Read the following passage and then answer (questions 1-6):

Muhammad Ali was tall, agile, charming, naturally expressive – but also very defiant, aggressive and powerful. He was the unvanquished champion of his people and was determined to be outspoken about what he believed was right. He had tremendous self-belief and no intention to be quiescent about what he felt was wrong or oppressive. That was why he declined to be part of the Vietnam War that his country had spearheaded. He was not going to agree to be part of a war in a far away country and against a people who had done him or his fellow citizens no wrong. He was very much the conscientious objector and had fierce belief in freedom and justice for all the peoples of the world. For his stance, he was banned from his sport at the peak of his career. But he was not to be daunted or subdued or robbed of greatness even by this unjust prohibition.
