Perspectives on ICT4D and Socio-Economic Growth Opportunities in Developing Countries Ndayizigamiye, Patrick, Barlow-Jones, Glenda, Brink, Roelien, Bvuma, Stella, Minty, Rehana, Mhlango, Siyabonga, 2020-10-09 Technology has been hailed as one of the catalysts toward economic and human development In the current economic era of the Fourth Industrial Revolution information acquisition transformation and dissemination processes are posed to be the key enablers of development. However, in the context of developing countries, there is a need for more evidence on the impact that ICT has on addressing developmental issues. Such evidence is needed to make a case for investments in ICT-led interventions to improve people's lives in developing countries. Perspectives on ICT4D and Socio-Economic Growth Opportunities in Developing Countries is a collection of innovative research on current trends that portray the ICT and development nexus. ICT4D from economic and human development perspectives within developing countries. While highlighting topics including mobile money, poverty alleviation, and consumer behavior, this book is ideally designed for economists, government officials, policymakers, ICT specialists, business professionals, researchers, academicians, students, and entrepreneurs.

Annual Report on Exchange Arrangements and Exchange Restrictions 2017 International Monetary Fund. Monetary and Capital Markets Department, 2018-04-30. The Annual Report on Exchange Arrangements and Exchange Restrictions has been published by the IMF since 1950. It draws on information available to the IMF from a number of sources, including that provided in the course of official staff visits to member countries, and has been prepared in close consultation with national authorities.

The Report: South Africa 2013 Oxford Business Group, 2013-09-04. The Rainbow Nation benefits from an internationally competitive private sector which accounts for roughly 70% of GDP, and extremely competitive infrastructure. Its utility sector, for example, produces just under half of the total power generated on the African continent. South Africa represents by far the most developed market in Africa, but there are still some structural challenges. It is grappling with Government strategies that have set a target of increasing labour market participation from 54% in 2010 to 65% by 2030, bringing the number of workers in the formal sector to 25.3m people and lowering unemployment from 25% to 6%. While its fiscal space is narrow, long-term investments in infrastructure, education, and health are expected to be key to attaining its growth potential. Recent years have seen both the public and private sectors look to strengthen regulatory frameworks in mining and industry, in some cases like the automotive sector with impressive results.

Governance and the postcolony David Everatt, 2019-08-01. Civil society, NGOs, governments, and multilateral institutions all repeatedly call for improved or good governance, yet they seem to speak past one another. Governance is in danger of losing all meaning precisely because it means many things to different people in varied locations. This is especially true in sub-Saharan Africa. Here, the postcolony takes many forms, reflecting the imperial project with painful accuracy. Offering a set of multidisciplinary analyses of governance in different sectors: crisis management, water, food security, universities in different locales across sub-Saharan Africa, and from different theoretical approaches: network to adversarial, network governance, this volume makes a useful addition to the growing debates on how to govern. It steers away from offering a correct definition of governance or from promoting a particular position on postcoloniality. It gives no neat conclusion but invites readers to draw their own conclusions based on these differing approaches to and analyses of governance in the postcolony. As a robust critical assessment of power and accountability in the sub-Saharan context.

Social Welfare and Social Work in Southern Africa Ndangwa Noyoo, 2021-06-11 This book is written by Southern African social welfare social work social development social security and social policy academics practitioners and advocates who have varying degrees of experience The authors who contributed chapters to this book added their perspectives to ongoing debates about academic areas in the region Thus the book s primary objective is to discuss the development of social welfare and social work in Southern Africa In doing so it endeavours to contribute to the existing body of knowledge on social welfare and social work in the region The chapters are examined through different theoretical lenses and historical perspectives In this book African scholars academics and practitioners provide a deep and critical reflection of social welfare social work and related disciplines during the colonial and post colonial era a period characterised by a deliberate move by Africa s political administrations to focus on nation building and to attempt to make Africa a global player Despite being endowed with rich natural resources like minerals agriculture and solid family and extended family life the continent is weak globally Furthermore the book focuses on the pre colonial period a golden thread running through the chapters The book discusses the colonial era when Western countries capture and oppression of Africa characterised the continent s history This book is an appropriate publication at this point in our history a resource that can be used to generate appropriate narratives and questions within the social welfare and social development sector particularly on delivery education and training

Problematizing the Foreign Shop Gastrow, Vanya,2018-08-03 Small businesses owned by international migrants and refugees are often the target of xenophobic hostility and attack in South Africa This report examines the problematization of migrant owned businesses in South Africa and the regulatory efforts aimed at curtailing their economic activities In so doing it sheds light on the complex ways in which xenophobic fears are generated and manifested in the country s social legal and political orders Efforts to curb migrant spaza shops in South Africa have included informal trade agreements at local levels fining migrant shops and legislation that prohibits asylum seekers from operating businesses in the country Several of these interventions have overlooked the content of local by laws and outdated legal frameworks The report concludes that when South African township residents attack migrant spaza shops they are expressing their dissatisfaction with their socio economic conditions to an apprehensive state and political leadership In response governance actors turn on migrant shops to demonstrate their allegiance to these residents to appease South African spaza shopkeepers and to tacitly blame socio economic malaise on perceived foreign forces Overall these actors do not have spaza shops primarily in mind when calling for the stricter regulation of these businesses Instead they are concerned about the volatile support of their key political constituencies and how this backing can be undermined or generated by the symbolic gesture of regulating the foreign shop
