

APUSH Ch. 14 Questions

US History

- 1) The Industrial Revolution not only further fueled the American economy, but changed the lives of women who up until that point had very limited opportunities in the working world. This in turn impacted family life as I will explain. When the Industrial Revolution was in progress in Britain, women were called factory girls. They were paid nothing and worked long hours with no compensation or pay. Women from the South came and worked for even longer hours in the beginning of the Industrial Revolution. They were not allowed to organize the labor union which eventually allowed them to work and have privileges like food, shelter, and laundry to all. This changed family life because they were now having an excessive number of children and supporting them from working long hours in a physical labor in actually working women. However, these were negative in the sense that women had to work with machines and and thus, industrial became negative for the majority.
- 2) The Irish came over to America primarily due to the potato famine and poverty within the Germanic world for long periods. Despite both came in hopes of more economic opportunity. In addition, another primary was that both Ireland and Germany were suffering from overpopulation and both American cities because they were willing to work for little pay. The Irish were more discriminated in comparison to the Germans because they had more negative stereotypes and looked more different than the Germans to the average American.
- 3) In terms of manufacturing tech, the most important innovation was the production line. Although not a direct machine, these men and women were able to produce more product due to being able to function like a well-oiled machine. In transportation, rails accompanied by the telegraph was important since telegraph allowed rails to be collected and supervised management which both boosted railroad economy. As for business, I want to say that the labor union system was a great idea because it allowed manufacturing workers who benefited the economy and were also given a sense of independence. Although it didn't work in the long term, it was something when it was in place.
