Emerging Geographies of Belief Catherine Brace, 2010-10-12 This interdisciplinary book presents new research from international scholars that explores questions of belief, faith, and religion. Focusing on theoretically informed cultural, geographical, and historical analyses of faith, belief, religion, society, and space, the book presents new and revised theoretical approaches and methodologies grounded in rigorous empirical research, both contemporary and historical. The volume takes a deliberately eclectic approach, reflecting the complex interactions of the political and poetic dimensions of sacredness in contemporary societies. Taking this research agenda forward, this book explores how religious beliefs inform and construct social identities, public knowledge, and modes of governance. In particular, the book meets an urgent need for a critical understanding of how terms such as religion, faith, fundamentalism, and secularism, for example, inform public debates and foster constructive engagements both between faith groups and between people of faith and people of no faith. The essays in Emerging Geographies of Belief also show that religion cannot be mapped neatly onto faith or belief. We attempt to tease out the different circumstances in which, for example, belief can operate without religious adherence or faith can inspire social action in geographies of hope. The geography of the title relates to an overarching concern with space and spatiality rather than describing a single disciplinary approach. Our concern with belief, faith, and religion operates at different temporal and spatial scales in different localities, from the contemporary appeal to a more global sense of responsibility to a historically situated account of faith-led educational practices. This reflects more generally the so-called spatial turn in the social sciences and humanities. But despite this wide historical and geographical sweep, the authors share some key concerns. This collection is unique in combining theoretical, conceptual, and discursive approaches to the emerging geographies of belief with substantive examples of the intersection of belief, faith, and religion with aspects of everyday life. Discussions of the potential subversive and prophetic capacities of faith, belief, and religion sit alongside consideration of how these have become implicated in the spaces and performances of hope. It provides a critique of the situationist and substantive approaches to religion, along with insights into the role of faith in education, community, and social work. It considers the practices of remembrance, representation, and pilgrimage and the place of religion in contemporary identity politics. In sum, the book problematises the seemingly simple categories of faith, religion, and belief, calling attention to how these are mobilised and implicated differently in different circumstances. In addressing these themes, the book provides a key theoretical resource but crucially goes on to show how multiple perspectives on belief, however defined, can be applied in practice. Whilst there has been much contemporary work on the individual areas covered by the book, they have not been brought together before to provide a dynamic insight into issues of the most pressing relevance. Time Briton Hadden, 2006 Patterns, 2008

Everybody In, Nobody Out Ken Fischer, 2020-07-20 Housed on the campus of the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor, the University Musical Society is one of the oldest performing arts presenters in the country. A past recipient of the National

Medal of Arts the nation's highest public artistic honor UMS connects audiences with wide ranging performances in music dance and theater each season Between 1987 and 2017 UMS was led by Ken Fischer who over three decades pursued an ambitious campaign to expand and diversify the organization's programming and audiences initiatives inspired by Fischer's overarching philosophy toward promoting the arts Everybody In Nobody Out The approach not only deepened UMS's engagement with the university and southeast Michigan communities it led to exemplary partnerships with distinguished artists across the world Under Fischer's leadership UMS hosted numerous breakthrough performances including the Vienna Philharmonic's final tour with Leonard Bernstein appearances by then relatively unknown opera singer Cecilia Bartoli a multiyear partnership with the Royal Shakespeare Company and artists as diverse as Yo Yo Ma Jawole Willa Jo Zollar Elizabeth Streb and Nusrat Fateh Ali Khan Though peppered with colorful anecdotes of how these successes came to be this book is neither a history of UMS nor a memoir of Fischer's significant accomplishments with the organization Rather it is a reflection on the power of the performing arts to engage and enrich communities not by handing down cultural enrichment from on high but by meeting communities where they live and helping them preserve cultural heritage incubate talent and find ways to make community voices heard
