

A sepia-toned photograph of a wooden school desk and chair. The desk is attached to the chair and has a flat top surface. The chair has a simple wooden frame with a slatted seat. In the background, other similar desks and chairs are visible, slightly out of focus. The overall atmosphere is nostalgic and educational.

British Romanticism and the Archive David Kerler, 2022-06-06 Taking its cue from Jacques Derrida's concept of le mal d'archive this study explores the interrelations between the experience of loss melancholia archives and their self-destructive tendencies surfacing in different forms of spectrality in selected poetry of British Romanticism. It argues that the British Romantics were highly influenced by the period's archival fever manifesting itself in various historical material technological and cultural aspects and implicitly reflected and engaged with these discourses and materialities medialities in their works. This is scrutinized by focusing on two basal closely related facets: the subject's feverish desire to archive and the archive's self-destructive tendencies which may also surface in an ambivalent melancholic relishing in the archived object's presence within its absence. Through this new theoretical perspective details and coherence previously gone unnoticed shall be laid bare ultimately contributing to a new and more profound understanding of British Romanticism. It will be shown that the various discursive and material manifestations of archives and archival practices not only echo the period's technological cultural and historical developments along with its incisive experiencing of loss but also fundamentally determine Romantic subjectivity and aesthetics.

Teaching Science Students to Communicate: A Practical Guide Susan Rowland, Louise Kuchel, 2023-04-25 This highly readable book addresses how to teach effective communication in science. The first part of the book provides accessible context and theory about communicating science well and is written by experts. The second part focuses on the practice of teaching communication in science with nuts and bolts lesson plans direct from the pens of practitioners. The book includes over 50 practice chapters each focusing on one or more short teaching activities to target a specific aspect of communication such as writing speaking and listening. Implementing the activities is made easy with class run sheets tips and tricks for instructors signposts to related exercises and theory chapters and further resources. Theory chapters help build instructor confidence and knowledge on the topic of communicating science. The teaching exercises can be used with science students at all levels of education in any discipline and curriculum; the only limitation is a wish to learn to communicate better. Targeted at science faculty members this book aims to improve and enrich communication teaching within the science curriculum so that science graduates can communicate better as professionals in their discipline and future workplace.

Transforming Ethos Rosanne Carlo, 2020-09-01 In Transforming Ethos Rosanne Carlo synthesizes philosophy rhetorical theory and composition theory to clarify the role of ethos and its potential for identification and pedagogy for writing studies. Carlo renews focus on the ethos appeal and highlights its connection to materiality and place as a powerful instrument for writing and its teaching one that insists on the relational and multimodal aspects of writing and makes prominent its inherent ethical considerations and possibilities. Through case studies of professional and student writings as well as narrative reflections Transforming Ethos imagines the ethos appeal as not only connected to style and voice but also a process of habituation related to practices of everyday interaction in places and with things. Carlo addresses how ethos aids in creating identification transcending divisions between the self and other She shows that when writers tell their experiences they create and reveal the ethos appeal and this type of narrative multimodal writing is central to scholarship in rhetoric and composition as well as the teaching of writing In addition Carlo considers how composition is becoming compromised by professionalization particularly through the idea of transfer which is overtaking the critical work of self development with others that a writing classroom should encourage in college students Transforming Ethos cements ethos as an essential term for the modern practice and teaching of rhetoric and places it at the heart of writing studies This book will be significant for students and scholars in rhetoric and composition as well as those interested in higher education more broadly

(Re)Considering What We Know Linda Adler-Kassner, Elizabeth Wardle, 2020-01-10 Naming What We Know Threshold Concepts of Writing Studies published in 2015 contributed to a discussion about the relevance of identifying key concepts and ideas of writing studies Re Considering What We Know continues that conversation while simultaneously raising questions about the ideas around threshold concepts Contributions introduce new concepts investigate threshold concepts as a framework and explore their use within and beyond writing Part 1 raises questions about the ideologies of consensus that are associated with naming threshold concepts of a discipline Contributions challenge the idea of consensus and seek to expand both the threshold concepts framework and the concepts themselves Part 2 focuses on threshold concepts in action and practice demonstrating the innovative ways threshold concepts and a threshold concepts framework have been used in writing courses and programs Part 3 shows how a threshold concepts framework can help us engage in conversations beyond writing studies Re Considering What We Know raises new questions and offers new ideas that can help to advance the discussion and use of threshold concepts in the field of writing studies It will be of great interest to scholars and graduate students in writing studies especially those who have previously engaged with Naming What We Know

