A Theory Of Content And Other Essays Representation And Mind Series:

A Theory of Content and Other Essays Jerry A. Fodor, 1990 This collection of new and previously published essays reflects the major research and thought of one of today's preeminent philosophers of mind The first seven essays are philosophical pieces that focus on mental representation and the foundations of intentionality these are followed by four psychological essays on cognitive architecture In his eloquent introduction Fodor shows how the two areas are thematically united and epistemologically related highlighting his concern in finding alternatives to holistic accounts of mental content Fodor's philosophical essays develop an informational view of semantics that offers the possibility of atomism about meaning his psychological essays present a modular view of cognitive architecture that offers the possibility of atomism about perception These ideas he points out are joined in epistemology in way that the book's last essay begins to explore Taken together the essays represent Fodor's lively attempt to knock the underpinnings from the currently popular relativism to show that the arguments for semantic and psychological holism are insubstantial and that important alternatives exist to be explored Jerry A Fodor is Professor of Philosophy at Rutgers University and at the City University of New York Graduate Center A Bradford Book

Neural Machines: A Defense of Non-Representationalism in Cognitive Neuroscience Matej Kohár, 2023-03-09 In this book Matej Kohar demonstrates how the new mechanistic account of explanation can be used to support a non representationalist view of explanations in cognitive neuroscience and therefore can bring new conceptual tools to the non representationalist arsenal Kohar focuses on the explanatory relevance of representational content in constitutive mechanistic explanations typical in cognitive neuroscience The work significantly contributes to two areas of literature 1 the debate between representationalism and non representationalism and 2 the literature on mechanistic explanation Kohar begins with an introduction to the mechanistic theory of explanation focusing on the analysis of mechanistic constitution as the basis of explanatory relevance in constitutive mechanistic explanation He argues that any viable analysis of representational contents implies that content is not constitutively relevant to cognitive phenomena The author also addresses objections against his argument and concludes with an examination of the consequences of his account for both traditional cognitive neuroscience and non representationalist alternatives This book is of interest to readers in philosophy of mind cognitive science and neuroscience

What are Mental Representations? Joulia

Smortchkova,Krzysztof Dołęga,Tobias Schlicht,2020-12-03 The topic of this book is mental representation a theoretical concept that lies at the core of cognitive science Together with the idea that thinking is analogous to computational processing this concept is responsible for the cognitive turn in the sciences of the mind and brain since the 1950s Conceiving of cognitive processes such as perception reasoning and motor control as consisting of the manipulation of contentful vehicles that represent the world has led to tremendous empirical advancements in our explanations of behaviour Perhaps the most famous discovery that explains behavior by appealing to the notion of mental representations was the discovery of place cells that underlie spatial navigation and positioning which earned researchers John O Keefe May Britt Moser and Edvard I Moser a joint Nobel Prize in 2014 And yet despite the empirical importance of the concept there is no agreed definition or theoretical understanding of mental representation This book constitutes a state of the art overview on the topic of mental representation assembling some of the leading experts in the field and allowing them to engage in meaningful exchanges over some of the most contentious questions The collection gathers both proponents and critics of the notion making room for debates dealing with the theoretical and ontological status of representations the possibility of formulating a general account of mental representation which would fit our best explanatory practices and the possibility of delivering such an account in fully naturalistic terms Some contributors explore the relation between mutually incompatible notions of mental representation stemming from the different disciplines composing the cognitive sciences such as neuroscience psychology and computer science Others question the ontological status and explanatory usefulness of the notion And finally some try to sketch a general theory of mental representations that could face the challenges outlined in the more critical chapters of the volume
