Plant Adaptations to Phosphate Deficiency Alex Joseph Valentine, Alejandra Zúñiga-Feest, Aleysia Kleinert, Pablo Cornejo, Vagner A. Benedito, 2021-05-18 Phosphate is an essential mineral to all plants and its availability in soils is an increasing challenge for agriculture Phosphate is abundant in soils but its biological availability is often low due to the complexes that it forms with soil minerals and compounds The biological availability of Phosphate is further reduced in acidic soils which represent approximately 40% of earth's arable agricultural lands

Agricultural systems compensate Phosphate deficiency with fertilizers coming from the mining of rock phosphate which is estimated to exhaust within the next 50 years For these reasons Phosphate limitations in natural and agricultural ecosystems is going to become a global problem and we urgently need to better understand how plants respond to Phosphate deficiency

Mergers in Higher Education Leon Cremonini,Saeed Paivandi,K.M. Joshi,2019-05-23 The merger is broadly understood as a fusion of two or more units into one The merger in higher education has received much attention by policy makers as well as individual institutions in many countries as a means to bring higher education reforms The merger of higher education institutions is a visible phenomenon in the recent past but each merger provides a distinctive instance of major strategic change Besides this each merger also shows a distinct set of circumstances actors and characteristics The aims of the mergers have been varied across the nations that include a reduction in fragmentation of institutions economies of scale enhanced efficiency enhanced quality etc Along with disapproval a great amount of literature surrounding the benefits of the merger has emerged over the period of time In spite of ample literature on mergers of higher education institutions there does not appear to be a clear set of financial efficiency or quality parameters to assess the success The majority of the discussions have been narratives In the available literature the mergers have been classified based on their participants stakeholders nature the strategy that drives them their motivation and or the resultant degree of absorption This book discusses the merger experiences and case study of different countries in terms of policies and practices Each country chapter in the above context narrates that in planning the mergers what have been the philosophical economic political legal and cultural implications How the factors such as institutional history geographical distance provincial tradition state regulations the presence of collective bargaining and pertinent financial matters shaped the process as well as the outcome of the mergers The idea of merger and its implementation including process at both government and institutional level have been discussed The outcome assessment also forms the part of the discussion
