the American Association of State Highway and Transportation Officials adopted an official policy that on road bikeways were not desirable This policy resulted from a growing realization by highway engineers and experienced club cyclists that they had parallel interests the cyclists preferred to ride on highways because most bikeways were not designed for high speeds and pack riding and the highway engineers did not want to divert funding from roadways to construct bikeways Using contemporary magazine articles government reports and archival material from industry lobbying groups and national cycling organizations this book tells the story of how America became a nation of bicyclists without bikeways