checklists projects and visual aids that help them write The page design and innovative visuals make information about writing reading research documentation technology and grammar easy for students to access and understand To accomplish their writing tasks students are taught to ground their rhetorical decisions in the specific context in which they are writing As a further aid to writing and research THE THOMSON HANDBOOK gives students more and better information on using technology than any other handbook Technology Toolboxes throughout as well as two dedicated parts of the book Parts 5 and 6 teach students how to apply technology to their writing tasks whether the task is to write a personal essay a persuasive essay a critical review a photographic essay a technology autobiography a blog a website or more than twenty other different kinds of writing projects Oxford IB Diploma Programme: English A: Language and Literature Course Companion Rob Allison,Brian Chanen,2013-03-21 Written by the authors of the current syllabus this book will help address all the requirements of the new course at both standard and higher level It will actively engage students in language and literature allowing them to become informed and critical learners through understanding and producing language of a wide range of works from poetry to political speeches to simple advertisements or graffiti The range of exciting literature offers a fresh look at unfamiliar texts so that students are able to confidently encounter works and topics and develop and communicate understanding Through interesting activities and model works students will learn about the most current approaches to critical language in areas such as mass communications language in cultural contexts and literature in line with the new syllabus Support is given for the assessment including the oral commentary The most comprehensive and accurate match to the most recent syllabus developed with the IB and written by IB workshop leaders and authors of the syllabus Fully captures the IB spirit thoroughly incorporating fresh and topical TOK to drive independent thought Comprehensive support for language in a cultural context building international mindedness in a linguistic context Current diverse and topical text extracts from Wikileaks to graffiti to advertisements will resonate with learners The best integration of the IB philosophy with evocative activities to help students think creatively and discerning questions to drive critical thought Packed with accurate assessment support directly from the IB including model answers assessments advice and more completely aligned to the new assessment Understanding and Creating Digital Texts Richard Beach,Chris M. Anson,Lee-Ann Kastman Breuch,Thomas Reynolds,2014-10-16 Given the increased use of digital reading and writing tools in the classroom this book provides secondary and college English language arts teachers with activities and classroom examples for using a range of different digital tools blogs wikis websites annotations Twitter mapping forum discussions etc to engage students in understanding and creating digital texts It therefore integrates reading and writing instruction through goal driven activities supported by uses and affordances of digital tools This book also provides a framework for designing these activities that encourage students to define purpose and audience make connections between digital texts and people collaborate with others employ alternative modes of communication and gain new perspectives and constructing identities practices that are linked to addressing the high school English Language Arts Common Core State Standards The book also describes ways to use digital tools to support these practices for example using digital tools to foster students collaborative reading and writing The book also describes use of digital feedback and e portfolio tools to foster students reflection on their uses of these practices

Lettura e letteratura Carmela Lombardi,2004 Beginnings of Rhetoric and Composition, Including Practical Exercises in English Adams Sherman Hill,2015-06-25 Excerpt from Beginnings of Rhetoric and Composition Including Practical Exercises in English While I have been at work on this book I have had constantly in mind the needs of pupils in secondary schools who are learning to express themselves with the pen Toward supplying these needs little can in my judgment be contributed by treatises on the theory or the science of rhetoric by cut and dried methods of instruction or by diagrams skeleton essays or other mechanical devices A young writer will not do so well when he is helped along a smooth and well travelled highway of commonplace as when he is encouraged to strike out a path for himself The best teacher of English composition is he who stimulates his pupils to put their natural selves into all that they write With this object in view he will provide for them or will tell them how to provide for themselves subjects which are closely connected with their work or their play and in which they take a living interest he will give them freedom in the treatment of their material and he will help them to remove obstacles small or great that lie between what they think and what they write In the removal of obstacles between thought and expression this book will I hope be of service for it aims to show a young writer how to present what he has to say in the best English within his reach and in a form adapted to his purpose About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works

Composition and Rhetoric (Classic Reprint) Charles Swain Thomas,2015-07-16 Excerpt from Composition and Rhetoric The purpose of this book is to help the young student to write more clearly and more forcefully Our aim is not to train writers in the finer graces Of language That accomplishment depends upon the individual student and lies beyond our power We shall be content if those who come to our book may receive a fresh desire to use with greater precision the simple English speech which is our priceless heritage We have tried to keep this book free from the technical word and phrase because we are persuaded that good Writing depends upon the simple essentials Therefore the main stress has been placed upon the word sentence and paragraph Remembering then that the plastic mind of the young student is before us with experiences and likings peculiar to him we have tried to furnish that mind with clear and simple directions with examples chosen from good writers and exercises which will test the student s understanding of the principles of writing About the Publisher

A Modern Composition and Rhetoric Lewis Worthington Smith, 2017-12-21 Excerpt from A Modern Composition and Rhetoric Brief Course Containing the Principles of Correct English for Schools Nearly two thousand years ago Quintilian defined rhetoric as the art of speaking well Had he lived in the present age he would undoubtedly have said the art of speaking and of writing well No better phrase can be found to describe the true function of rhetoric to day Previous to the last decade it was regarded as an ornamental study abounding in theory and subtle distinctions of diction and style With the development of the study of English in the schools came an awakening to the true value of rhetoric and its relation to the study of literature and composition To day rhetoric and composition are inseparably associated in teaching the methods of simple direct and accurate expression the principle of one being supplemented by the abundant practice of the other About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works

Rhetoric and Composition As Intellectual Work Gary A. Olson, 2002 In response to those who insist that rhetoric and composition should remain only a service discipline editor Gary A Olson's Rhetoric and Composition as Intellectual Work demonstrates that it already is an intellectual discipline that for at least a quarter of a century the field has developed an impressive tradition of intellectual work in a remarkable assortment of subject areas Rhetoric and Composition as Intellectual Work suggests the diversity of intellectual projects that have and will continue to make rhetoric and composition more than a service to the university more than a field devoted solely to improving writing pedagogy and more than a preliminary to literary studies This collection of nineteen essays by some of the most distinguished scholars in the discipline illustrates that rhetoric and composition has much to contribute to the intellectual milieu of the contemporary university as the field continues to push its disciplinary borders and discover new sites of investigation
