After Post Structuralism Interdisciplinarity And Literary Theory Rethinking Theory:

After Poststructuralism Nancy Easterlin, Barbara Riebling, 1993 After Poststructuralism Interdisciplinary and Literary Theory challenges the premises of and suggests new alternatives to the more extreme approaches in current literary theory. The essays collected here examine the trend of theorizing in interdisciplinary studies from the perspective of more rigorous research methodologies with the aim of establishing the validity of interdisciplinary literary studies and broadening the field of inquiry. The collection is divided into three groups. The first examines the question of what interdisciplinarity has meant in literary studies in the last twenty years, the reasons for its ascension as a trend and the inherent theoretical flaws in certain poststructuralist positions. The second explores the relationship of theory and practice while the third group looks ahead to the rich possibilities for thinking and working in practical new directions.

Humanism Betrayed Graham Good, 2001 In Humanism Betrayed Graham Good offers a defence of liberal humanism against the illiberal trends political and intellectual that dominate today's university. He uses the McEwen Report episode at the University of British Columbia to illustrate the current political climate in universities showing how due process was neglected in favour of ideological inquisition. The intellectual trends Good discusses include what he calls the New Sectarianism which rejects individuality in favour of collective identities based on race, gender and sexual preference. Presentism which rejects the notion of history as a continuous narrative in favour of seeing the past as interpretable in any way that suits the political interests of the present and a Hermeneutic of suspicion in which literary texts are seen as masks for discreditable political motives. Good demonstrates that these trends culminate in the prison-like carceral vision of Michel Foucault and his followers, the view that culture is ideology and that culture does not free humans but incarcerates them. Good contrasts this view with the liberal vision of culture and society represented by Northrop Frye, concluding with an analysis of the relationship between anti-humanist theory among academics and the managerial practices of university administrations which he argues neglect or reject basic humanistic values such as free individuality, aesthetic greatness and autonomous inquiry.

King Lear and the Naked Truth Judy Kronenfeld, 1998 Opening the play up to the implications of these contexts and this interpretive theory, she reveals much about Lear, English Reformation religious culture and the state of contemporary criticism.

After Poststructuralism Rosi Braidotti, 2014-09-11 The end of the Cold War revitalised continental philosophy and more particularly interest in it from outside philosophy. After Poststructuralism: Transitions and Transformations analyses the main developments in continental philosophy between 1980-1995, a time of great upheaval and profound social change. The volume ranges across the birth of postmodernism, the differing traditions of France, Germany and Italy, third generation critical theory, radical democracy, postcolonial philosophy, the turn to ethics, feminist philosophies, the increasing engagement with religion and the rise of performativity and post-analytic philosophy. Analyses of the major figures are integrated within the discussion. After Poststructuralism reveals how continental philosophy fuelled by an intense ethical and political desire to reflect

Present Shock in Late Fifth-Century Greece Francis M. Dunn, 2010-02-09 Francis M Dunn's Present Shock in Late Fifth Century Greece examines the widespread social and cultural disorientation experienced by Athenians in a period that witnessed the revolution of 411 B C E and the military misadventures in 413 and 404 a disturbance as powerful as that described in Alvin Toffler's Future Shock The late fifth century was a time of vast cultural and intellectual change ultimately leading to a shift away from Athenians traditional tendency to seek authority in the past toward a greater reliance on the authority of the present At the same time Dunn argues writers and thinkers not only registered the shock but explored ways to adjust to living with this new sense of uncertainty Using literary case studies from this period Dunn shows how narrative techniques changed to focus on depicting a world in which events were no longer wholly predetermined by the past impressing upon readers the rewards and challenges of struggling to find their own way forward Although Present Shock in Late Fifth Century Greece concentrates upon the late fifth century this book's interdisciplinary approach will be of broad interest to scholars and students of ancient Greece as well as anyone fascinated by the remarkably flexible human understanding of time Francis M Dunn is Professor of Classics at the University of California Santa Barbara He is author of Tragedy's End Closure and Innovation in Euripidean Drama Oxford 1996 and coeditor of Beginnings in Classical Literature Cambridge 1992 and Classical Closure Reading the End in Greek and Latin Literature Princeton 1997 In this fascinating study Francis Dunn argues that in late fifth century Athens life became focused on the present that moving instant between past and future Time itself changed new clocks and calendars were developed and narratives were full of suspense accident and uncertainty about things to come Suddenly future shock was now David Konstan John Rowe Workman Distinguished Professor of Classics and the Humanistic Tradition and Professor of Comparative Literature Brown University In this fascinating work Dunn examines the ways in which the Greeks constructed time and then shows how these can shed new light on various philosophical dramatic historical scientific and rhetorical texts of the late fifth century An original and most interesting study Michael Gagarin James R Dougherty Jr Centennial Professor of Classics the University of Texas at Austin Interesting clear and compelling Present Shock in Late Fifth Century Greece analyzes attitudes toward time in ancient Greece focusing in particular on what Dunn terms present shock in which rapid cultural change undermined the authority of the past and submerged individuals in a disorienting present in late fifth century Athens Dunn offers smart and lucid analyses of a variety of complex texts including pre Socratic and sophistic philosophy Euripidean tragedy Thucydides and medical texts making an important contribution to discussions about classical Athenian thought that will be widely read and cited by scholars working on Greek cultural history and historiography Victoria Wohl Associate Professor Department of Classics University of Toronto

International Relations Theories Timothy Dunne, Milja Kurki, Steve Smith, 2007 This cutting edge textbook provides a comprehensive introduction to international relations theory Arguing that theory is central to explaining the dynamics of world politics it includes a wide variety of theoretical positions from the historically dominant traditions to powerful critical voices since the 1980s The editors have brought together a team of international contributors each specializing in a different theory The contributors explain the theoretical background to their positions before showing how and why their theories matter The book opens up space for analysis and debate allowing students to decide which theories they find most useful in explaining and understanding international relations Tabula rasa Steven Pinker,2010-10-07 Attraverso un confronto critico con alcune teorie ancor oggi radicate come quella della Tabula rasa Steven Pinker spiega come sia proprio la comune e peculiare qualità della specie umana fondata sull'attività fisiologica del cervello a rendere possibile la libertà di scelta The SAGE Handbook of Qualitative Research Norman K.
