A Basic Theory Of Neuropsychanalysis By Bernstein W M 2011 Paperback:

A Basic Theory of Neuropsychanalysis W.M. Bernstein, 2018-05-08 This book introduces a theoretical framework for studying the mind. Specifically, an attempt is made to frame ideas from psychoanalysis and cognitive social psychology so that they can be taken readily into a realm of neurobiology. Psychoanalytic Theory still represents a very comprehensive theory of the human mind. It includes cognitive, emotional, and behavioral variables, plus the idea of unconscious mental operations. The pleasure principle and repetition compulsion were Freud's most general concepts of mental functioning. These concepts are renovated to get them on the same page with ideas from social cognition and neurobiology. The Realisation of Concepts W.M. Bernstein, 2018-05-11 There has recently been a flurry of theoretical activity in affective neuroscience and neuropsychanalysis. This book argues that the ability to integrate biological and psychological levels of understanding is inhibited by two important issues. First is the assumption made by most theorists that physical and mental phenomena are essentially different, the Hard Problem. Second is the ambiguity of the widely used Affect Concept. Ideas about the autonomic nervous system are integrated with those from the author's previous text, A Basic Theory of Neuropsychanalysis. The Realization of Concepts is based on four key assumptions: 1. There is no Hard Problem. 2. Motivational theory and cognitive theory can be integrated to create more valid models of body, brain, and mind interactions. 3. Affect Concepts are superfluous and work to inhibit theory integration. 4. Affect theory developed as a compromise formation in response to radical reductionism.

Cinema and Language Loss Tijana Mamula, 2013 Cinema and Language Loss provides the first sustained exploration of the relationship between linguistic displacement and visuality in the filmic realm, examining in depth both its formal expressions and theoretical implications. Combining insights from psychoanalysis, philosophy, and film theory, the author argues that the move from one linguistic environment to another profoundly destabilizes the subject's relation to both language and reality, resulting in the search for a substitute for language in vision itself, a reversal as it were of speaking into seeing. The dynamics of this shift are particularly evident in the works of many displaced filmmakers, which often manifest a conflicted interaction between language and vision, and through this question, the signifying potential and the perceptual ambiguities of cinema itself. In tracing the encounter between cinema and language loss across a wide range of films from Billy Wilder's Sunset Boulevard to Chantal Akerman's News from Home to Michael Haneke's Caché, Mamula reevaluates the role of displacement in postwar Western film and makes an original contribution to film theory and philosophy based on a reconsideration of the place of language in our experience and understanding of cinema. On Freud's The Unconscious

Salman Akhtar, Mary Kay O'Neil, 2018-03-08 If there ever was one word that could represent the essence of Freud's work, that word would be unconscious. Indeed, Freud himself regarded his 1915 paper The Unconscious as central to clarifying the fundamentals of his metapsychology. The paper delineates the topographic model of the mind and spells out the concepts of primary and secondary process thinking, thing and word presentations, timelessness of the unconscious, condensation, and symbolism unconscious problem solving and the relationship between the system Ucs and repression Examining these proposals in the light of contemporary psychoanalytic theory as well as from the perspective of current neurophysiology and ethology nine distinguished analysts take Freud's ideas further in ways that have implications for both psychoanalytic theory and practice

Psychology in the Fiction of Henry James Teckyoung Kwon, 2024-04-15 Psychology in the Fiction of Henry James Memory Emotions and Empathy focuses on the study of consciousness also examines new ways to read fiction from a scientific perspective one that draws upon early psychological theories and recent neuroscientific research Freud and William James stand together as intellectual pioneers who contributed to our understanding of the revolutionary concept of consciousness Meanwhile Henry James devoted his life to the development of narrative methods that would extend the realm of Realism a pursuit that led him to draw upon consciousness and experience alike When examining these three figures the key components of consciousness that they shared in common turn out to be memory emotions and empathy This volume deals with theoretical works on those three concepts by the works of Freud William James and recent neuroscientists as well as two narrative techniques Henry James devised to represent consciousness ghosts and Free Indirect Discourse Additionally this book is an analysis of Henry's major fictions to show how those scientific terms have been used to achieve a fresh reading of his novels Overall this volume demonstrates that the three components are elements in the dual aspect monism that Freud proposed earlier
