Architecture For Rapid Change And Scarce Resources:

Architecture for Rapid Change and Scarce Resources Sumita Singha, 2013-07-03 Architects development practitioners and designers are working in a global environment and issues such as environmental and cultural sustainability matter more than ever Past interactions and interventions between developed and developing countries have often been unequal and inappropriate We now need to embrace fresh design practices based on respect for diversity and equality participation and empowerment This book explores what it means for development activists to practise architecture on a global scale and provides a blueprint for developing architectural practices based on reciprocal working methods The content is based on real situations through extended field research and contacts with architecture schools and architects as well as participating NGOs It demonstrates that the ability to produce appropriate and sustainable design is increasingly relevant whether in the field of disaster relief longer term development or wider urban contexts both in rich countries and poor countries The Architecture of Rapid Change and Scarce Resources Maurice Mitchell, Open House International Association, 2008

Learning from Delhi Written by Maurice Mitchell, Shamooin Patwari, 2017-03-02 The inflexibility of modern urban planning which seeks to determine the activities of urban inhabitants and standardise everyday city life is challenged by the unstoppable organic growth of illegal settlements In rapidly expanding cities issues of continuity with local traditions local conditions and local ways of working are juxtaposed with those of abrupt change due to emergency reaction to modernity environmental degradation global market forces and global technological imperatives to make efforts to control by physical planning redundant as soon as they are enacted In most third world cities there is little social welfare and almost no attempt at social housing Urban Challenges and Urban Design Approaches for Resource-Efficient and

Climate-Sensitive Urban Design in the MENA Region Elke Pahl-Weber, Ohlenburg, Holger, Seelig, Sebastian, Kuhla von Bergmann, Nadine, Schäfer, Rudolf, 2013-06-10 In an era defined by climate change huge resource consumption a lack of social cohesion rapidly accelerating technological innovations economic shifts and the transformation of political systems solutions must be pursued at every level of action This book shows how solutions from urban design and planning can by integrating the approaches of multiple disciplines be the first steps toward envisioning the sustainable energy efficient and climate sensitive city of the future This book is compiled for readers from a range of professional backgrounds Its intended audience includes the government bodies municipalities urban planners engineers architects civil servants and citizens who are part of urban development from initiation through implementation The facts and findings presented herein are relevant to any national or international debate concerning urban development which aims to create sustainable resource efficient and climate sensitive urbanization processes The text and visuals of this book are intended to serve as a comprehensive decision support tool taking into account that current and future urban challenges and planning tasks can only be tackled through an interlinked and stakeholder driven iterative process As a result of the Young Cities research project this book acts

Business and Dynamic Change Keith D. Swenson, Frank F. Kowalkowski, Michael G. Miller, William Ulrich, Gil Laware, Brian K. Seitz, Martin Klubeck, Dr Michael Poulin, Jude Chagas Pereira, Michael Blaha, J. Bryan Lail, Patrik Maltusch, Darius Silingas, David Rice, Michael S. Connor, 2019-10-23 The chapters in this book are contributed by visionaries who see the need for business leaders to define their organizations to be agile and robust in the face of external changes The goal is to build something knowing that it will be changed so that you have no need to go back to the metaphorical drawing board for every market condition change In his Foreword Keith Swenson asks you Consider what it means to say that the business will adapt in the face of external changes The business architecture is not simply a model that specifies how to run the business for now and the next few years The people making the architecture cannot know the pressures that will be faced Instead it must support leaders and executives within the organization to make consistently good decisions on how to adapt their practices The architecture is not a plan that anticipates all the decisions instead it embodies a set of core guiding principles that enable decision making Understand that the term business used this way is not limited to for profit enterprises but includes all forms of organizations that have a strategic need to accomplish goals Pragmatically speaking business architecture is the conceptual understanding that people have on why particular choices were made in forming the organization in a particular way This book will help you understand your options and how to relate them to your own organization

Loose Fit City Maurice Mitchell, Bo Tang, 2017-09-22 Drawn from a lifetime s experience of shared city making from the bottom up within rapidly expanding urban metabolisms in Delhi Mumbai Agra Kathmandu West Africa and London Loose Fit City is about the ways in which city residents can learn through making to engage with the dynamic process of creating their own city It looks at the nature and processes involved in loosely fitting together elements made by different people at different scales and times with different intentions into a civic entity which is greater than the sum of its parts It shows how bottom up learning through making can create a more vibrant and democratic city than the more flattened top down centrally planned factory made version Loose Fit City provides a new take on the subject of architecture defined as the study and practice of fitting together physical and cultural topography It provides a comprehensive view of how the fourth dimension of time fits loosely together with the three spatial dimensions at different scales within the human horizon so as to layer meaning and depth within the places and metabolism of the city fabric

Urban Modernity in the Contemporary Gulf Roberto Fabbri, Sultan Sooud Al-Qassemi, 2021-09-27 Urban Modernity in the Contemporary Gulf offers a timely and engaging discussion on architectural production in the modernization era in the Arabian Peninsula Focusing on the 20th century as a starting point the book explores the display of transnational architectural practices resulting in different notions of locality cosmopolitanism and modernity Contextually with an eye on the present the book reflects on the initiatives that recently re engaged with the once ville moderne which meanwhile lost its pivotal function and meaning A city within a bigger city the urban fabric produced during the modernization era has the potential to narrate the social growth East West dynamics and citizens memories of the recent past Reading obsolescence as an opportunity the book looks into this topic from a cross country perspective It maps reads and analyses the notion of modern heritage in relation to the contemporary city and looks beyond physical transformations to embrace cultural practices and strategies of urban re appropriation It interrogates the value of modern architecture in the non West examining how academic research is expanding the debate on Gulf urbanism and describes how practices of reuse could foster rethinking neglected areas also addressing land consumption in the GCC Presenting a diverse and geographically inclusive authorship which combines established and up and coming researchers in the field this is an important reference for academics and upper level students interested in heritage studies post colonial urbanism and architecture in the non West The Open Access version of this book available at www.taylorfrancis.com has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives 4.0 license

Sustainability and Privilege Gabriel Arboleda, 2022-05-13 Social design the practice of designing for poverty relief is one of the most popular fields in contemporary architecture Its advocates focusing on the architect s creativity and good intentions are overwhelmingly laudatory while its detractors concerned with the experience of its beneficiaries have dismissed it as an expression of cultural imperialism Placed midway between innocuous celebration and radical critique Sustainability and Privilege highlights the lessons that can be learned from social design s current limitations and proposes a feasible way to improve this practice In this broad ranging account enlivened by fieldwork and case studies Gabriel Arboleda contends that social design s invocation of sustainability often serves to marginalize and displace vulnerable populations through projects that involve experimentation of faulty alternative technologies or that result in so called green gentrification or that impose untoward economic and other burdens Arboleda is fiercely critical of the way social design has been carried out in impoverished regions of the world most notably in Africa and Latin America In addressing the challenges posed by issues of privilege in social design s use of sustainability the book proposes a new interdisciplinary approach called ethnoarchitecture arguing for a simpler open ended and stakeholder driven process that eliminates the casual imposition of the architect s ideas on vulnerable populations foregrounding the people s voices experience and input in social design practice
