administrator of various colonies in southern Africa The essays and remembrances collected here reflect the author's impressions of Britain's mission and future role on the African continent

The African Colony John Buchan, 2019-02 On the last day of May 1902 the signature at Pretoria of the conditions of peace brought to an end a war which had lasted for nearly three years and had among other things destroyed a government dissolved a society and laid waste a country In those last months of fighting some progress had been made with the reconstruction at least with that not unimportant branch of it which is concerned with the machinery of government A working administration had been put together new ordinances in the form of proclamations had been issued departments had been created and the chief appointments made the gold industry was beginning to set its house in order refugees were returning and already political theories were being mooted and future parties foreshadowed But it is from the conclusion of peace that the work of resettlement may fairly be taken to commence Before that date the restrictions of war limited all civil activity not till the shackles were removed and the civil power left in sole possession does a fair field appear either for approval or criticism Pg x It is not my purpose to write the history of the reconstruction The work is still in process and a decade later it may be formally completed Fifty years hence it may be possible to look back and discriminate on its success or failure The history when it is written will be an interesting book It will among other matters deal with the work of repatriation one of the most curious and quixotic burdens ever borne by a nation and one I believe to which no real parallel can be found It will concern itself with the slow and difficult transference from military to civil government the renascence of the common law the first revival of trade and industry the restitution of prisoners and the return of refugees all matters of interest and novel precedents in our history It will recognise more clearly than is at present possible the problems which faced South Africa at the time and it will be in the happy position of judging from the high standpoint of accomplished fact But in the meantime when we have seen barely eighteen months of reconstruction history is out of the question Yet even in the stress of work it is often sound policy for a man to halt for a moment and collect his thoughts There must be some diagnosis of the problem before him the end to which his work is directed the conditions under which he labours While it is useless to tell the story of a task before it is done it is often politic to re-examine the difficulties and to get the mind clear as to what the object of all this strife and expense of money and energy may be Ideals are all very well in their way but they are apt to become Pg xi very dim lamps unless often replenished from the world of facts and trimmed and adjusted by wholesome criticism John Buchan 1st Baron Tweedsmuir GCMG GCVO CH PC 26 August 1875 11 February 1940 was a Scottish novelist historian and Unionist politician who served as Governor General of Canada the 15th since Canadian Confederation

The African Colony John Buchan, 2018-02-22 The African Colony is at least not the work of a globe trotter a person far more likely to wreck the Empire some day than the proverbial cavalry subaltern Its author has served for three years under Lord Milner in the task of reconstruction and though his book is completely unofficial its statements and verdicts are not the casual observations of an intelligent journalist who pins out his discoveries like a row of butterflies but the concise expression of exact knowledge We are delighted to publish this classic book as part of our extensive Classic Library collection Many of the books in our collection have been out of print for decades and therefore have not been accessible to the general public The aim of our publishing program is to facilitate rapid access to this vast reservoir of literature and our view is that this is a significant literary work which deserves to be brought back into print after many decades The contents of the vast majority of titles in the Classic Library have been scanned from the original works To ensure a high quality product each title has been meticulously hand curated by our staff Our philosophy has been guided by a desire to provide the reader with a book that is as close as possible to ownership of the original work We hope that you will enjoy this wonderful classic work and that for you it becomes an enriching experience

John Buchan J. William Galbraith, 2013-08-10 An accomplished Scottish thriller writer, journalist, soldier, spy and Member of Parliament John Buchan 1st Baron Tweedsmuir was Canada's governor general from 1935 to 1940 and helped draw Canada, Britain and the United States closer together during the perilous days before and at the start of World War II

Washed with Sun Jeremy Foster, 2014-08-15 South Africa is recognized as a site of both political turmoil and natural beauty and yet little work has been done in connecting these defining national characteristics Washed with Sun achieves this conjunction in its multidisciplinary study of South Africa as a space at once natural and constructed Weaving together practical, aesthetic and ideological analyses Jeremy Foster examines the role of landscape in forming the cultural iconographies and spatialities that shaped the imaginary geography of emerging nationhood Looking in particular at the years following the British victory in the second Boer War from 1902 to 1930 Foster discusses the influence of painting writing architecture and photography on the construction of a shared romanticized landscape subjectivity that was perceived as inseparable from being South African and thus helped forge the imagined community of white South Africa In its innovative approach to South Africa s history Washed with Sun breaks important new ground combining the persuasive theory of cultural geography with the material specificity of landscape history
