

Blackboard Baseball

Great way to review for mid-term (or semester) exam

Adaptable to all ages and all levels. [examples will be given for the 5th Class at an intermediate level]

Materials: Blackboard
small magnets (one for each student) blank copy paper--1 sheet per 2 students
Student-generated questions
4 small boxes (for the questions)Labeled 1st, 2nd, 3rd, Home Run

Student-generated Questions:

Two days before you want to play Blackboard Baseball you will have students work in pairs. Give each pair a piece of copy paper and have them fold it into 8 equal sections. Cut the sections apart and fold each section in half. On one half they will write the question and on the other half they will write the answer. On the back of the paper they must write their names and the category of the question. There must be two questions per category.

Categories: 1st Base (easy questions)
2nd Base (a little difficult)
3rd Base (difficult questions)
Home Run (more difficult questions)

Students use their textbooks, class notes, previous quizzes, etc. to come up with the questions and answers.

At the end of the lesson the teacher collects the question cards and for the next lesson they will work as a group to discuss each question. This can be done in a number of ways. One way, for example, is for the teacher to take a question card and give it to the student who wrote it. Those students must present it to the class and the class decides if the answer is correct. As each question/answer is approved, it is put into the proper box: 1st Base, 2nd Base, etc.

Third lesson--Now you're ready to play Blackboard Baseball! Draw a large baseball diamond in the center to the blackboard. Label the bases and draw a box on each side of the diamond to contain Team A (slips of paper with each student's name attached by the small magnet) and Team B's magnets.

1. Divide the class into two teams.
2. Each team member writes their name on a small slip of paper and the teacher puts these up with the magnets that are in the boxes drawn on the blackboard.
3. Explain the rules [modified baseball rules]
 - a. Team A is up to bat first. The first person (name is attached to the magnet) chooses a "hit" (a question). If they choose a 2nd Base question and answer it correctly, move their magnet to 2nd base.
 - b. The next person up to bat chooses a "hit" (question). Perhaps they choose a 3rd base hit. If they answer correctly, they will go to third base. As in normal baseball, the player on
