Vermeer and the Invention of Seeing Bryan Jay Wolf,2001-12 The result is a Vermeer we have not seen before a painter whose serene spaces and calm subjects incorporate within themselves however obliquely the world s troubles Vermeer abandons what his predecessors had labored so carefully to achieve legible spaces a world of moral clarity defined by the pressure of a hand against a table or the scatter of light across a bare wall Instead Vermeer complicated Dutch domestic art and invented what has puzzled and captivated his admirers ever since the odd daubs of white pigment dancing across the plane of the canvas patches of blurred surface contradicting the painting s illusionism without explanation and the querulous silence that endows his women with secrets they dare not reveal Restorative Christ Geoff Broughton,2015-02-26 Erik Erikson best known for his life cycle theory and concept of the identity crisis proposed that we are comprised of a number of selves In several earlier books including At Home in the World Donald Capps has suggested that the emotional separation of young children especially boys from their mothers results in the development of a melancholy self In this book Capps employs Erikson s assignment of an inherent strength to each stage of the life cycle and proposes that the life enhancing strengths of the childhood years hope will purpose and competence are central to the development of a resourceful self and that this self counters the life diminishing qualities of the melancholy self Focusing on Erikson s own writings Capps identifies the four primordial resources that Erikson associates with childhood humor play dreams and hope and shows how these resources assist children in confronting life s difficulties and challenges Capps further suggests that the resourceful self that develops in childhood is central to Jesus own vision of what we as adults may become if we follow the lead of little children A Critical
